Mules Burned — A pair of mules was burned to death, city firemen said, in the fire which early Thursday afternoon destroyed a barn on the South River road farm of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanzen. The Hanzens were away and the man employed on the place was eating lunch when a neighbor saw smoke and flames and went over to inform him the barn was afire. The neighbor was able to remove a cow and 1 1/2 dozen chickens from the burning structure. The fire was believed to have had its start in a spark blown from a brush head which was burning nearby. Firemen were called from the South Salem station when the residence was apparently endangered. They said the barn was in ashes when they arrived.

Owen Asserts Groups Ready

Oregon's civilian defense organization is in readiness for any emergency, Jerrold Owen, state civilian defense coordinator, reported to Gov. Charles A. Sprague Thursday. Owen said control centers are operating on a 24-hour basis in every county west of the Cascade mountains while in eastern Oregon the citizens have sent word that they are anxious to cooperate with military authorities in enforcing blackouts or coping with other situations arising from the war. The expected special alert Wednesday night following the Japanese attack on Dutch Harbor failed to materialize anywhere on the Pacific coast, Owen said.

May Record Month For Marriages

ALBANY — During the month of May, 31 couples were granted marriage licenses by the Linn county clerk. This was 18 more than were issued during the same month in 1941. It was also eight more than were issued for any month of 1941, the highest number being granted in any one month of last year being 23, with June and September tying this number.
