Suffice it to reflect that on November 26, the date Kurusu represents to have been the beginning of the war, through American declaration of principles, the attack on Pearl Harbor was but 12 days away, and the Jap attacking force was even then prepared and moving to strike, while Kurusu and Nomura deceitfully held our government in play.

So ends the Oregonian editorial of yesterday. There is only one other place on earth where may be found a more lousy liar than the Nips boast. That place is the hideout of the thing bearing the alias of Schicklgruber.

Fire in Boston Club Kills 379

Sudden Blaze Fatal

Cocoanut Grove Has Holocaust, Thought Decoration-Started

BOSTON, Sunday, Nov. 29 (AP)—A death list of 379 was estimated by police early Sunday after a check of all hospitals and morgues in Boston's most disastrous fire—a holocaust that gutted the Cocoanut Grove, a back bay night club jammed with more than 1000 merry-makers.

The list of injured was placed at above 300, and officials indicated this figure might rise sharply when a final count was possible on those who fought and clawed each other in an effort to escape the flames that spread like flowing quick-silver in the crowded club.

All the bodies were believed removed from the one and a half story building at 117 Piedmont by 1:15 a. m. (EWT), three hours after the first alarm, which was followed by four others and calls for all available ambulances, police cars and physicians. Soldiers, sailors and coast guardsmen assisted in carrying out the dead.

Some of the trapped night clubbers leaped from the roof and landed on parked automobiles. Others fled the burning building, their clothing aflame.

Surrounding communities sent ambulances, and virtually all private cars and virtually all types of usable vehicles were used to move the injured to hospitals. Large express vans, with policemen riding the running boards, helped carry the city's two principal morgues.

Soon after midnight, while firemen still tried to quell the flames enough so that all the bodies could be recovered, a call was made for all medical examiners in the state to report.

The interior of the low stucco front building was completely gutted. Lined with cloth hangings that were clustered at the ceiling, the interior apparently flamed up in a burst, and dozens who tried to rush for the doors were trapped.

In a steady stream bodies, fantastically twisted, were carried from the still smoking door of the night club into a garage directly across the street. Automobiles were hurriedly shifted to make room for the blanket covered forms.

The bodies were lined up in symmetrical rows, and virtually the entire floor was covered with gray-blanketed forms, some with knees raised, some with shoes missing, some with smoke-blackened hands hanging over the sides of stretchers that were carried across twisted fire hose into the garage.
