The second dress is a figure flatterer. It has a perfect fitting bodice and a carefully designed poplin skirt. Buttons and belt are of leather and sleeves are long and fitted. The dress is wool. A minimum of fabric is used for the skirt, simple pinafore type of dress. It is made of plain material in rich chocolate brown. Markets in Salem Are Colorful

Military secret or not, this is getting to be autumn, and no mistake, for the markets are colorful with winter varieties of apples, squash and all the other fresh foods that herald a few frosty nights.

Among the fruits are pears and peaches, both of which have been in market for some time. Then there are grapes in a variety of colors — green seedless, green with seeds, Concord and purple ribiera. Citrus fruits have taken a back seat to apples which make up a large display in the shops. Varieties are all the winter specialties—Rome Beauties, Winter Bananas, Jonathans, Delicious and Kings.

Huckleberries have been in market for some time, but now they are joined by cranberries from the bogs along the Oregon coast.

Melons take another paragraph in explanation. Spars, casabas and cantaloupes are in market.

Pomegranates have appeared in some markets, figs in others. Vegetables are not to be overshadowed by the colorful fruit displays, for there are many bright green and highly colored red vegetables to be seen. There are greens galore—spinach, mustard greens, broccoli and cauliflower and curly kale. There is celery, red and white cabbage and little cousins, brussels sprouts. Celery root has appeared in some markets, to be peeled and popped into soup kettles by those who know and appreciate delicacy of flavor. Tomatoes come in bushel lots.

Corn remains in market, and is seen alongside rutabagas, turnips, beets and carrots. Sweet potatoes and yams join the displays of Irish potatoes on the grocers' shelves. Shellbeans, green beans and spotted Oregon Giants will appear on Salem menus this week.

Then there's a final note to make on the day's market offerings, squash makes a comeback. The last of the summer varieties are still in market, but featured now are peanut squash, Danish or acorn squash and the hard shelled winter ones, Hubbard and marbled.

The Beta Chi Mothers meeting which was scheduled for today has been postponed.

Season's Record In Forest Fires Puts Oregon High

An all-time low in forest fires for the season puts Oregon at the forefront of all states in fire prevention progress, according to State Forester N. S. Rogers, who has just issued a report showing 311 man-made fires in protected areas up to October 1. This is a drop of almost 1000 from the 20-year average of 1300 fires each season.

"Credit for this outstanding record is shared by loggers and the general public," Rogers stated. "Both cooperated wholeheartedly in prevention work and exercising care in the forests."

Although danger in logging woods was exceptionally great because of an accumulation of two year's slashing, operator fires numbered just 37. Of these, the only one causing material damage was at a log deck at Tillamook where a fire got away from a donkey crew and destroyed one million feet of logs. Only 100 acres of good standing timber was burned in the state. The other 5027 acres burned were in slashing and grass lands.

Of the fire total, 62 were caused by smokers, 46 were from incendiary origin and 26 were from unattended campfires.

A PTA meeting will be held at the school house Monday at 8 o'clock. This will either be the first meeting of the year or the last, all depending on the results from the questions sent out on Friday.

Donald Davis, president, has moved out of the district. Dr. Fred Burger is vice-president. Owing to the shortage of doctors and dentists in town at present he says he will be unable to attend many of the meetings and that if the people wish to continue with PTA, a new president should be elected on Monday to fill Mr. Davis' place.
