TALBOT—The descendants of William and Elmira Looney and Nelson Ransome Doty and Elmira Looney Doty held their annual reunion in the Doty grove in the Talbot district last week. This grove is on the donation land claim Doty's father, Nelson Ransome Doty, homesteaded in 1846. Nelson Ransome Doty came to Oregon in 1844, taking an active part in the Cayuse Indian war.

Dallas School Man Resigns

DALLAS—Burton C. Bell has resigned as junior high school principal, according to S. E. Whitworth, superintendent of schools. Lyle D. Thomas of West Salem has been elected to the post.

Bell served as principal of the junior high school for nine years. He resides on a farm between Dallas and Monmouth, and finding it impossible to obtain adequate labor on his farm, has decided to give up the teaching to put in full time at dairying. He was very active in civic affairs while on the faculty.

Thomas was principal of West Salem grade school for ten years. He comes to Dallas well known because of his service as Polk county representative in the Oregon legislature. He is a graduate of Oregon Normal school and University of Oregon.

The automobile, driven by Herman Highland, was considerably damaged, but Miss Tvedt was the only person injured. She was taken to the Silverton hospital where she will remain for a few days.

Vocational Work Taught In Lebanon

LEBANON—An experiment is being tried in the vocational school which is operated here in conjunction with the state board of vocational education. A subcontractor in Portland who is manufacturing parts of tanks and other war materials is sending parts to be toolled here in the school shop, which is said to be one of the best equipped in this part of the valley.

Men skilled enough to operate the machines without too much supervision are hired by the company and allowed to use the machines when not in use for class work. Others are trained as rapidly as possible to do the same thing.

If this attempt to use the small shops in the schools and elsewhere works out, it may materially increase the number of skilled men to be found and contribute materially to the output of defense products. At the same time it will enable many to work on defense contracts without going to the larger towns and adding to the congestion.

The name of the training program being offered in the Lebanon school shop in cooperation with the state board of vocational education has been changed. It is now to be known as the War Production Training Program, which name, it is thought, shows better what is being done than the former name of National Defense Training Program.

Classes in aviation sheet metal, welding and machine tooling are now open to women as well as to men, and if, as it is said, 4300 skilled workers will be needed in war production in the Portland area alone by fall, all who are skilled can probably count on
