Conservation of wool won't bother these pretty mermaids for they have found something that should be of interest to others preparing for the summer bathing season. The girls, June Sitarr, left, and Emily Fabian, whipped these together from odds and ends around the house. Miss Sitarr's swim suit once did duty as a shower curtain. Miss Fabian's suit is made from an old pair of gingham curtains. The girls are shown on the beach at Seaside Heights, N. J.

Hearing on Early Potato Grades Set

Whether separate grades will be established for early potatoes produced in Oregon will be determined at a hearing to be held June 3 at 8 p. m. at the Boulevard grade hall in Ontario. The hearing is called by the state department of agriculture and will be conducted by Frank McKenon, plant division chief.

Such grades, if established, will follow probably the pattern of the Idaho grades on early potatoes in order to give Oregon early potato growers, centered chiefly in Malheur county, a better break in the markets across the state line.

At a recent conference which Gov. Charles A. Sprague called between agriculture officials of Idaho and Oregon the consensus was that the situation for potato growers in Malheur county would be improved if Oregon would adopt grades comparable to the Idaho standard and utility designations for the early deal. Such grades would be effective during July, August and September of each year.
