Kunz Asserts Room Needed For Army Men

The city of Salem approaches a period when it will have a "week end every day of the week," so far as the presence of many army men in the community is concerned, Roy Kunz, associate and program director of Salem's USO told the Salem Realty board at its Friday luncheon meeting at the Marion hotel.

Facilities of the USO clubrooms in the Legion hall here are stretched to utmost capacity Saturdays and Sundays now, in spite of the fact that the YMCA at the Willamette university music hall and various church accommodations have been made available to service men and are in use over weekends, Kunz declared. "We must have more room!" he emphatically maintained.

Salem's response to all USO requests has been "100 per cent cooperative," Kunz said, telling of letters now pouring into USO offices from families of men stationed in this area telling of their appreciation of the capital city's hospitality.

Interest of Salem residents in the USO and its program should be of dual nature, the speaker said. To keep the city a clean and healthful home city only known method is the provision of interesting activities to help its youthful visitors enjoy themselves without experimenting with less worthwhile and sometimes dangerous recreation. As a patriotic movement in keeping army morale high, providing a channel through which civilians may serve, the USO has gained wide recognition, he said.

Realty board members instructed their secretary, William Bilivison, to address letters to Sen. Charles L. McNary and Rep. James W. Mott expressing their interest in obtaining funds for enlarging the present structure or securing roomier quarters.

Service Men

HUBBARD—Capt. Marion Carl, US marine corps flier who distinguished himself in the Solomon islands, is expected to reach his home near Hubbard December 3. The people of Hubbard are planning a banquet in his honor to be served in the school gymnasium.

Capt. Carl attended Hubbard schools and was graduated from Hubbard high school in 1933. He later attended Oregon State college.

Tony Painter, who left Salem to join the merchant marine in September, has been heard from by his mother, Mrs. Edith Painter, and his wife, Mrs. Marian Painter. A recent cablegram stated that he had arrived in a port at a secret destination and was "well"; a similar cablegram five weeks ago also announced that he had arrived at a secret port and was "well."

Corp. Orville Goplen has taken charge of the local US army recruiting service during the absence of Sgt. Ethan Senn, who is a patient at Barnes General hospital, Vancouver, Wash.

Goplen formerly taught school in Pineville and was for a time a forest ranger at Crater Lake national park.

John Ellis of Ketchikan, Alaska, was in Salem Friday. He is on his way to San Mateo, Calif., where he will attend officers training school for the merchant marine. He is a son of the late Dr. G. V. Ellis, and his brother, Vinton E. Ellis, is attending Willamette university.

Word was received by his wife Friday that George Herberger is now a second class seaman, and is at cooks and bakers school, San Pedro, Calif.

Pvt. Henry R. Stoudenmeyer has been transferred from Sheppard field to Los Angeles, where he is taking a course in air service. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Stoudenmeyer, 1280 D street, and entered service two months ago. He played in the municipal band for several years and is a graduate of Salem high school and Willamette university.

Mrs. Carl Steelhammer received a telegram Friday from her brother, Sgt. George A. Lindahl, who stated that he had arrived safely in northwestern Africa.

Ensign Bert Walker, formerly a member of the game protective department of the state police, left Salem Friday night after spending a few days here on official business. He will go first to southern Oregon before returning to duty at Seattle, where he has been stationed since his enlistment several months ago. Ensign Walker's wife also resides in Seattle.

SILVERTON—Frank Naegeli has received word that his son, Dr. Floyd C. Naegeli, has been promoted from major to lieutenant colonel. Col. Naegeli is in the army dental corps at Fort Douglas, Utah.

ALBANY—Word has been received in Albany that Staff Sgt. Dan M. Molver of Albany, has been enrolled in a special course of instruction at the signal corps school at Camp Murphy, Fla. It is understood that young Molver was selected for the special training course on the basis of his aptitude.

Another Albany man now in Florida is Staff Sgt. Donald Hall, son of Mrs. Grace Hall of the Millersburg community. He is stationed at Tampa, while another son, Pvt. Van Hall, is with the infantry at Camp Carson, Col. The latter was recently presented a medal for marksmanship.

Loren Murdock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Murdock, is stationed at Farragut, Ida. He, in company with a number of other Albany boys, recently enlisted in the navy.

Lt. Nathan Blair Warner, Albany is expected to arrive in Portland Sunday from Aberdeen, Md., where he was graduated from the ordnance department of officers' training school, receiving his official title. Warner was a member of the national guard and has been stationed at Fort Stevens until last September, when he went to Aberdeen. He will be stationed at Camp Lewis, following a four-day furlough in Albany at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Warner.

