Where They Are—What They Are Doing

Jean W. Hollstein of Salem was promoted to a captaincy in the army at Fort Benning, Ga., Wednesday, his mother, Mrs. W. G. Wildig, 665 North Liberty street, learned by telegram Thursday.

Capt. Hollstein, who graduated from Salem high school and from Oregon State college in 1941, entered service January 21, 1942. He is an infantry instructor, teaching basic machine-gun. He and Mrs. Hollstein reside at Columbus, Ga.

CAMP STONEMAN, Calif., Mar. 4—William F. Toomey, of Portland, Ore., was this week promoted from first lieutenant to captain in the US army.

Captain Toomey was formerly employed as an auditor by the state unemployment compensation commission at Salem, Ore., and before his entry into the service September 15, 1941, was in the officer's reserve corps.

He is quartermaster and port claims officer at Camp Stoneman, and his wife, Mrs. Veda Kidd Toomey, lives at 8525 Southeast 16th street, Portland.

Orville D. Beardsley, son of Mrs. Olive M. Beardsley of 1295 South Liberty street, who enlisted in the army air corps reserves last November, has been called to active service and is stationed at Buckley Field, Denver, Colo. He had been employed in Oakland, Calif., until February 10 when he received orders to report for duty.

Bob Gardner, sophomore at Willamette university, left Friday for training in the army air corps at Fresno, Calif. He is a Salem high school graduate, member of High Y and affiliated with Alpha Psi Delta at Willamette. Gardner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gardner, 1990 McCoy street.

Henry F. Henderson, seaman second class, left Tuesday for Farragut, Idaho, after visiting with relatives and friends in Salem and Portland. He spent a few days also with his mother, Mrs. Percy Henderson, in Dallas. Henderson was a junior in Salem high school in 1942 and enlisted in the navy last October.

Sgt. Howard Dickey surprised his mother, Mrs. Etma C. Dickey, on Wednesday, when he arrived home on a 26-day furlough after two years in the Hawaiian islands. His father is Harrel Dickey of Salem. Sgt. Dickey, who has seen active service in the south Pacific, was in Hawaii during the attack on Pearl Harbor and has been assigned to duty training new recruits on the west coast.

Two other Dickey boys are in the service. Sgt. Roscoe W. Dickey went to Fort Lewis with Salem members of the Oregon national guard and is still with them overseas. Ramon Dickey has just been inducted and is stationed temporarily at Fort Lewis.

Jack R. Heidinger, seaman second class, has been transferred to the navy signal corps. He is now training at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill. His mother, Mrs. Lillian Heidinger of McMinnville, is a former resident of Urbana. Seaman Heidinger has asked that his Salem friends write to him, using this address: USNTS (Signal), Company F, Section 1, Urbana, Ill.

Lt. William Mudd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Mudd, has been appointed special service officer of his battalion at Camp Croft, SC, according to information received here by his parents. Lt. Mudd graduated from officer candidate school at Fort Benning, Ga., before going to Camp Croft.

Ensign Stanley E. Eland, former Salem high school and Willamette university student, has been decorated with the navy air medal for distinguished service during a bombing raid on Japanese-held Kiska island in the Aleutian islands. Ensign Eland was wounded by Jap firing on his plane during the attack of the Japanese upon Dutch Harbor. His parents reside at 1363 North Church street until they moved to Portland. Eland belonged to Sigma Tau fraternity when a student at Willamette. Robert W. Eland, his brother, is going to Seattle this week for naval officers' training.

Word that their son, Lt. Robert Hulst, now stationed in California, has been promoted to first lieutenant has been received here by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hulst. The young lieutenant's wife is visiting with him, while their infant daughter, Shirley, is with her grandparents here. Hulst, sr., recently spent some time in the southern state with his son.

JEFFERSON—A. Wilson has received word from his son, Clarence, a second class seaman, that he is somewhere on the Pacific and is well. Clarence received his training at Camp Farragut, Idaho. Pvt. C. E. McClain, who is with a bombing squadron at Oklahoma City, Okla., is home on a furlough visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. McClain at Woodburn. On Tuesday McClain visited his grandmother, Mrs. Lucretia McNeal, and aunt in Jefferson. McClain is a former resident of Jefferson, and was graduated from Jefferson high school.

