MR. AND MRS. RAY GILBERT (above) who celebrated their golden wedding at a reception held last Sunday in the marine room of the Marion hotel. Both are natives of the Willamette valley, Mr. Gilbert in Salem and Mrs. Gilbert near Jefferson. They were married here and all members of their wedding party still live in this vicinity, all came to the reception. The couple has a wide circle of friends in and near Salem.—(Jesten-Miller).

MR. AND MRS. J. H. BARHAM were married 60 years ago in Waukon, Iowa, and came to Salem 30 years ago. The anniversary was celebrated quietly in their home on South 21st street on February 15. Three of their four living children reside in Salem.

Their Anniversary Today . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Lon Shuttleworth will celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary at a reception held at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Mitchell at 1575 Roosevelt street today. Hours are from 1 to 4 o'clock, and the couple's friends are being invited through the press to attend.

Mrs. W. W. Westenhouse and Mrs. W. K. Winslow will pour at a table centered with a bouquet of spring flowers and lighted by candles. The hostess has arranged spring flowers about the living rooms.

Lon Shuttleworth and Alice McNew were married on February 22, 1893 at Larmore, Mo., and moved to Oklahoma then to North Dakota and later to Salem. Mr. Shuttleworth, took part in the Cherokee race, riding on horseback to secure a strip of land in the newly opened Oklahoma territory. Mr. and Mrs. Shuttleworth only lived on this strip for a short time before moving to North Dakota to take up a homestead. They came to Salem in 1934. Mr. Shuttleworth is 74 and Mrs. Shuttleworth 71.

Their daughters are Mrs. George Sundlie (Ethel), Mrs. J. B. Bucurench (Edith), Mrs. J. W. West (Ina), Mrs. G. B. Mitchell (Lenabel) all of Salem, and Mrs. T. W. Hanes (Ada) of Minot, ND, who died in January. Their foster son, Eugene Lorraine is in the navy.

The couple has seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Silverton Folk Celebrate

Mr. and Mrs. Mack C. Hurley will observe their golden wedding anniversary Monday at their home four miles east of Silverton. Open house will be held from noon Monday until 4 o'clock and from 7 until 9. A family dinner will be served at 5:30.

Their eldest daughter, Mrs. Eugene Armstrong of Springfield will cut the wedding cake and another daughter, Mrs. John Erikson, also of Springfield will preside at the coffee urn during the afternoon. Two daughter-in-laws, Mrs. John Hurley and Mrs. George Hurley will assist in serving.

At the dinner covers will be placed for Mr. and Mrs. Mack C. Hurley, for their three sons and families, Mr. and Mrs. John Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. George Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hurley, their two daughters, and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. John Erikson of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Fulton, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lewis.

One daughter, Mrs. Frances Hoeking, who lives in Canada will be unable to be present.

Nora Embree and Mack C. Hurley were married February 22, 1893, at the bride's home at Havelock, Iowa. In 1929 they came to Oregon and made their home at Eugene until a year ago, when they moved to their present home, known as the old Lima place.

Three guests at the original wedding are expected to attend the open house Sunday afternoon. They are Mrs. Ella Erickson, John Embree and Alvin Erickson all of Springfield.

Tea Will Be Served . . .

Chemeketa chapter of DAR will hold its annual Washington's birthday tea at the Woman's club Monday from 3 to 6 o'clock. Proceeds are to go for a scholarship to train a young Indian girl as a nurse, a state project of the organization.

Mrs. Homer Goulet, sr., assisted by Mrs. William Thielsen, is in general charge. Chapter members will be in costume, and officers will form the receiving line, headed by Mrs. Seymour Jones, Mrs. Carey Martin, Mrs. C. C. Clark, and Mrs. John Harblson. The table will be decorated with red, white and blue flowers. Music will be arranged by Miss Ola Clark.

WCTU Workers Hostesses

Mrs. W. A. Barkus, president of the Marion county WCTU, and a group of her workers will be hostesses next Tuesday for a tea which will be held at the home of Mrs. C. P. Bishop at 765 Court Street. The tea is a benefit for the Children's Farm Home of the Oregon WCTU and located at Corvallis. The hours are from 2 to 4:30 o'clock.

The guest speakers will be Mrs. William Buford Schnebly, wife of the superintendent, and Mrs. Walter Pierce who has recently returned from Washington, DC, with her husband, the former representative from Eastern Oregon.

Oregon WCTU has for its goal this year the raising of $12,500 for this home and according to membership Marion county's share of this sum will be $1800.

Since the home was organized 20 years ago more than 1100 boys and girls have found this a place of refuge as they came bereaved, neglected or in need of such care and training as they could receive there. Over 60 that once called it "home" have gone out in the service.

Interested friends are invited to call and the public is invited to come and become interested.

Don't Look Now..

but . . . we decided definitely, that weddings are nice, but golden weddings are just about fifty times nicer.

I've been working . . . When you see your bank teller strolling down the street with a spade over his shoulder you can't tell if he's a Victory gardener or one of the SP's white collar "gandy dancers" on the way to get his Sunday exercise.

