

Committee Okehs Tax

Final Bill Includes Individual Credits, Bigger Direct Tax

$500 for single persons and credits for dependents cut from $400 to $300.

3. New credit allowed against income tax for all medical expenses in excess of 5 per cent of net income, with a maximum of $2,500.

Corporations: 1. Present graduated excess profits tax from 25 to 60 per cent replaced by flat 30 per cent tax, retaining present specific exemption of $5000 in profits not subject to excess tax. Average earnings base revised by insertion of relief provision. Invested capital base reduced for larger corporations.

2. Normal and surtaxes on larger corporations increased from present combined total of 31 per cent to 40 per cent.

3. Post-war rebate and debt deduction credit of 10 per cent of the total amount of excess profits taxes.

4. Capital stock and declared-value excess profits taxes eliminated.

5. Over-all limitation of 80 per cent of net income placed on corporation taxation.

6. All corporations placed on calendar year basis for taxation.

Miscellaneous: Excise taxes increased on liquor, beer, wines, cigarettes, cigars, lubricating oil, photographic apparatus, train, bus and plain fares.

Interest from future issues of state and municipal bonds made taxable.

In approving the victory levy of 5 per cent, the senate committee turned down at least two substitute proposals.

One of these, offered by Senator Byrd (D-Va.) would have linked a treasury proposal to place many taxpayers on a "pay as you go" basis with a 5 per cent regular sales tax. Chairman George (D-Ga.) announced it was defeated 11 to 8.

The 5 per cent levy as approved by the committee is in addition to the regular income taxes and surtaxes.

In reducing the combined rate on corporation normal and surtax earnings to 40 per cent, the committee also voted to reduce by about $200,000,000 the amount of post-war rebates which would be made available to corporations.

It previously had acted to make rebates, covering deductions and post-war credits, aggregating $900,000,000 and taking the form of a 10 per cent credit for a corporation on the amount of surtax and excess profits taxes due from it. Monday's action, however, limited the rebate to 10 per cent of the excess profits liability.

While congressional tax experts declined to estimate the total of new taxes in the bill, they said the committee action Monday had subtracted $327,000,000 in direct revenue and had cut down the total amount of post-war rebates by $200,000,000.

Thus on the basis of a treasury estimate to the committee Saturday that it had added only $830,000,000 direct taxes to the measure since it passed the house, the total in new taxes provided in the bill would be $6,774,000,000 above the yield of present tax laws, which provide about $17,000,000,000. The house had voted to increase the yield by $6,271,000,000.

The senate committee version of the bill, however, provided for the collection of approximately $1,800,000,000 from taxpayers which would later be rebated. $1,100,000,000 of this amount coming out of individual payments on the 5 per cent "victory tax."

This would bring full year's collections of approximately $8,574,000,000 from taxpayers, in addition to the $17,000,000,000 now being extracted from them by present laws, or a total of $25,574,000,000.

In last minute actions, the committee approved an amendment permitting public utility companies, except railroads, to deduct dividends paid preferred stockholders from income in computing surtax liabilities.

It reconsidered previous action and cut the dividing line for long and short term capital gains and losses to 6 months, instead of the 15 months voted by the house and the 13 months the senate group previously had established.

At the suggestion of the treasury, it altered a previous amendment to call for a report by December 1, instead of January 11, 1943, from a proposed joint congressional committee which would be set up to study the question of compulsory saving to aid in financing the war.

The committee approved many excise taxes as previously voted by the house, including an increase from $4 to $6 a gallon on liquor.

Nitrogen Fertilizer Use Sliced

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14-(AP) Use of chemical nitrogen fertilizer for lawns, flower gardens and golf courses was banned by the war production board Monday, effective immediately, and its use for agriculture was restricted to the minimum formulas deemed necessary for basic food requirements.

The aim is to conserve nitrogen for necessary foods and explosives, especially smokeless powder.

Coming under complete ban are yards, cemeteries, golf courses, non-commercial plantings of flowers, shrubs and trees. Commercial florists and nurserymen may use it for propagation of trees, shrubs and flowers and for commercial cut flower sale, on their own establishments, but not on the premises of customers.

Predicting that increased domestic production of chemical nitrogen and imports from Chile would not exceed 80 per cent of the agriculture demands, WPB said the deficiency could be supplemented with somewhat larger quantities of organic nitrogen.

Most important of these is manure from livestock but other sources include tankage, cotton stems, cotton seed meal, sewage sludge, peat and humus.

One restriction provides that fertilizer containing chemical nitrogen cannot be used on grains sown in the fall of 1942 to be harvested as grain. The restriction does not apply if the grain is used as a pasture or cover crop.

