New Year's Eve Party At Home

Good friends and good food are the requisites of a party, especially the see-the-New-yearin-at-home kind of party. Thanks to gas rationing we are rediscovering the joys of small neighborhool gatherings and we'll boost civilian morale with lots of them in '43.

Guests will welcome the variety of table-ready meats. You ean choose between a "make your own" sandwich buffet with all the makings for guests to enjoy or a simple buffet supper of table-ready meats, a hot casserole of scalloped potatoes or other vegetable, a tossed sallad and beverage.

For the help-yourself sandwich arrangement you'll want to provide a variety of cold meats, one or two kinds of cheese and several kinds of bread. Then there should be little dishes of mustard, horseradish, chili sauce, pickle relish and salad dressing, and of course, a bowl of wellereamed butter or margarine.

Sliced tomatoes, sweet onions and other relishes add color and favor to the sandwich combinations. You may wish to provide a choice of sandwich spreads, which can be made earlier in the day. For example cream butter or margarine and add chili sauce. Or add minced parsley and lemon juice, or minced cucumber. These spreads will add variety. Be sure to take them out of the refrigerator early so they will be soft and spreadable.

For the buffet set-up and the cold meat platter that is the center of attraction, try an assortment of cold tongue, pickle and pimento meat loaf and salami. Garnish this tray with red cranberry or tomato aspic salads molded in star-shaped or tree-shaped molds and served on green watercress.

Slices of minced ham or bologna, rolled into cornucopias, fastened with toothpicks and filled with hot or cold potato salad will make a hit. ottage cheese that has been mixed with chopped chives make a good cornucopia filling too.

Cooked ham, pot roast of beef (which can be purchased ready to serve), bologna and liver cheese are possibilities. Garnish trays with celery curls, pickle or olives, and other colorful accompaniments.

Regardless of the menu you serve or the garnish, it's wise to choose an assortment of cold meats for variety in chape, color and flavor. And it is wise, too, to buy a well-known brand of table-ready meats so you can always be sure of fine wholesome quality and uniform good fla-

If you'd like hot refreshments, or a suggestion for the appetizer course, dinner-size frankfurts are the answer. Cut steaming hot dinner-siz frankfurts into halves or quarters lengthwise, impale each on a toothpick and serve around a bowl of hot savory barbecue sauce. Crisp cocktail crackers and a beverage complete this "snack" course.

Here's Ration Reminder

Working Women

She Picks the Winners By GLADYS DEGNER Associated Press Features Writer

She's moviedom's only female executive vice president, That's a large assignment, but petite Kay Brown, Producer Hunt Stromberg's right hand, carries off her duties with dispatch and efficiency that would do credit to a male tycoon. Buying books, discovering new talent, and casting are all in her day's work. Nothing surprises Kay Brown. An order from the coast for "six gorgeous six-foot-two blondes for the line in 'G String Murder'" brings a shrug-and she produces the Amazons. No matter how absurd an order Margaret Becker and Wayne might sound, it's part of her Meusey sang and Mr. Meusey job and is to be taken seriously.

> The excitement of the job is "terrific" in Kay's language. When a big book is about to issue, it is her task to obtain it in galley form, judge its picture possibilities and inform Hollywood. If she decides to bid, it's a case of Kay against the field, and she must prove that hers is the company to make the picture. "If we get a book that everyone else wants, I feel that I have done a good day's work," says Kay, whose transactions run from $50,000 to $100,000 for the purchase of picture rights to one

How did she "get that way"? Kay Brown made her entrance into the picture business right after graduation from Wellesley in 1925. Starting as a reader in the editorial department of film booking office, she later became head of the editorial department of RKO pictures. Ten years ago she changed jobs, to become eastern representative for David O. Selznick.

"You can buy the best book in the world," Kay says, "but if a great picture isn't made, you get no credit for it." She modestly explains that the reason her purchases for Selznick received such acclaim was really because he made wonderful pictures of them-for example, "Gone With the Wind" and "Rebecca."

Yet with all her success, Kay has no grandiose ideas or aims as a career woman. She does the work because she loves it, but she never allows it to interfere with her home life. In private life she is Mrs. James Barrett, thank you, and the proud mother of two charming little girls-Linda and Kate. With the executive eye noting the progress of her youngsters, she thinks 11year-old Linda is the most likely to"make" the family name or become famous. With motherly pride she points out that Linda is a keen student of history and her idea of fun is to tramp for hours through a museum, taking copious notes on the things she

"My work is geared to my private life but business never enters my social life," says Kay, like all true executives. "I shed all thought of work when I go

Today's Menu

Liver will be on the menu today. It's not among the rationed meats, and will be handy to make a little beef go a long way. Lettuce chunks with

French dressing Beef and liver loaf Spiced beets Peach cake ring

BEEF AND LIVER LOAF 1/2 pound ground beef (economy cut)

34 pound chopped beef liver 1 egg 14 cup dried crumbs 2 tablespoon chopped onlons

1/4 cup diced celery 2 tablespoons butter, melted 1 tablespoon chopped parsley 1/3 cup milk 1 tablespoon cream

1/4 teaspoon paprika 11/2 cups boiled rice, seasoned Cover beef 5 minutes with boiling water. Drain and chop. Mix beef with liver, eggs, crumbs, seasonings, melted butter, milk and cream. Pour into a buttered loaf pan spread with the rice. Bake an hour in moderate oven. Unmold and serve with savory or tomato sauce.

½ teaspoon salt

PEACH CAKE RING (using cooked dried or canned peaches)

3 tablespoons shortening 1/2 cup sugar 1 cup peaches

1/4 cup peach juice teaspoons lemon juice tablespoons butter 1/2 cup sugar

1 egg, beaten 1/4 cup milk 1/4 teaspoon almond extract 1/4 teaspoon lemon extract

1/2 teaspoon salt % cup flour 1 teaspoon baking powder

Mix shortening and sugar in bottom of deep, round cake pan. Heat slowly until melted. Add peaches and fruit juices. Cream butter and sugar until soft. Add rest of ingredients and beat a minute. Pour over peaches and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Unmold, peach side up; serve fresh with cream.

No Sugar in Ice Cream

A new taste will be found in this recipe for home made ice cream, and there's no sugar.

MOLASSES ICE CREAM 2 cups milk 1 tablespoon cornstarch 2 egg yolks

16 cup pure New Orleans molasses 2 egg whites 1 cup cream, whipped

Scald 11/2 cups of milk. Mix

4 tablespoons sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla

cornstarch with remaining 1/2 cup cold milk, add to scalded milk and cook in top of double boiler 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Beat egg yolks and add two tablespoons of sugar, pour hot milk mixture slowly onto them, return to top of double boiler and cook, stirring con-stantly, until thick like custard. Add molasses and vanilla, then chill thoroughly. Beat egg whites stiff but not dry, adding remaining two tablespoons of sugar gradually during the last few seconds of beating and fold into chilled mixture. Fold in the whipped cream. Pour into tray of mechanical refrigerator and freeze with control at coldest setting.

Punch Bowl to Be Filled

For the New Year's at home, a hot fruit or cranberry punch can be poured from a pitcher, or eggnog or fruit punch ladled from a punch bowl.
