Union Demand On Negroes Deplored

WASHINGTON, DC, Oct. 27 —(AP)—John P. Frey, president of the A. L. metal trades department Tuesday advised the Portland metal trades council to rescind its demand for down-grading of negro shipyard employes.

In a telegram to Tom Ray and Earl Ingram of the Portland metal trades council Frey said the demand "is contrary to specific declarations against racial discrimination made by the American Federation of Labor and the metal trades department. It is contrary to public policy."

The telegram was made public by Paul R. Porter, chairman of the war production board's shipbuilding stabilization committee, who said a conference would be held in Portland November 10 "to make certain that no discrimination against negro employes will be practiced."

Porter said government officials, union representatives and Kaiser officials will participate. The Portland council made its demand after 23 of 100 negroes imported from New York had been shifted from common labor jobs at the Henry J. Kaiser shipyard in Vancouver, Wash., to jobs leading to journeymen status. Several were admitted to training classes, and the council protested the negroes were being advanced over the heads of white men employed for some time.
