Prune Ladder Makes Attractive Bread for Breakfast, Lunch

Let's climb a step higher in the art of breadmaking and surprise the family with a wonderful recipe called "Prune Ladder." It is made from a delicious sweet yeast dough and is filled with a sweetened prune pulp. Then, "top it off" is a thin layer of confectioner's sugar frosting, sprinkled with chopped walnuts.

PRUNE LADDER
2 cakes compressed yeast
1 cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
5 cups flour (about)
Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add butter, sugar, salt; cool to lukewarm. Add flour to make a thick batter. Add yeast and eggs. Beat well. Add enough flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until double in bulk (about two hours). Punch down and divide in half. Roll into sheet about 1/2 inch thick. Spread two-thirds with sweetened prune pulp. Fold the center one-third. Then fold the remaining one-third over the top. Clip with scissors at one-inch intervals. Turn each slice slightly on its side. Cover and let rise until doubled. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. While warm, frost with confectioner's sugar frosting and sprinkled with chopped nut meats. Yield: 2 prune ladders.

Portland War Plants Lauded

PORTLAND, Nov. 2—(AP)—Portland area war plants Monday had Lt. Gen. William S. Knudsen's praise for "gratifying progress" in machine retooling "since my visit here last spring."

The army's production chief, here for a weekend inspection of all war plants except shipyards, said the nation has achieved only 50 to 60 per cent of its productive capacity but "the second half will not take so long."

He warned against an American view of fighting two wars, one against the nazis, another against the Japanese.
"We have only one war and one set of grievances," he said. "Our fight is against the axis, which includes all our enemies. We must produce for every front."

Retired People May Move Homes

Court Rules Damages for Public Mart

The City of Portland, under a four to two decision handed down by the state supreme court here Monday, must pay damages to the Public Market company of Portland because of the failure of the city to carry out its contract to purchase the public market building. The building was constructed in 1931.

The decision reversed Circuit Judge Fred W. Wilson of The Dalles, before whom the proceeding originally was tried in Multnomah county. The predominant opinion, written by Justice Hall S. Luak, contained 81 typewritten pages. Justices Bailey, Roeman and Brand concurred in the predominant opinion. Justices Kelly and Rand dissented.

The supreme court held that the case must now be referred back to the circuit court for assessing the amount of damages, which would be based on the difference between the actual value of the building at the time of the contract was negotiated and the price the city agreed to pay.

The suit originally was filed by the Public Market company against the City of Portland, the Reconstruction Finance corporation which loaned the company $750,000 on a mortgage to finance construction, and the First National bank of Portland. The bank holds the mortgage. Appeal to the supreme court was taken by the company, the finance corporation and bank.

At the time the city agreed to take over the building more than 10 years ago, it authorized the issuance of $2,500,000 in certificates to cover the purchase but these certificates never were issued. The value of the building was fixed at $1,500,000.

When damages are determined by the lower court interest will be added.