Coinciding with the visit of Lt. Warner here, will be a visit with his father, Emery Warner of Ketchikan, Alaska. The latter came from his northern home, expecting to go east to see his son graduated. Upon his arrival here he learned his son would be returned to the coast, so waited in Albany to visit him. This is the elder Warner's first visit to Oregon in more than three years.

MONMOUTH—Pvt. James C. Chazauk, who was graduated last summer from the army air mechanics school at Rantoul, Ill., is now with a detachment in Australia. He writes his grandmother, Mrs. C. C. Yeaster, here. He formerly attended Monmouth schools, and served a three year enlistment with the field artillery at Fort Lewis.

In September, 1941, he completed his enlistment and spent three months at home. The day after Pearl Harbor he went to Portland and enlisted in the air corps, and was sent to a mechanic's school. He says he lost his rank of corporal in the field artillery when he did not reenlist in that branch of the service, but thinks he is doing very well in Australia, and likes the country and the Australians very much.

LABISE CENTER—The following is a letter written by the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Aker, Kellie Light, who formerly lived in Polson, Mont., and who enlisted in the US navy last August. He is the son of Mr. Aker's sister, Mrs. H. H. Light, who visited here this spring.

"Dear Ones: Guess I'll better inform you that I'm well and in the best of spirits. Am now on an island in the southwest Pacific and getting along swell. Have had an interesting time since we've been here—plenty of hours of hard work. Of course there is nowhere to go so we don't have to bother about liberty, don't even have to shave (and don't keep very clean) so we are really roughing it.

"We have coconuts, bananas, pineapples, papayas, oranges, lemons, coffee, and cocoa beans, and other things growing wild on this place. Real tropical heavy jungle growth growing so thick that it's fairly matted together, which really gives us interesting things to see. Being south of the equator, it's still winter here so the weather has been fairly cool and now spring and the rainy season and the mosquitoes are few.

"There are some Javanese or Indo-Chinese natives here and some very black and underzipped bushy-haired natives that go around with nothing to wear but a sash around their mid-sections, and a very few European whites, but no settlements and no town.

"Of course, there are a good bunch of fellows to work with and live with so I haven't really missed civilization and fun that we left in my tent with three other fellows do who live together. Our wants are simple and we have everything we need and can't think of a thing I could use, except some mail. We do miss the news as we get practically no news and no radio programs at all. Have had no mail since leaving the states, but of course that will come in time.

"Don't worry at all, I'm okeh and will write when I can. We'll probably move on up very soon and outgoing mail is always uncertain. You probably won't hear very often and of course our actions and duties must be kept very secret."

Guadalcanal Loss 50,000

PEARL HARBOR, TH, Dec. 4 (AP)—More than 50,000 Japanese lives, naval and military sources here believe, have been sacrificed in the enemy's desperate attempt to reinforce his dwindling strength on Guadalcanal island.

The toll of life was increased heavily by the Japanese loss of two heavily laden troopships, six warships and one cargo vessel in the most recent battle the night of November 30. The cargo ship carried supplies and munitions.

This latest assault by the Japanese was made by the greatest force which they had attempted to sneak into Guadalcanal since the great naval battle of mid-November in which Japanese casualties were estimated at between 30,000 and 40,000.

Outstanding Young Artist Designs Christmas Seal

Dale Nichols, one of the outstanding younger American artists, designed the 1942 Christmas seal, which is on sale here as means of supporting the work of the Marion county Public Health association during the coming year.

Nichols joins a long line of distinguished American artists who have designed Christmas seals for the National Tuberculosis association and its affiliated associations throughout the 36 years.

Seals have been used to raise money to finance the anti-tuberculosis campaign.

The 1942 seal is said to be a typical example of Nichols' work. It features a red barn, which has been the center of design of many of his paintings. The seal shows a red barn and a white farmhouse in the background of a snowy country scene. In the foreground is a drift-lined road on which is shown an old-fashioned well-front sleigh, drawn by two horses.

In discussing the design he used for the Christmas seal, Nichols says, "In all my work I strive to have my paintings radiate cleanliness and health. Therefore, I look upon my work in designing the 1942 Christmas seal for the Public Health associations not as just another problem in design, but as an unusual privilege, in that this great institution constantly works toward those objectives."

Nichols was born in 1904 in David City, Neb., and moved later with his family to Glenview, Ill. His painting of barns, he says, is "... due to living with them for 20 years."

"We had a large white barn on

Bids on Ten Highway Jobs Are Called

Bids on ten projects estimated to cost $700,000 have been called by the state highway commission this week for opening in Portland on December 16.

Projects include: Baker county—Provide 8000 cubic yards of crushed rock on Richland-Halfway rock production project on the Baker-Homestead and Halfway highways.

