

Sergeant Has Yanks' First Shot at Nazi

LONDON, Aug. 20.—(P)—A spunky young sergeant from Minneapolis, Ken Kenyon, earned in the Dieppe raid the distinction of being probably the first United States infantryman to shoot a German in this war.

Kenyon, tall and blond, is in the American Rangers and was attached to the royal regiment from Toronto in its flank assault at Puits, one mile east of Dieppe. He was with a group of raiders which ran into plenty of trouble when it touched shore in the first assault. Heavy German machine gun fire raked his landing craft crowded with Canadians.

Men were hit right and left and after the first shock they started to fight back, firing everything they had at the nazis who were hammering them from pillboxes and houses.

Kenyon joined in without a moment's hesitation. Firing his Garand rifle he picked off a nazi soldier at an open window and the German toppled to the ground.

"Well, that's my first score on those guys," said the sergeant when his craft had drawn out to sea again with its wounded.

But he brushed aside tributes to his shooting skill.

"Gosh, those Canadian lads deserve credit for fighting back the way they did in that jam," he said.

Children Left In Parked Car

Three children, ages 2, 4 and 5 years, who had been left in a car parked on the 100 block of North Commercial street Wednesday afternoon until business persons of the area became alarmed and called City Police Matron Bessie Armour, were guests of the police department from 2:15 to 3:15.

The father of two of the children and the mother of one, residents of McMinnville and Yamhill, calling at the station, said they had left the youngsters alone for "only a few minutes" while they shopped.

"Children are not safe in parked cars, from a purely mechanical point of view—suppose there should be a short circuit? And, besides, it's too warm for them here," declared Mrs. Armour as she commented on the number of such cases noted by police this week.

In a reorganization of the Navy's top policy advisory agency, the general board, Admiral Arthur Heppburn, 64, above, former "Cincus" of the U. S. fleet, becomes chairman, and Admiral Thomas C. The senator said there were no objections to the bills and he felt certain they would be approved as soon as he could call them up for a senate vote.

The fishing bill (S1712) would prohibit all offshore salmon fishing south of latitude 50 north, except under license from the fish and wildlife service. It would authorize the service to investigate salmon resources to determine what regulations were needed and to coordinate the offshore salmon fishing regulations with those now in force in Washington, Oregon and California.

The other bill (S1339) would appropriate $100,000 to enable the fish and wildlife service to make a full report on the history and habits of shrimp, crabs, common lobsters, spiny lobsters, oysters and commercial varieties of clams.

5th Aluminum Plant in NW Begins Work

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 20.—(P)—The Pacific northwest's fifth aluminum reduction plant began preliminary operation Thursday, the Bonneville administration announced.

The war-important plant, in an unnamed city, will start actual production of metal within 10 days, Administrator Paul J. Raver said, and power consumption will be stepped up from day to day until capacity is reached at 40,000 kilowatts.

The new plant was built for the Defense Plant corporation by the Olin corporation which will operate it under contract, Raver said.

The Bonneville administration is now delivering slightly less than 400,000 kilowatts to aluminum operations. Raver said that the five reduction plants, which convert alumina into pig metal, and an aluminum rolling mill in the area east of the Cascade mountains, would require 600,000 kilowatts of Bonneville-Grand Coulee power when at capacity.

He said the plants would have a combined value of $116,000,000 and would be able to produce more than $100,000,000 worth of products annually.
