Jury Asks Speed—The county court was urged by Ed Jory Thursday to help speed up arrangements for the Salem rationing board to obtain more convenient quarters. He said present quarters were too small and causing unnecessary delay in issuance of sugar permits for canning. The court has indicated it would pay up to one-half the rent of the board's quarters if the city would pay the other half.

Debt of Salem To Willamette Told to Club

Desire of the founders of Willamette university to perpetuate the institution is responsible for the creation of Salem as a town and city, Dr. Robert Moulton Gatte, professor of political science on the campus, told the Salem Lions club in effect Thursday noon.

The professor, whose book telling the story of Willamette is expected to go to press in a few months, said a study of old records showed that the university's trustees laid out early Salem and retained an agent to sell lots as a means of financing the school. Their donations of land for public and commercial purposes included Willson "avenue," intended as a civic center such as the commons of New England communities; the grounds for the Southern Pacific station, the right-of-way for the mill ditch which provided the power for Salem's early industries, and one-half of 12th street, this donation made with the stipulation that it be named Lee avenue.

Compared with colleges and universities of the eastern states and of Europe, Willamette is young, but, from the viewpoint of the country in which it has existed, it is old, Dr. Gatte said. He termed as inaccurate the frequent claim that Willamette was founded by a group of early missionaries aboard the Lausanne somewhere in the Pacific ocean. The correct date, he declared, is February 1, 1842, and the place, Salem.

Two of the perpetual scholarships given by founders of Willamette in exchange for contributions of $500 each are still being used, Dr. Gatte noted.

Legion Makes '4th' Plans

"Fourth of July celebration as usual, with restrictions of course," is the program to be sponsored this year by Capital post No. 9, American Legion, Military authorities have given the green light for the annual celebration, although they indicated such a program may be cancelled if necessary, according to conditions.

The usual fireworks at night are definitely not a part of this year's plans, but a full day program is being outlined by the Legion committee.

Don Madison, general chairman of the celebration committee, said Thursday that this year's Fourth celebration should be one of the best in years regardless of the restrictions confronting such.

The Legion celebration committee is composed of Madison, Col. Carle Abrams and Harry Holt.

Funeral services for Otis Benjamin Darling, 71, late resident of route two, Salem, who died Thursday, will be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. from the Walker & Howell chapel with Elder N. C. Erntson officiating. He had been a resident of Salem since 1918.

Mr. Darling was born in 1871 at Waterloo, Wis., and moved with his parents to Mt. Hope, Wis., when 19 years of age. In March, 1901, he married Nellie Halferty and in March, 1916, he brought his family to Salem. He was an active member of the Seventh Day Adventist church and held an official position with that church up to the time of his last illness.

Survivors include the widow, two daughters, Mrs. Grace Forchuk of Portland, Mrs. Lila Peterson of Salem; one brother, William D. Darling, Salem; one sister, Mrs. W. P. Spence, Salem; two aunts, Mrs. Harriett Glaskin, Salem and Mrs. W. H. Kendle of Montrose, Calif., and two grandchildren. Burial will be in Belcrest Memorial park.

USO Okehed For Salem

Tinkham Gilbert, president of the Salem United Service Organizations council, received official notice Thursday of approval of operation of a recreational center for service men in Salem.

A telegram from the San Francisco regional office advised that all arrangements had been approved for operation of a center to be rented for the city by the federal security agency. It asked Gilbert to send a lease to national USO headquarters in New York for signature.

The FSA proposes to lease the Raymond Motor service building at 352 North High street. Cost of operation and salaries of personnel for the center are to be paid by the USO, with the city expected in turn to make a contribution to the national USO fund through the impending war chest campaign.

Former Resident Of Salem Dies In Wenatchee

Funeral services for Dr. J. H. Winstanley, formerly of Salem, were attended in Wenatchee, Wash., by his brother-in-law, W. T. Jenks of Salem, and Jenks' daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stuller of Lafayette. Dr. Winstanley, a prominent citizen of Wenatchee, was stricken at a meeting of that city's chamber of commerce. He was 59 years of age.

Dr. Winstanley was a native of England but came to the US at an early age. He received his early schooling in Salem and later attended the University of Oregon, North Pacific Dental college in Portland and Vanderbilt university school of dentistry at Nashville, Tenn. He practiced dentistry at Spokane, Waterville and later Wenatchee.

Besides being a member of various civic organizations, Dr. Winstanley was a past president of the Washington State Dental society and a member of the Washington state planning commission. He is survived by his widow and two sons.

Laxity in Moving Of Scrap Metals Brings Warning

Scrap rubber and scrap metals are not moving into war production activities fast enough, says Uncle Sam, and he is going to find out why.

This is the information Claude I. Sersanous, chairman of the state salvage committee, has received from Washington. Sersanous declared Thursday his office had received word from the war production board, to the effect that a threatened bottleneck in scrap metal dealers' yards in some areas may force the government to request steel mills to buy scrap metals direct, and prepare it in their own yards for the furnaces.

"Scrap dealers have been lax in handling the accelerated load of metals, rubber, etc., which has been thrown on the market in this patriotic public drive in the all-out war effort. The threatened bottleneck can and will be eliminated when the mills buy and prepare their scrap in their own yards and it may be necessary to see that this is done unless the usual methods of scrap handling can deal with the problem."

According to Sersanous the situation relative to rubber is growing more tense due to the fact that the rubber tire carcasses are being accumulated in many yards according to a survey made by the state salvage committee workers, which now include some 2000 county and unit committee members, who are doing their utmost to move scrap metal and rubber at this time.