Harney county—Provide 7000 cubic yards of crushed rock on Buchanan rock production project on Central Oregon highway.

Jackson county—Grading and surfacing 8.3 miles of Evans Creek-Sams Valley access road project.

Wallowa county—Provide 12,000 cubic yards of crushed rock on Rock Creek-Joseph rock production project on Wallowa Lake highway.

Auto License Demand Slow

Applications for 1943 motor vehicle registrations are running far behind the normal rate for this time of year, Earl Snell, secretary of state, said Friday in urging Oregon motorists to file their applications at once in order to assure prompt replies.

Last year at this time, approximately 50,000 applications had been received by the motor vehicle division of the state department, Snell said. This year, less than 700 are on file to date.

The department, laboring under difficulties besetting most business enterprises due to war conditions, will be unable to handle applications promptly if they flood the office at the last moment.

Every car operated in Oregon next year must display a set of 1942 license plates and the 1943 windshield sticker. Persons whose cars were not registered in the state in 1942 will receive a set of 1942 plates and the sticker validating them. Persons whose cars were registered in Oregon in 1942 receive only the sticker, validating their old plates.

Civilian Air Patrol Unit Reopened

Marion county's civilian air patrol unit is open to new members, including a new classification admitting high school students over 16 years of age provided they have their parents' consent, Lee U. Eyerly, leader in the Salem valley area, announced Friday.

"The army recognizes the splendid services performed by members of the CAP who are active all along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts," Eyerly said. "Due to these extremely successful operations, the army is asking for more active members with the view of enlarging the scope of operations on the Pacific coast."

Maj. Leo DeVaney of Portland and two other officers of the patrol will attend an informational meeting to be held at the county courthouse at 7:30 p. m. next Monday.

Eyerly said strict military supervision was to be exercised over the CAP group, whose members will be required to study military procedure and drill and the following additional subjects: air navigation, meteorology, primary flight training missions, leadership and exercise of command, aviation communications, basic flight training missions, duties of command and staff officers, organization of the army, navy and the army air force, and program of the office of civilian defense.

There is no expense to CAP membership other than the cost of a uniform, which is estimated at $8.

Mrs. H. C. Stover Dies Here After Long Illness

Following a long illness, Mrs. Louise Stover, wife of Rev. H. C. Stover, pastor of the Knight Memorial Congregational church, died early Friday morning. Except for a period of four years between 1921 and 1925, Mrs. Stover had resided in Salem continuously from 1914 to the time of her death.

Mrs. Stover, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Wolpert, was born in Denver, Colo., on September 22, 1975. When she married Rev. Stover, he was a minister in Denver. Ten years after their marriage, the Stovers moved to Salem. For a time Rev. Stover held the pastorate at Freewater, Ore., but the pair returned to Salem in 1925.

Mrs. Stover graduated from Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, with foreign languages as her major field. Only the widow, Rev. H. C. Stover, and her sister, Mrs. Grace Ward, both of Salem, survive.

Funeral services will be held in the Clough-Barrick chapel, Monday, at 2 p. m. Private concluding services will take place later at the Mt. Crest Abbey mausoleum.

Economies Reduce Christmas Candy

War economy and sugar rationing have combined to reduce vastly the production of Christmas candy. Candy manufacturers, finding that costs, particularly of labor, are rising, are almost completely eliminating the production of hard candy. Fancy chocolate creams and similar candies are now being more extensively made than are other types. Since sugar stocks are low, many popular candy bars are no longer produced.

One candy manufacturer has noticed that advance sales of Christmas candy have been larger than usual. He ventured to suggest that sales before the first of December were equal to all pre-Christmas buying last year. However, the fact remains that the demand for candy is much greater than the supply available.

No decision was reached in a discussion of Christmas season store hours. Pres. Morris said the consensus of opinion was that stores should close at 6 p. m. on Monday, December 21, and Thursday, December 24, but remain open until later on the intervening Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

North Santiam Road Limited

Officially opening the Sardine creek bridge on the North Santiam on Friday, the county court temporarily restricted use of it to one-way traffic weighing eight tons or less. The bridge, out of use for a week since high water created a hole at one approach and threatened underpinnings, is braced with logs which leave an 11-foot clearance only, Judge Grant Murphy said Friday night.

The caveat on the Crooked Finger road, where travelers were Thursday night warned of danger, has been repaired temporarily, Murphy said, but log haulers using county road 962 from Taylor's grove over the hill to Mill City were Friday notified that their permits have been suspended because of surface condition of the road. A 50-foot stretch was unintentionally plowed up when a load of piling tore through the surface.
