By WHITNEY MARTIN Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.-It was a (censored) day and it seemed like a good idea to contact our friend Ford Frick and try to needle him into a nice, juicy quote about omething or other pertaining to his National league, as when the (censored) prevents any outdoor activity the best bet for a story is some gent in authority, such as a league president, or a policeman, or an MP.

We had no difficulty in locating Mr. Frick, as his office number was in the telephone book and Mr. Frick was in his office, and we wasted little time coming to the point.

"Did you notice," we asked subtly, "that Casey Stengel said the umpires let the Dodgers get away with murder, and that your new rule making the managers responsible for bean balls would make umpires out of the managers?" "Yep."

That was encouraging. He had noticed. We gave him the other harrel.

"And did you see," we prodded, "where MacPhail says you don't want the Dodgers to win the pennant, and that if pitch- Army Grid Team start throwing bean balls at his players his pitchers will throw them back two for one?" "Yep."

"Well . . . ?" There was a brief pause of five minutes or so for station identification, after which Mr. Frick said eryptically:

"Do you remember what a howl there was when we put in the rule barring managers from arguing over balls and strikes? Well, you don't hear any more howis, do you? And the rule works, doesn't it? Well . . . "

You get the idea at once. Whenever any new rule is adopted which interferes with a manager's in camp and more are expected. life, liberty and pursuit of umpires or curbs in any way his selfgiven right to make a travesty of a fine game, the yelps can be heard in a boiler factory. When that doesn't do any good, the yelps dwindle to a whimper, and then stony silence.

Frick Cagey Gent

A cagey gent is Mr. Frick. He's a slim, wiry fellow with dark, intent eyes and a nice crop of bushy. grey-flecked hair, and he looks younger than his years.

He is smart enough to ignore the pot-shots aimed at him by mouthy, publicity-stimulated pilots, club officials and wouldbuild-'em, we - wreck - 'em citizens who do a great job of running everybody's business but their own.

If Mr. Frick undertook a counter-attack these rabble - rousing charges he would have to issue bulletins every five minutes, like he was keeping score on the progress of the death of an esteemed citizen. He wouldn't have time to plaster fines on the bad boys, much less to curl. Mr. Frick is quite adept at the ancient Scottish pastime of curling, a sport in which the players instead of the umpires use the brooms. Otherwise it isn't a bit like baseball.

Mr. Frick is on one of those unenviable spots where we get it coming and going. There is a elamor that he do something to curb bean-balling in his league. He does something which from here seems quite logical. Immediately he is pounced upon by those who would suffer most if the bean-balling continued, exclusive of the beaned batter, of course. They want something e, but not at their expense.

All this doesn't mean that Mr. Frick is always right as the truth. He's made blunders, even as you and I. But he's always in there trying and we think his batting average is pretty good.

And he has to face some pretty wild pitching, too. His critics really aim at his head. at Sunset Ridge Friday and quali-
