Speaks on Indians—"Anthropology of the American Indian" will be the topic discussed by Charles F. Roblin, for 35 years a member of the Indian service, when he speaks to the Salem Geological society tonight in Collins hall, Willamette university. He will discuss the numbers and distribution of Indians in the early days, their habits, customs, and cultures. He will also compare them with representative natives on other continents and discuss their probable origin. A display of Indian handwork will accompany the lecture. The interested public is invited to attend.

Garden Instruction Given—Instructions on vegetable garden growing are being given at weekly meetings in the Chemawa grange hall at Keizer junction. These meetings are a part of the rural war production training program under the supervision of the state board for vocational education and the Smith-Hughes agricultural department of the Salem high school. Oscar Evans, representative of the Woodruff Seed company, Brooks, will lead the discussions. The next meeting is planned for 7:45 tonight.

Fell Like Bomb

Called "Canada's luckiest flier," Harry Griffiths of Toronto, Ont., is pictured convalescing in a Quebec hospital from injuries suffered when he fell through the bomb bay of a Boston bomber 4000 feet in the air. Griffiths grabbed the edge of the hatch as he dropped through and hung on perilously while Pilot Capt. John Gerow of Wayzata, Minn., maneuvered the ship to within ten feet of the ground. Griffiths dropped on signal from Gerow and suffered only minor abrasions. His hands, however, were badly frozen during the drop. — IIN Photo.

Fund Use Told By Red Cross

Armed Forces Given Half of Money From 1941 Contributions

In launching its drive for funds as of March 1, the American Red Cross has released a budgetary accounting covering the $68,000,000 war fund contributed by the public in 1941, which has covered the emergency needs of the organization since that time.

According to this release, one-half of the entire fund contributed has been allocated for the needs of the armed forces. The Red Cross is the organization designated to extend social welfare work on military posts and as such is to be found in the camps and posts the world over, both in the United States and abroad wherever the fighting forces go.

This welfare service includes hotels and clubs for US service men in foreign countries, medical social workers for military hospitals both here and abroad, blood plasma for the wounded, enrollment of nurses for the military, assistance with organization of recreation for foreign service men, and many other services rendered at the request of the military to meet individual camp needs.

Ten per cent of the $65,000,000 has been allocated for civilian emergencies such as flood, fire, tornadoes and reconstruction after the bombs fell in Honolulu. Those who gave to this fund in 1941 have aided in giving food, shelter, clothing, medical care and rehabilitation for many hundred unfortunates in the past year.

Of the entire war fund the national Red Cross used or earmarked for use 25 per cent for war disaster preparedness. Each person who contributed 25 cents to the war fund in 1941 made possible protection this past year against war disaster at home. Present circumstances make it necessary to increase preparedness measures, Red Cross disaster people point out.

The report further points out that 15 per cent has been used by the 3600 chapters of the national Red Cross to aid with local community needs that arose individually. Officials of Marion county state that in this chapter the 15 per cent of the $2300 raised locally was principally used in meeting war emergencies such as the purchasing of yarn to make the knitted garments for service men which the military is so urgently requesting.

Local chapter officials also point out that of the entire $65,000,000 raised as an emergency war fund by the Red Cross, there is, according to the national organization, a substantial amount left which will be used to supplement the increased national budget required for 1943-44.

Baillie Found Interested in Postal Naming

That W. H. Baillie, manager of the local office of the US employment service, is interested in the Salem postmastership was disclosed by a report from Washington, DC, Wednesday.

Sen. Charles L. McNary, it was revealed, has been asked by C. A. "Cliff" Lewis, chairman of the Marion county republican central committee, if Baillie would "have a chance" for the appointment.

The county democratic committee had felt hopeful that a democrat would be given the position, after the postal department had rejected the federal civil service commission's certification of a registered independent.

Congressional custom decrees that such appointments go to the majority party, the democratic at present, although local republicans have been wondering if the fact that Oregon's delegation is now solidly republican might change the picture.

Paralysis Fund Aid Pledged

Gov. Earl W. Snell pledged his cooperation Wednesday to the president's birthday ball celebrations and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in the campaign ending on January 30.

The assurance was given in response to a plea from Basil O'Connor, New York, president of the foundation.

"The public has given generously of its dollars and dimes in nine past years of these annual observances," said Gov. Snell, "and I feel confident the people of Oregon on this tenth occasion again will rally with the nation in this good cause. I shall be happy to lend every possible support."

Merit Position Applications End

Only two days remain in which stenographers and typists may apply for merit system positions with the United States employment service and the state unemployment compensation commission.

Formal applications, which may be obtained at employment offices, must be filed not later than midnight Friday with Prof. William Griffith, supervisor of examinations, in Portland.

Examinations will be held February 6 in Salem, Portland and a few other Oregon cities.

Starting pay is $90 to $100 a month with promotions on a merit basis.
