SEND SERVICE MEN
THE STATESMAN

A "Home Town" Man Writes To His Home Town Newspaper!

Read This V-MAIL Report From a Man Who Receives the Complete Oregon Statesman

Use this plan to send The Statesman to Army men now serving within the United States and to men in the other services anywhere:—

Army postal regulations limit the conditions under which a newspaper may be sent to a soldier serving outside the United States. But you may send The Statesman to any soldier stationed within the United States and to men in other services anywhere merely by filling out one of the blanks below. If the subscription initially goes to a service man within the United States, his copies of The Statesman will follow him wherever he may go.

ONLY'S

Use this plan to send The Statesman to men in the Army who are now serving outside the United States:—

A member of the U. S. Army serving outside the United States must, to receive a newspaper, first write asking that the paper of his choice be sent him and include with his request a signed permit from his commanding officer approving his request.
