Turner Holiday Short; Churches Entertain

TURNER—The shortest vacation in the history of the schools was enjoyed this Christmas time by Turner pupils, who returned to classes on Monday morning after being dismissed Thursday noon. In conjunction with wartime requests and the need of closing Turner schools in May to aid with early berry harvest, the short vacation was considered necessary by the school board of directors.

The three Turner churches, Assembly of God, Christian church, and Methodist church, presented religious Christmas programs under the direction of their pastors, the Rev. Heath Lowry, Rev. Gene Robinson and Rev. Paul Jaquith, with large congregations attending the sacred pageants, exercises and music.

In addition to class room parties and gift exchanges in the grade schools, and the annual high school party and exchange of gifts, a joint high school and grade school Christmas program was presented in the auditorium and largely attended by parents and friends.