Eavesdropping . . . Mrs. Marie Flint McCall, was glad to get home to a nice dry climate after three months in California.

There are such things . . . We were simply fascinated Tuesday night when a hard working member of the Community Concert association board stuck a credit card on the wall at the performance, with two newly chewed wads of gum. We thought there were priorities to consider before you get gum away from Uncle Sam's WAACs.

Pennies from somewhere . . . Doris Schunke Nixon passed up a good chance to make money the other day. As she started up the curb with her very young twins in a baby carriage, the vehicle collapsed like a tired dog. Trying to keep the babies in order and the buggy under control, she found that her plight awakened so much sympathy that passing soldiers tossed money into the buggy. The poor harassed woman was finally rescued by a kindly storekeeper and taken to safety after she managed to return the money to the owners.

But when she got home, there was still enough change left in the buggy to start a war bond for the twins.

She's just 93 . . . Mrs. Sarah Whitney celebrated her birthday last week and said, "It's nothing to be 93." Eleven of her children are living. A prolific letter writer, Mrs. Whitney received almost 100 Christmas cards, mostly from friends out of town. She lives alone because she doesn't want to be disturbed when she writes and listens to the radio—and she likes to bake bread and cake and stay up late—whew, what a schedule!

Hocus pokus . . . We've met the world's most convincing salesman. Over at the farm store he talked us into buying a sack of his superduper chicken feed. He told us how many more eggs the hens would lay and what wonderful flavor the friers would have—and he blessed us they hadn't stepped up production 75 per cent before we even got home to see 'em. We were so convinced that wouldn't have been surprised to find a flock hatched and ready for the frying pan by the next morning.

Old grind . . . Our dentist called attention to how our front teeth are wearing down. What does he expect when things like this are happening to our automobiles, shoes, oil burner and even the kitchen cupboard?

. . . Maxine Buren.

The Women Work . . .

Mrs. Charles A. Sprague will head the woman's division of the war fund drive of the American Red Cross and has named for district chairman:

Mrs. E. M. Page will be chairman of the northeast district, which includes the residential district north of State street and east of Capitol street. Her captains include Mrs. L. E. Hobbs, Mrs. Lawrence Lister, Mrs. Ralph Campbell, Mrs. George Alexander, Mrs. Lewis Griffith and Mrs. Charles Huggins and Mrs. Dan McLellan, co-captains.

Miss Dorothea Steusloff is district chairman, taking the northwest part of Salem. Her captains are Mrs. Russell Pratt, Mrs. Ivan Stewart, Mrs. Scott Page, Mrs. Phillip Barrett, Mrs. O. I. Paulson, Mrs. Elmer McKee, Mrs. Wally Walrath, Mrs. Saul Janz, Mrs. Albert Gragg.

Mrs. Douglas McKay is chairman of the south district and Mrs. William Hamilton is co-chairman. Their captains are Mrs. Jarrod Owen, Mrs. Leo Page, Mrs. R. D. Woodrow, Mrs. Richard Slater, Mrs. J. D. Foley, Mrs. Harris Leitz, Mrs. Brazier C. Small, Mrs. Carl Miller and Mrs. Clayton Foreman.

The district chaimen will meet with their captains on Tuesday, Mrs. McKay and Mrs. Page will serve luncheon, Miss Steusloff will be hostess to her group at 2:30 o'clock.

The woman's quota is $3100 from the residential district. Men will solicit from the business section of the city.

Sen. Lee Talks to AAUW

Not until women participate more fully in its government will the United States be a complete democracy, but no woman should ask to be elected to office because of her sex, Sen. Dorothy McCullough Lee of Portland told members and guests of Salem branch, American Association of University Women, as she addressed them Saturday afternoon at Lausanne hall.

Women, the speaker declared, usually take the long view of any action, considering its eventual effects upon their families and their communities, while men are accustomed to relating it to immediate results and to financial aspects of life. Both attitudes are required to provide well-balanced thinking in the home, she maintained, and both should be involved with governmental decisions.

Dictatorships grew in three states where there was practically no participation of women in government, Mrs. Lee pointed out as a coincidence worthy of note. As a child, she told the group, she had the opportunity of living in Germany, Italy and Japan at various times, where her father, a naval officer, was stationed, and this feature of national life was impressed upon her.

Without a common tradition of ancestry, the United States is bound together by ideals, and must depend for its unity upon mutual confidence. "We may be our country's worst enemies if we do not give to our government enough thought so that we may have confidence in it," she maintained. Likewise, Mrs. Lee said, government officials deserve to have confidence in the thinking and understanding of their constituents.

At the close of the program meeting, at which Mrs. Frederick Kiehle of Portland, state president of AAUW, brought greetings, the 85 women in attendance adjourned to the dining room, where from a lace spread table, centered with a silver bowl of red tulips and white stock guarded by red candles in tall silver holders, tea was served.

Mrs. Earl Snell and Mrs. Kiehle, Miss Beryl Holt and Miss Elizabeth Stephens poured and members of the recent graduates' group served.
