Speaker Heard on Health

The speaker at the Salem Women's club meeting on Saturday, Mrs. George Moorhead, is a past president of the organization and still an active member. Her talk on social hygiene education was made in connection with her work as field secretary of the division of social hygiene education, University of Oregon Medical school.

Mrs. Moorhead has just returned from a trip to New York. The field for social hygiene education, she said, begins with parent education. She discussed the origin of the social hygiene education department in Portland.

Among the high spots of Mrs. Moorhead's trip were the Army and navy health education conference in New York and a conference in the New York academy of medicine, during which some time was spent in the laboratory of Dr. Robert L. Dickinson, renowned for his life-size models of human anatomy. As a music number, Geraldine Schmoker played "Romance" by Wieniowski, and "En Bateau" by Debussy as violin numbers; accompanied by Mrs. D. B. Kleihage.

Club members arranged to send gifts to tuberculosis patients, and names of those needing to be remembered at Christmas were distributed.

Mrs. Walter Spaulding reported on the Women's club trip to Camp Adair and gave details of Thanksgiving entertainment at the USO.

Mrs. David Wright presided at the meeting. Miss Rachael Bayne was voted to membership in the club.

Lodge Plans Meeting

The auxiliary to the Patriarchs Militant held the meeting in IOOF hall, with Mrs. Hannah Beard presiding. The state department president, Mrs. Lillie Smith of Pendleton, and the reviewing officer, Mrs. Florence Brown, Newberg, will make their official visit on December 16, it was announced.

Band, Orchestra To Play

The Salem high school orchestra and band, under the direction of Vernon A. Wiscarson, will give the first concert of the year on December 15. The soloist will be Henri Arcand, pianist, of Portland, who will play the "Rhapsody in Blue" by Gershwin, with the orchestra, and "Repertoire" by Bennett, with the band. The latter is a very modern number, and shows the great possibilities of the band as an accompanying organization, according to Mr. Wiscarson.

Mrs. George R. K. Moorhead, field secretary for the division of social hygiene education, University of Oregon Medical school, will speak before the ministerial association at Corvallis on Wednesday morning, and before a group of teachers of the Corvallis school system. Busy Days At USO Canteen

By MARGUERITE GLEESON
More than 3000 service men visited the USO over the week-end. Workers clocked 1500 men Saturday night and another more than 1500 on Sunday. And lest someone think these figures are guessed at, let us tell you the woman facing the door with the preoccupied look is working a counting machine and she clicks it for every uniformed man who comes through the door.

Workers are always looking at the total shown on the counter and it has happened that when they look, it is less than the last time, always by a hundred, if at all. The machine gets tired and skips back. Anyway it did that trick the Sunday we worked it, a few weeks ago but it was caught in time and fixed. So perhaps it should be 3500 for this weekend.

Any way the canteen workers were cleaned out of food four times during the weekend, in spite of generous planning in advance. The rush started after 3 o'clock Saturday, midway in the afternoon trick of the Woodburn Junior Women's club. It was the girls' first time on duty at the canteen and they were almost submerged for a time.

The AAUW, University Women to you, were on duty from 5 o'clock to 11:20, when the last teaspoon of coffee had been served, the last crumb of 15 cakes, an extra large loaf of gingerbread, 24 loaves of bread on which more than five quarts of sandwich spread had been placed, several extra consignments of doughnuts including two dozen home-made ones in which the maker had thoughtfully included the "holes" all fried nicely, (just as mother used to do when mother made doughnuts). Besides all of this food, uncounted cases of beverages were served. The boys took it "slightly cold", or "hardly cold" or "as is", and then it was gone.

And with the dishes washed up to date, the cupboard bare, the AAUW workers closed the canteen and went home, busily planning for December 26.

The Don Upjohn family, father and mother and four daughters, manned the canteen until noon Sunday. It was a treat for the boys since the sign "Coffee 5 cents a cup because of rationing" was taken down and the coffee was "on the Upjohns." Also the homemade cinnamon rolls and other eatables served by the four young and charming daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Upjohn, Margaret, Rowena, Donna and Barbara. Since the fifth daughter, Florence Upjohn Paulson, is in Denver, Jeannette Brown pinch hit for the absent sister. Mr. Upjohn was that always useful person around the canteen, the errand boy and general factotum and Mrs. Upjohn made the cinnamon rolls and when a reporter dropped in late in the morning, she was washing dishes while her daughters "served the nephews." And they seemed not at all unhappy to have so much youthfulness around.

The Upjohns were the first of your shifts on duty in the canteen Sunday. The Etokah club took over from 12 to 3 o'clock, then the Kiwanis club auxiliary took over until 7 and the Oregon State Mothers club from 7 until closing time.

The one thing in common with all the groups was "they all ran out of food, not once but several times," according to Mrs. Walter Spaulding, general chairman in charge of the USO canteen.

Maccabees of 84d will meet Thursday at Fraternal temple at 8 o'clock for a business meeting. Commander Glen Newland will preside. New officers will be elected. Christmas party plans will be discussed. The regular meetings are scheduled for the second and fourth weeks, but owing to the holidays, they will be the first and third weeks this month.

The Awandah Camp Fire group met with their guardian, Mrs. James Bunnell on Thursday. After a business session they made Christmas cards for soldiers at Camp Adair.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mulvey, Portland, and daughter, Marcia Alice, were dinner guests of Mrs. Marcia Smith on Saturday night.
