Access to Woodlot Given— Reversing a former decision, Comm. Wallace S. Wharton, USN, former Oregon state budget director who is now in Washington, DC, has notified Marion county court that it may have access through Wharton-owned property to a county woodlot in the Battle Creek area. Under a lease similar to that by which it had secured easement over the property from its previous owner, the court may send county employes in to haul out wood but may use the road through the land for nothing else and the main gate is to be kept locked. Wharton has requested.

Creek Inspected—County Judge Grant Murphy inspected the headgate and diversion dam on Mill creek south of Turner on Monday morning at request of officers of Turner. Drift piled behind the headgate would threaten the bridge near the tabernacle should it take out the gate, city officials there warned. Responsibility for the condition was disclaimed by Oregon Pulp & Paper company executives, Murphy said, and he declared peak of the high water had apparently passed the point. County Invests $100,000 in Series G Bonds

Voting to invest $100,000 of the county's funds in series G war bonds, Marion county court Monday instructed County Treasurer Sam Butler to make the purchase before the series was removed from the market Monday night. The bonds are scheduled to carry 2 1/2 per cent interest for 12 years and could be readily converted into cash if necessary, while the bank accounts from which the funds were taken were largely unremunerative, Judge Grant Murphy explained. Of the bank accounts, $30,000 has been yielding one half of one per cent interest.

The series G bond, which was to be removed from the market by today is to be replaced by a new issue not carrying so high a rate of interest. Sen. Frederick S. Lampert, county war bond sale chairman, said.

The lectures will be illustrated with hand made charts.

Capitol Dormitory For Legislators Is Suggested

Representative H. H. Chindgren, Clackamas county, in Salem Monday, suggested that the state outfit a legislators' sleeping dormitory in the basement of the capitol building during the 1943 legislative session. Chindgren said he had been trying to obtain a house or apartment but without success. Many other legislators reported similar housing conditions. Real estate agents said rooms, houses and apartments in Salem are scarce and that many legislators probably will be forced to reserve sleeping quarters in local hotels.

Most of the hotels reported on by a few reservations for the legislature up to this time.

Nurses' Aides Are Awarded Certificates

Tribute to the volunteer spirit exhibited by the young women of the community who have enrolled and completed the course for nurses' aides was paid at the Salem chamber of commerce luncheon on Monday as graduation certificates were presented the members of a class of 18.

Special recognition was given Mrs. Breyman Boise and Miss Elizabeth Putnam of the committee for volunteer nurses' aides by Justice George Rossman, chairman of the Marion county chapter, American Red Cross; and by Mrs. Boise to Mrs. Louise Arneson, instructor of the class.

A brief inspirational talk to the graduates was given by Miss Elvora Thompson, director of nursing education at the University of Oregon medical school. Miss Letha Humphreys of the Multnomah county nurses' aid committee explained the growing need for hospital assistance, due to departure of nurses for war service, which the nurses' aides are helping to fulfill.

The graduates, all but three of whom were present for the exercises, include Mesdames J. B. Bangert, D. L. Cutsforth, Elsie Holman, Mary E. Barton, Stella McAuliffe, Ruth Wittner, Rita Steiner Fry, Grace Parke Mendell, W. T. Cessford, Murtie Bowman, Frank Hrubetz, jr., Loretta Hayes, Nancy Newcombe, Emma Lou Hillman, Ida C. Wooten, Bernice R. Feldschau and Velma V. Archer and Miss Agnes J. Meyer.

Living organizations also received the thanks of officials for their part in encouraging the members to work for Red Cross. Competition among houses has been strong for the honor of contributing the most hours to the sawing project.

The Salem students named on the Red Cross honor roll by Len Barde, Portland, chairman of the campus war board are Barbara Bell, Doris Chapler and Dorothy Mott.

Wooton said this was due to heavy enlistments in this state. He added that the December call already has been made. The light January quota probably will make it unnecessary to call any married men in Oregon, Wooton said.

Truck Kills Soldier MEDFORD, Nov. 30—(P)—A board of army officers Monday investigated the traffic death of Pvt. Clarence Woolsey, 41, Sligo, Mo., stationed at Camp White. Woolsey died after being struck by an army truck on the cantonment grounds.

VICTORY We Salute the SALEM CHAMBER of COMMERCE Salem at large owes a debt of gratitude to its local Chamber of Commerce. Every commercial enterprise, every industry, every family, every individual in this city benefits by the activities of that body—a body constituted of and supported by members recruited from every walk of life. A community without such a body of public spirited enterprises and citizens would be like a wheel without a hub—no pivotal point round which to revolve. Inform yourself about your Salem Chamber of Commerce—its outstanding achievements this year—its plans for next year. You will want to become a member—should become a member. Do so now! You'll be a participant in Salem's progress—as well as therefrom. L. C.
