New Magazine Is on Sale

A new quarterly magazine, "Recipe Digest," made its appearance on the newsstands last week. It is published by the Parents' Institute. The first issue of the magazine contains 288 selected recipes from 78 nationally known cookbooks, chosen on the basis of their being "delicious, nutritious and economical." The magazine has been edited by Mrs. Martha Stewart Tupper, outstanding home economist, in cooperation with Mrs. Barbara Daly Anderson, director of the consumer service bureau of Parents' Magazine.

The pages of "Recipe Digest" are perforated into 3-by-5-inch slips so that the recipes may be easily removed and filed to be kept handy in the kitchen and added to as subsequent issues are published.
