Guatemala, Central American republic allied with the United Nations in the war, celebrates an anniversary of the 1871 revolution with a big parade, featured by the appearance of U. S. soldiers. The picture was taken on Sixth avenue, principal thoroughfare, in Guatemala City, the capital. More than 70 per cent of the population of Guatemala is pure Indian.

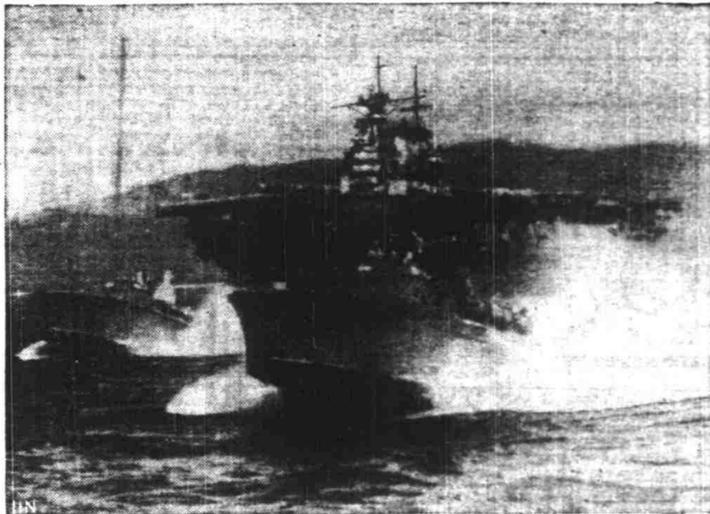

A new plastic tube for shaving cream, tooth paste and other such uses, to replace those of tin, now needed for the war effort, has been invented by Harry Waters of New York. Waters holds up a giant model of the new tube in the picture above. There is no metal in Waters' tube.

According to the state department in Washington, President Roosevelt twice proposed to Vichy that seven French warships in Alexandria, Egypt, harbor be removed and twice the proposals were rejected. The rejections came in face of a warning that unless the proposals were accepted the British would be justified in ordering the warships out of port through the near-by Suez canal, and if disregarded, in destroying the vessels to prevent their falling into enemy hands. The proposals were made as Axis forces drove toward Alexandria, vital British naval base. The ships, shown above, have been immobilized at Alexandria since the Franco-German armistice in 1940.

Charged with conspiracy to evade the selective service act and the alien registration law, these three sectional officers of the German-American Bund are shown in New York after pleading not guilty in federal court. They were ordered held in bail of $10,000 each. Left to right are Josef Belohlavek, Cleveland Bund leader; Walter F. Schneller, Jr., Erie, Pa., leader, and Joseph Bachmajer, organizer of the Bund in Erie.

If you have a vacation coming up and find your clothes are in a dilapidated condition, hire you to a neighborhood sewing center and learn to make a few smart garments in the new trend, the pegtop, accented hipline and slim, tapering silhouette. A good choice of styles is the tomato red cotton, side-buttoned jerkin, left, that goes over a long-sleeved blouse of white scroll cotton print, and looks equally smart when worn with the beige slacks jacket. The slacks shown center are simply tailored and made with narrow self fabric belt. The third model is an example of how the coat of the slacks suit is worn with the blouse and skirt for city days. It makes an ideal suit outfit.

Diplomatic relations between the U. S. and Finland are nearing the breaking point following a U. S. order to Finland to close all its consular offices in the U. S. before Aug. 1. A state department announcement said the Finnish government now aligned with Germany in the war against Russia, had "undermined the basis upon which American consular representation was maintained in Finland" and had denied American consular officers their treaty rights. Above, Hjalmar J. Procoppe, right, Finland's minister to the U. S., is seen in his Washington office with U. V. Toivola, counselor of the legation, after hearing of the order.

With so many men either working in war industries or in the service, San Francisco is meeting a lack of male help on street car lines with women conductors. Above, Erma Charboneau, 27, one of three women now being trained for the job, wears the overseas cap that will be part of her uniform.

If you can read Japanese, you will discover that this is a list of American prisoners of war sent by the Japanese to the central agency for prisoners of war in Geneva, Switzerland. The photo was released by the American Red Cross. (L. I. N. Phonophoto)

Pat Rooney II, 62-year-old veteran singing and tap-dancing star of the vaudeville stage, and his former daughter-in-law, Janet Reade, 32, one-time Ziegfeld Follies performer, are to be married. Both are shown above. Miss Reade was divorced from Rooney's son, Pat Rooney III, 31, at Concord, N. H., July 6. Miss Reade married young Pat in 1935. Reached at his South Sutton, N. J., farm, Pat III, stated: "You can quote me as saying he did not steal her from me, I expected this." (L. I. N. Phonophoto)

Courtroom drama is caught by the camera in Chicago as Mrs. Harriett Jungles, 55, shouts at Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli that it's none of the court's business why she wrote threatening letters to President Roosevelt. The judge ordered her held for examination by a court psychiatrist and put her under $200 bond which she paid in cash.

President Roosevelt has heard—and M. R. Wolfzell, 386 pounds of shipbuilder, will get a new pair of pants. Wolfzell, who works in a San Pedro, Cal., shipyard, found difficulty obtaining clothes under WPB's clothing regulations. He wired the president as follows: "Voted for you three times. Asked no favors. Need favor now. Need overalls badly. I am slightly over-size—386 pounds. Very busy building ships. Do not wish to become California Gandhi. Please instruct Leon Henderson to send me priority for cloth and set price ceiling for pants. Rush. Need for pants is urgent."
