

Salem Heights Family Visits With Fort Stevens Relatives

SALEM HEIGHTS—Mrs. A. E. Battles and her daughter, Mrs. Hobert Smith and children, Donald and Dwane, returned Sunday from Fort Stevens where they spent a week visiting Sgt. and Mrs. Joe Vogt, another daughter of Mrs. Battles. Sgt. Vogt's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vogt of Hansen avenue, Salem Heights.

Duane Vogt drove to Astoria with Mrs. Battles and Mrs. Smith as he was to report for military service there last Wednesday. He is the third son of Mr. and Mrs. Vogt to enter the armed forces.

Mrs. H. R. Woodburn entertained in her home on Ewald avenue Monday afternoon in honor of an old school friend, Mrs. John Koromy, the former Frances Hrubetz of Liberty. The guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Otto Paulas, Mrs. Norma Smith, Miss Olga Wikberg, Mrs. John Kromy and the hostess, Mrs. H. R. Woodburn. Mrs. Kromy is now living in San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank "Buck" Miller, Jr., and daughter Marilyn of Sacramento arrived Monday for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, Sr., on Browning avenue. Buck is working at the air depot in Sacramento.

Chuck Battles was brought home sick from Tillamook Saturday. He went there to work a couple of weeks ago. He has a carbuncle on his leg which was so bad he could not walk. He is improving rapidly under treatment.

Gervais Hangs Service Flag

GERVAIS—Gervais has a service flag containing 75 stars for men of this vicinity who are in the service. The flag was made by G. J. Moisan; Ray Clark designed it, and the material was furnished by LeJardin Bros. and the sewing was done by Mrs. Francis Leonhart who has two brothers in the service.

The flag is eight by 12 feet. It was hung on the side of the fire station, for three days and is now in the high school auditorium, where it will remain.

It is desired that families in this community who have boys in any branch of the service send the names so that the flag may contain a complete list.

Rats Are Bother To Poultry Men Near Unionvale

UNIONVALE—Rats on farms, where chickens are kept, are a distinct nuisance because of the amount of grain consumed this season. All known manner of destruction to get rid of them has been resorted to and their "cunning" unexpected attacks on feeding places remind farmers of "Pearl Harbor."

At the Clarence Fowler farm an old mother rat was caught in a steel spring trap, with left hind leg in up to her body. When found Sunday four half-grown rats were nursing and so interested in their business of "warm meals" at all hours service that they did not notice the execution to be meted out with the shovel at the same time with the mother's death.

Chamber of Commerce Head Helps Couple Get Married

MONMOUTH—Warren Nowowiejski, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who assists his mother, Mrs. Jessie Nowowiejski, in operating the Monmouth Furniture store, says he widened his scope of activities last Saturday afternoon by assisting with the details of a wedding ceremony.

A young couple from Kings Valley was purchasing housekeeping equipment, and in the course of conversation Nowowiejski learned that they were to be married that afternoon, had their license, but had not selected a minister or place to be married. Being a cooperative person, he asked if he could be of assistance. They accepted his offer, stipulating only that it be a young minister. He telephoned the local men of the cloth but learned from their respective wives that both were away or occupied. He then tried the Rev. Loyal Vickers of Independence with better success. The marriage ceremony was read a short time later at the Vickers parsonage.

The bride was Isabell Cox, who was graduated from Oregon College of Education in 1940 and has been teaching at Pedee. The bridegroom was Raymond Blair. He is associated with the Mosier mill at Kings Valley where they will reside.

Nowowiejski says the bride had signed the furniture contract with her married name, and by assisting with the wedding he also validated his contract. He presented them with a table as a wedding gift.
