

Interstate Situation of Hop Industry on Coast Stressed At Agreement Hearing Here

The Oregon advisory committee, administering the hop marketing agreement program in Oregon, Monday announced here election of nominees to serve during the next two-year period in the event a new marketing program is placed in operation.

Nominees elected are: District No. 1 — C. H. Eisman, Grants Pass; District No. 2 — L. H. Christofferson, Eugene; District No. 3 — William Krebs, Jefferson; District No. 4 — Donald P. McCarthy, Independence; District No. 5 — W. L. Fry, Silverton; District No. 6 — Romeo Gouley, Brooks; District No. 7 — P. H. Hughes, Dallas; District No. 8 — Drexel White, Woodburn; District No. 10 — Ray Kerr, St. Paul; District No. 11 — Ferd Hartwick, Banks; District No. 12 — Hobart Mitchell, Portland.

W. H. Anderson, Eugene, and William Krebs were designated as grower-member nominees to the proposed control board, with Romeo Gouley and Donald P. McCarthy as alternates.

The hop industry on the Pacific coast is an interstate industry. Testifying before United States department of agriculture officials in a public hearing on a proposed new federal hop marketing agreement at the Marion hotel Monday, C. W. Paulus, managing agent of the state hop control board, declared that over 99 per cent of the hops grown in Oregon are sold by the growers for shipment outside the state.

"Only a very small quantity of hops grown in Oregon is used in Oregon for the manufacture of malt beverage, or for any other purpose," said Paulus.

The hearing is providing hop growers, dealers and brewers representatives an opportunity to consider provisions of a proposed new federal hop marketing agreement covering the states of Washington, Oregon, California and Idaho.

Forecasting a production cost of more than 32 cents per pound to hop growers in 1942, G. W. Kuhlman, Oregon State college economist, stated a recent survey conducted by the university experiment station indicated $135.42 per acre as the cost of labor used in producing hops during 1941. The survey, covering 93 Oregon hop growers, showed the total per acre cost of production figure to be $215.45 with an average yield of 840 pounds, Kuhlman said.

G. R. Hoerner, department of agriculture plant pathologist stationed at Corvallis, told of experimental work being carried on to develop new hop varieties that would be resistant to mildew and other hop diseases.

Following conclusion of testimony taking in Salem tonight, the hearing will adjourn and be resumed next Friday at Santa Rosa, Calif.

Many Picker Calls Canceled

Little prospect of waste in the mid-valley strawberry crop was seen Monday at the federal employment office in Salem where calls to cancel orders for pickers exceeded requests for help from growers in the immediate city area.

First day of the first full week of picking found plenty of pickers available for berry fields within bicycling distance of Salem and for those where transportation was provided, according to W. H. Baillie, manager of the Salem office of the employment service.

Paying 2 1/2 cents per pound with a 1/2 cent bonus to workers remaining throughout the season, growers could expect to secure a good grade of help, it was declared.

chamber of commerce quarters, 147 North Liberty street.

Arrangements also are being made for club bus service to nearby communities, with a group of Gervais workmen the first to enroll.

The McClean Transportation company, operator of the Salem school bus system, has offered to cooperate by leasing its equipment for the summer. An operator from Echo also has brought one large bus here for club use.

"We hope eventually to offer to arrange club service directly to the operating centers of all contractors at Camp Adair," Cochran said.

As well as for bus service, the chamber is receiving an increasing number of calls for various forms of housing, particularly for families and groups of individual workers. Cochran said many more registrations of housing facilities, being taken by Mrs. O. K. DeWitt for the Salem Realty board's defense housing committee, at the chamber, were needed.

Hitler Offense Plans Told

a matter of doubt. One must not forget that the German representative in Turkey is wily Ambassador Von Papen, for whom diplomatic intrigue is duck soup. Despite innumerable rumors of his early retirement—probably usually started by the nazis themselves to confound the enemy—"Franz" Papen has been quietly at work softening up the Turks.

But Germany is taking no chances. One of our repatriates from the Drottningholm who came from Greece reported that Germany was feverishly at work on the Greek islands in the Ionian sea building barges with which to effect landings in the Dardanelles. Some 4000 German workers, he estimated, were engaged in this construction project, besides all necessary native Greek help.

The port of Piraeus, he also reported, was teeming with activity again, and all sorts of construction was under way. When I visited it a year ago, following in the wake of the conquering German armies, it was a scene of death and destruction.