GERVAIS—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holoubek have received word from their son, Robert, that he has returned to the eastern coast and will visit his grandmother in Chicago before coming on home. He is with the merchant marine and has been on a trip since September. Their son, Richard, leaves for the army March 6.

Flying Cadet

Aviation Cadet Maurice W. Mangis (above), 26, a former Oregon state highway department employe, has been transferred to Yuma, Ariz., for advanced flying instruction after completing his basic training at Merced, Calif. Cadet Mangis is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John E. Mangis, 1264 South 13th street, Salem. His wife, Frances, is residing in Salem while he completes his flying training.

SUNNYSIDE—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Barry, have received word that their son, Robert Barry, has been advanced to corporal.

WEST SALEM—James A. Kessel, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kessel, of Seventh street, has enlisted in the army air corps. James is the fourth son to enter the service. Laurence is in north Africa, John in Cuba, and Francis in Hawaii. He was there during the Pearl Harbor raid.

Temporary USO Sites Discussed

To discuss suggested temporary sites for Salem's new USO center, a group of members of the city's defense recreation committee and the USO met Thursday noon at the YMCA for luncheon with Faber Stevenson of the USO and Roger Folgate, recreational representative of the federal securities agency in this area.

No decision was reached but hopes were held out that a selection might be announced next week. Fred Anunson, chairman of the recreation committee, said at the close of the session. Remodeling of the Breyman block, after final approval has been secured, may take more than three months, he said, pointing to the necessity for a downtown soldier center prior to the possible opening date there.

Sgt. Ruecker of Salem Killed In Plane Crash in New Guinea

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ruecker, 895 North 16th street, received word Wednesday that their son, Staff Sgt. Quentin Ruecker, had been killed in a plane crash in New Guinea. The message came from his commanding officer, Maj. Eugene R. Jackson of a troop carrying squadron of the air corps.

According to the major's letter, the plane of which Ruecker was co-pilot was sent to New Guinea and upon the return trip crashed in the jungle. None of the crew survived, the major believes.

Ruecker was a graduate of Salem high school, attended Willamette university and Oregon State college. While at OSC he was a member of the Oregon rifle drill team. In Salem, he was a Capital Journal carrier. Ruecker was stationed with the 249th coast artillery, battery G, when he entered the service but transferred to the air corps two years ago. He received his mechanical training at Santa Maria, Calif., continued to Moffett Field and was graduated last June from Luke field. He flew in early November to Australia. He wrote that he'd run across a number of Salem and Oregon men whom he knew. Beyond that, the Rueckers had received no word from him.

Survivors are his parents; two sisters, Dorothy and Lois, at home; three brothers, Cpl. Wilfred Ruecker, who is in the air corps

Jefferson Man in Fourth War, Leads First Group 'Over Top'

He has lived through three wars and is going strong in the fourth one—that is the history of J. T. Jones of Jefferson. He celebrated this week by leading his war fund workers in Jefferson over the top ahead of all Marion county. Jefferson's quota was $450; collections now are $500 and still more on the way.

"Some of the people in Jefferson said that we should stop when we had reached our quota, but people want to give and, too, I told them the Red Cross does not stop with a certain amount of work done—it keeps right on working as long as there is a job to be done so I thought we better do all we could this year—we are in war now!"

Mr. Jones was born in Linn county, November 18, 1863, on his father's donation land claim. He came to Jefferson in 1890 and as a youth looked on while the railroad bridge at Jefferson was being built. Later he went into the general mercantile business under the firm name of Smith and Jones.

During the last world war George Griffith asked Mr. Jones to take charge of Red Cross work in Jefferson. "We did pretty well then," Mr. Jones ventured.

These past few days Mr. Jones and his workers have covered about 40 miles outside of Jefferson. "I feel it today; getting in and out of cars makes me feel kinda old," he commented. "I