Officials explained that this was intended to increase meat production.

Senators Aver Planes Inferior

'Brass Hats' Charged With Failure to Provide Best

In explaining why his committee approved his bringing the matter up for debate.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) said he found it difficult to understand "why they send boys out in a plane which can fly only 120 miles an hour to fight against better planes."

Wallgren, a member of a senate military affairs subcommittee which recently investigated Alaskan defenses, said a plane of that type was sent out to bomb the Japanese at Kiaka.

Wallgren said the United States had "the world beaten" with respect to bombers and interceptors, but discriminated against fighters.

"We talked with a great many men who have been fighting the Japanese and men who have been fighting on other fronts," Wallgren declared. "They told us that if it were not for their ability to outshoot the enemy, they would have been defeated, because they feel that the fighting planes of their opponents can outfly them."

Wallgren said the Japs were using a Zero fighter equipped with pontoons which is forcing American bombers up to an altitude of 20,000 feet where they lose effect.

He said American fighters had better armor protection but it made them less maneuverable.

"Our pilots are asking for a better plane," he declared. "The navy is using a plane today in Alaska which to my mind is a joke, not being able to do better than 120 miles an hour."

While he said the Americans had some "good planes" such as the P-39, P-40, the Mustang and the P-38, "none of them seem to measure up to the fastest planes which England is producing at the present moment."

Senator Norris (Ind-Neb.) said he saw no reason why "Great Britain should not be supplied with Spitfires made in this country and no reason why our boys should not have them to fly."

Truman declared WPB's "faulty distribution" of steel was "imperiling the whole war program" and declared WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson should appoint "a two-fisted, competent man" to remedy materials.

He deplored "lip service" response to committee criticisms of the war production program and questioned whether the high military and naval officials were operating in the necessary unity that should have followed the tragedy at Pearl Harbor.

He said the report by the military affairs subcommittee indicated a lack of a unity of command in Alaska, "in particular."

During the course of the day, he offered a resolution asking senate authority to expend an additional $100,000, if necessary, to carry on its defense investigations.

GOP Sweeps Maine State Balloting

By The Associated Press

Maine republicans scored a clean sweep of all top offices Monday night, capturing the governorship, a US senatorship and three seats in the national house in the country's first war-time state election since 1918.

Gov. Sumner Sewall, US Sen. Wallace E. White, jr., and US Rep. Margaret C. Smith were returned to office by more than two-to-one majorities.

Robert Hale, outspoken critic of new deal domestic policies, won by 10,000 votes in the first congressional district, with the incumbent, Rep. Frank Fellows, retiring to Washington.

What was expected to be a spirited struggle for the republican house nomination from Connecticut's fourth district turned out to be a convention landslide for Mrs. Clare Booth Luce, author-playwright.

She took the nomination by a vote of 84 to 2 after four other candidates, including Miss Vivian Kellems, industrialist, withdrew. Lester Barlow, explosives inventor, got two votes. Mrs. Luce will oppose Rep. Leroy Downs, democrat, and Barlow, who will run as an independent in November.

Primary elections are on Tuesday for both parties in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Michigan and Wisconsin. Connecticut democrats also hold their state nominating convention and Mississippi democrats hold a runoff between former Sen. James O. Eastland and Sen. Wall Doxey.

ings, Ore. Markings of the bomb fragments indicated that the missile was of Japanese origin.

At about six a. m. Pacific war time, September 9, a small unidentified seaplane was observed coming inland from the sea and a half hour later a plane was heard at the same point headed towards the sea. Due to poor visibility, the plane was not seen on its westward trip.

At 8:42 a. m. Mr. Howard Gardner, a forestry service observer on Mount Emily, reported seeing an unidentified seaplane come from the west, circle, and return towards the sea. He described the plane as a small single-motored biplane with a single float and small floats on the wingtips. The plane appeared to be small and of slow speed. It had no lights, no distinct color and no insignia was visible. It is possible that a plane of this type might have been carried on a submarine.

About 11 a. m. Pacific war time September 9 an army patrol plane reported sighting an unidentified submarine about 30 miles off shore in the same general vicinity. The submarine was bombed by the airplane with unobserved results.

At about 12:20 p. m. Pacific war time, the same day, a small fire was observed about three miles south of Mount Emily. Investigation by forestry patrols disclosed a small crater about three feet in diameter and slightly more than a foot in depth. The earth appeared to be scorched and examination of a crater and the area in the vicinity revealed about 40 pounds of metal fragments and a number of small pellets. The fragments disclosed markings of Japanese ideographs which may have been part of a code indicating the arsenal where the bomb was manufactured. A search of the area has failed to reveal the presence of any other indications of bombs having been dropped.
