

Farm Machine Rules Eased

PORTLAND, Jan. 20 (AP)—The state OPA modified restrictions on the manufacture and distribution of farm machinery and equipment Wednesday.

Certificates for emergency no longer are necessary to obtain repair parts due to the lifting of the three months restriction on distributors' inventories. Weight of critical materials, rather than number of units, now governs the quota on silo construction. The order no longer affects grain bins and corn cribs made of material other than steel. Harness hardware is not now restricted to farm use.

Doffed His Coat For Russ Relief

TACOMA (AP)—That one person in Tacoma is not afraid to give the coat off his back for war relief was revealed in a story told by Warren K. Tomlinson, chairman of the Russian relief committee of this city.

A milk bottle in his hand when a sign in the window of the relief office caught his eye. He put his milk bottle down, took off his coat, voluntarily handed it to the surprised secretary standing in the doorway, picked up his milk bottle and resumed his way to the store in his shirt sleeves.