The curtain of silence which the nazis have dropped over Greece is thick and impervious. It is therefore hard to verify this repatriate's story.

It seems decidedly to make sense, however.

which it was to pay has been indefinitely postponed. Salary of one assistant, the sum of $1000 (from an original estimate of $1250) for books, the entire allocation for vacation help and a portion of the supply moneys were deleted from the public library items.

Cuts in street cleaning department expenses were achieved by removal of one man, the fund once allocated for vacation help and the cutting of truck and sweeper expense.

The $1000 previously approved by the budget committee for work on the South River road was deleted, with the explanation that the county has allocated nothing for its share in the work and the suggestion that it might be made a federal project as an access road to the containment.

Because it was understood the junior band is disbanding, that entire item was stricken out.

A $400 reduction in the city's share of the health service office was arbitrary as an economy move and was to cover all items.

Supplies and maintenance for practically every department took cuts.

Spokesman for a budget committee group opposed to adoption of the committee's report as a whole, L. F. LeGarie urged adoption of the department.

Letters from officers of organizations represented on the city Council of Social Agencies and a separate resolution from directors and officers of the city YWCA urged reconsideration of the city's share in a playground fund to meet emergency conditions.

At their new home, approximately 35 miles south of Klamath Falls, the erstwhile Willamette valley folk will find federal housing units containing furniture and household equipment with the exception of bedding and linens, together with an opportunity to turn their ingenuity as agriculturists into "making the desert bloom," those in charge of the evacuation declared. Prospects that experiments with irrigation and soil aids might make of that area a garden spot such as they are leaving were held out to the Japanese families representing in some cases four generations.

Luggage limitations were largely as to the type of articles to be taken, it was said, with few curtailments as to quantity required among Japanese of this area. NEW YORK, June 1—(AP)—Mass British air raids on Cologne killed "in the neighborhood of 20,000" persons and injured another 54,000, the New York Times said Monday night in reporting "private advices from competent neutral observers in Berlin."

Special detachments of sanitary forces of the German army have been sent to the Rhineland city, the paper declared, to aid municipal officials in preventing spread of disease in the present warm weather.

Three-fifths of the approximately 800,000 residents of Cologne are being evacuated to the Munich area to be housed in emergency barracks erected in the last 24 hours, the paper said.

In addition and despite official orders against traveling the populations of other Rhineland cities, including Aachen, Dusseldorf, Wuppertal and Mainz, have begun mass migration to avoid future bombardments, the Times asserted.

The Times said "confirmation has been received" that the world-famous cathedral at Cologne was not damaged in the rain of bombs.

(The casualty figures differed greatly from official German reports which said that 139 civilians had been killed.)

The Times said its information had been relayed from Europe Monday night.

on the continent said that already the homeless by hundreds of thousands were streaming eastward from the Cologne area, away from the whole vulnerable Rhineland.

A glimpse of the striking power already built up by the RAF was seen in a disclosure that new crews had received their orders for a second tremendous onslaught Monday night when bad weather closed in and restricted operations.

Germany cried out for reprisals, but the worst the Luftwaffe was able to deal out Monday night was a three-wave attack by 25 to 50 planes on the southeastern England cathedral city of Canterbury.

The sharp counter-attack against the quiet little town left hundreds homeless and wrecked a number of historic buildings including some damages to churches, but casualties were described unofficially as light.

(The fate of the great cathedral of Canterbury was not disclosed but the British said it obviously was the target at which the nazis struck.)

Berrymen Ask McNary Help

Growers Gloomy in Talk About Prices, Government Aid

He said if estimates he had made based on government price records proved correct, 100 per cent parity for strawberries would be reached at a price between 7 1/2 and 8 1/2 cents a pound.

Their resolution asked the secretary of agriculture "to correct the depressing actions of OPA by requiring a compliance with section 3 of the emergency price control act of 1942, to the effect that growers receive 110 per cent of the parity price for berries produced by them."

While only strawberry prices were considered at the meeting, George Tate, chairman of Sublimity, said it was felt that any remedial action obtained would reflect on cane berry crops and other fruit.

Growers complained that they had been led by Edmond F. Maher, regional price administration representative, to believe they might immediately expect assurance of a subsidy or some other means of augmenting the prices the packers can pay, but had since been advised only that "there is no information at this time."

A hat-passing to pay expenses incurred by the growers' committee raised a $62.50 fund "for berry defense."
