Men Invent New Things

Men often come in quite handy around the kitchen, when there's mechanical work to be done. One man who sits many hours at a desk in the statehouse, finds canning a relaxation after office hours. Several years ago he worked out a household hint, which he declares is a good one.

"Any flat-topped mayonnaise jar can be used for canning when my plan is used," he tells the writer. Here's the way he does it. He uses a new disk that usually takes a ring, but he then proceeds as for an economy jar, using the regulation clamps. Because the mayonnaise jars have less of a lip on them, he has fixed his clamps by breaking them off at the curve, then pinching them in at the ends and the top so they hold the metal disk firmly. Keep the clamps for other jars of course, because they may be removed when sealed.

This will make possible the use of many mayonnaise jars otherwise unused.

Search Attic -For the USO

The USO is getting on nicery thanks to you and you. But there are still things that can be added to the equipment, which might be found in many Salem attics and never be missed.

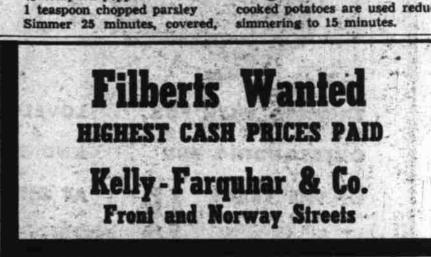

For instance, among the items which would come in mighty handy down at the already pretty well-equipped American Legion hall, now headquarters for the USO, are several large vases or umbrella holders to fill with sand, to catch cigarettes and ashes, and also several stand ash receivers (there are plenty of the small ashtrays.)

Also needed are two planos, two radies and a phonograph, a table low enough to use as a typewriter desk is lacking at the hall and need is expressed for some floor lamps.

Look through the door as you go by Cottage and Chemeketa streets some night and see how well patronized the USO is.

A dollar's worth of pre-war food (1935-1939) now costs the United States housewife $1,378, according to Walter a Durham, Oregon state price economist. Bureau of labor statistics reveal that other west coast costs are: Los Angeles, 1.368; San Francisco, 1.302; Seattle, 1.361.

is entitled to All* the Sugar She Needs

for Home Canning Says Oregon OPA Director, Richard G. Montgomery.

"As state director of the office of Price Administration, I am happy to remind you that the government will allow, under the sugar rationing program now in effect, any amount of sugar needed to can all the fruits and fruit juices you intend to put up in your homes this year, * provided that four quarts of fruits or fruit juices are put up with each pound of sugar used for this purpose.

"Thousands of Oregon families , have registered for special home canning sugar certificates, which, when presented to any od merchant, will entitle the certificate food merchant, will entitle the certificate owner to purchase the extra sugar they will need for such use. To all Oregon families, whether previously registered for home canning sugar or not, let me now re-peat what has been previously said in the press and over the radio. There is plenty of sugar for this purpose. The con-vervation of fruits and vegetables is fully as important as the conservation of sugar. Let none go to waste. If you have not yet received your home canning sugar certi-ficate, or if you have received it but have used up the allotted supply for home can-ning, then go to your local War Price and Rationing Board for a new certificate. No ration book stamps are required to pur-chase this special-purpose sugar . . . only the certificate itself and an honest resolve to help conserve an additional quantity of our fall fruit crop for next winter and the months ahead."

Governor Sprague has recognized the importance of home-canning as a wartime measure. OPA Director Montgomery says there's plenty of sugar for this purpose.

The makers of White Satin Sugar remind you that there's plenty of Oregon sugar. And remember . . . there's only ONE Oregon sugar--it's White Satin . . made from Oregon-grown beets in the most modern sugar factory in America. When you use it you help an Oregon farmer, and factory worker. You also get the best money can buy. Your grocer has it, or can get it . . so always ask for "White Satin" . . Oregon's own and only sugar. It's guaranteed.
