Tires Turned In—Salem motorists thronged into the Railway Express agency Tuesday to give up their extra tires in order to meet the federal regulations, which order car owners to sacrifice all tires other than those in use plus a spare for each car. The three employees engaged in handling these casings were somewhat delayed when a shortage of necessary blanks for records became evident. After this shortage was eliminated, the agency continued to receive rubber for salvage.

South America To Be Studied

In his regular Thursday night mid-week services, Rev. W. Irvin Williams will this week begin a study of six key countries of South America. Countries to be considered are Chile, Colombia, Argentina, Guatemala, Mexico and Venezuela in that order. Chile, the first to be studied, has a history of its own, a culture, a national consciousness, quite separate from the rest of South America. With war in the Pacific, with over 2000 miles of almost unprotected coastline in Chile, the deep, narrow Strait of Magellan so important in world conflict, at its southern tip, it may be that all America will think much of Chile in these tragic days.

A 15-minute motion picture entitled "Chile—Between and Andes and the Sea" will be shown in addition to discussion of the political and social conditions of the country. Mr. Williams will stress the important work carried on by the Presbyterian church in the educational, medical and evangelistic field.

Gertrude Hynes, director of Christian education, will also conduct a short series on six prophets of Israel by means of felt-graph visual aid and will begin the series with the study of the prophet Amos.

OPA Officer Talks Control

Price control is not pleasant but it is not unAmerican, and was first tried in 1779 during the Revolutionary war, Richard Montgomery, state OPA chief, told the Salem Kiwanis club Tuesday noon. "If prices could have been frozen as of September 1, 1939, $35,000,000,000 would have been saved in the cost of the war, Montgomery said.

"We have heard much talk about a second front and now it seems maybe this is it. But there is a third front, the inflation front. We can win the war and yet lose if we lose the battle against inflation."

Induction Set For January

The first teen age selectees in Oregon may expect to be called for induction next January. Col. Elmer V. Wooton, state selective service director, indicated here Tuesday.

Wooton said questionnaires were being sent to the 18- and 19-year-old registrants by draft boards but because of the work incident to processing the papers the formal notices would not get in the mails until sometime in December. Neither Wooton nor other selective service officials would estimate the number of teen age registrants in Oregon available for military service.

Civil Defense Drills Urged December 7

Letters have been sent out by the state defense council urging all county defense units to arrange for incident tests or drills of the civilian defense corps on December 7, the first anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

December 8 has been designated as "mobilization day," when all citizens now enrolled in civilian defense will be asked to do so.

State defense council officials also have instructed county defense councils to send orders for civilian defense insignias direct to the state headquarters for approval. Some counties were reported to have sent orders for insignias direct to the manufacturers which has resulted in delays. Notice of siren air raid tests must be issued at least three weeks in advance. It was stressed in another state defense council order.

Still another order calls attention to a recent order of the board of war communications relating to priorities on essential telephone calls.

Civilian defense calls come under priority No. 3 and may be used only on calls which require prompt completion for the national defense and security, successful conduct of the war or to safeguard life or property.

Officials in civilian defense should indicate at the time the call is placed which priority is being requested.

Attempts to obtain priority for a toll call by fraudulently designating such call as a priority or furnishing false information to any telephone carriers for the purpose of obtaining a priority, shall be subject to closure, removal of telephone facilities, or other appropriate government action, state defense council attaches said.

Candidates File Costs

Charles W. Redding, Portland, for judge of the circuit court, department No. 6, Multnomah county, expended $545.69 in conducting his general election campaign, an expense statement filed in the state department here Tuesday disclosed.

W. E. Kimsey, Portland, republican, for state labor commissioner, expended $173.69.

Other expense statements, in excess of $50, filed here Tuesday: Walter J. Gearin, Portland, republican, for state representative, 5th district, Multnomah county, $83.50.

Cyrus A. Dolph, Portland, republican, for state representative, 5th district, Multnomah county, $84.09.

Lee Savely, Haines, democrat, for state representative, 27th district, Baker county, $67.20.

The time for candidates at the general election to file their expense statements expires at 5 p.m. today.

Auto Stamps Now Essential

Holders of mileage rationing gasoline books will not be able to buy gasoline after December 1, when rationing becomes effective, unless they have the federal use tax stamp, it was announced Tuesday by the office of price administration.

Car owners will be able to obtain their mileage rationing books on November 18, 19 and 20, but the books will not be valid until the owner's tax stamp number has been placed on them.

Rationing registrars have been instructed to inform mileage book applicants that the stamp number must be on the coupon book before service stations will sell them gasoline after the effective date of rationing.

The federal use tax stamp, which costs $5 and which is good for a year, must be carried in every passenger automobile in service, according to federal regulations.

Court Slates PUD Case

The case of Ollilo against the Clatskanie peoples utility district in Columbia county, involving three important legal questions, will be heard by the state supreme court here Thursday. Outstanding among these is whether or not a peoples utility district can acquire a distribution system located outside its boundaries. Another question involves the definition of the word utility as used in the act authorizing the creation of peoples utility districts. The third question relates to the validity of the $750,000 bond issue for the purchase of the coast properties of the West Coast Power company. The lower court held for the peoples utility district whereupon the plaintiff appealed to the supreme court.

County Not Under Rent Control Yet

The Salem and Marion county area is not included in an official defense area, and as a result, rent control is a matter of voluntary acceptance on the part of landlords and tenants. D. D. Gage, area rent director for the Portland-Vancouver defense rental area, declared in a letter received here Tuesday.

The letter mentioned that on October 5 an announcement from Washington said all areas in the state might be brought under rent control within 60 days, but no
