

Receive Silver Wings of Army

State Budget Requests Appearing

A number of state department budgets, for guidance of the 1943 legislature in making appropriations for the next biennium, already have been received at the state budget department, George Alken, state budget director, announced here Thursday.

All budgets, prior to being presented to the legislature, must receive the approval of Gov. Charles A. Sprague, state budget officer. Governor Sprague announced recently that the budget allowances for the next biennium would be held to the lowest possible figure, and that only necessary expenditures would receive his approval.

In some state departments and institutions provision probably will be made for the increase of salaries which are now far below those paid in war defense activities. Larger appropriations also will be required for the state police department, civilian defense division and some other activities closely identified with the protection of Oregon citizens during the war emergency.

Appropriation recommendations, after being approved by the governor, must receive consideration of the joint ways and means committee of the senate and house.

The law provides that the budget shall be completed and printed in December, preceding the legislative sessions.

2 Former Oregon Men Promoted by United Airlines

N. B. Rader and S. R. Newman, ex-Oregon airline executives, have been promoted to new high positions with United Air Lines, it was announced Thursday from Chicago by Harold Crary, vice-president of traffic.

Rader, who has been district traffic manager for United at San Francisco, goes to Chicago as eastern sales manager for the company. He was district traffic manager in Portland from 1934 to 1939, after which he became in-line traffic manager for the company and traveled all over the nation.

Succeeding Rader at San Francisco will be Newman, who was district traffic manager for United in Portland from 1939 until 1941. Then Newman went to Los Angeles as district traffic manager. Both Rader and Newman were well known in Portland's business, transportation and civic circles.

Newman will be succeeded in Los Angeles by George H. Macomber, his former assistant.

Rader succeeds Russell F. Ahrens, another Pacific northwestern and a graduate of University of Washington, who has become personnel director of United Air Lines with headquarters in Chicago.

Requests From Migratory Camp On Wages to Committee

Gov. Charles A. Sprague Thursday appointed a committee of three, of which State Labor Commissioner Charles A. Gram is chairman, to reach a settlement of certain requests made by bean pickers in the West Stayton migratory camp.

The matter came before state authorities when a committee of five migratory camp workers appeared at the statehouse and said they were delegated by a mass meeting of pickers to call on the labor commissioner and air their requests.

Outstanding request was that the commissioner lift that part of the ruling relative to minimum wages on bean picking which concerned itself with a bonus and to allow pickers in that area to receive a straight 2 cents a pound for picking.

The minimum picking wage was fixed at 1 1/4 cents a pound with a one-fourth cent bonus for pickers who complete the harvest or who are dismissed when not needed.

The established price of 1 1/4 cents a pound is approximately 40 per cent more than picking prices for last year. Gram told the workers that it was not his concern if the growers paid more than the minimum price.

The governor's committee was expected to reach a settlement of the differences within the next few days.

PEEKSKILL, NY.—(AP)—Sergeant Hash, smallest non-commissioned officer in the army, will bark out orders to 17,000 officers and men during field training exercises at Camp Smith.

Sgt. Hash, a toy Fox Terrier, was Corporal Hash until July 22 when he was promoted on the personal recommendation of Maj. Gen. William Ottman.

The terrier spends his "at ease" periods in an old army shoe.
