

Planners Study Youth Petition

Commission Believes School Authorities Should Direct

SILVERTON—That youth recreation, particularly if a school building were to be used, came more under the jurisdiction of the school district than the city council, was the belief expressed by planning commission members at their meeting Monday night at the city hall.

City Manager E. K. Burton, acting chairman in the absence of President L. E. Brown, brought the matter to the attention of the commission. At the March meeting of the city council, Mr. Burton had been asked to put the petitions submitted that night by 50 high school students in the hands of the planning commission.

Mr. Burton expressed the opinion that further investigation in regard to present requirements should be made, and it was the understanding that the matter would be further studied. Lloyd Larson, member of the commission and also a member of the school board, was instructed to ask the board its reaction to putting the question on the June ballot, and perhaps to arrange for a meeting with the board and members of the planning commission.

The matter was rather fully discussed, and members of the commission expressed the thought that should such a center as proposed, be opened, it should function only on Friday and Saturday nights, and Sundays, closing on Sundays during church hours.

C. B. Anderson, as chairman of that committee, reported on the building code study his committee had been making, saying that further study was necessary before a formal report could be made. Dr. P. A. Loar, chairman of the zoning committee, reported that his committee had met and made some preliminary suggestions on zoning. This will be studied further at the April meeting when Virgil Langtry of the League of Oregon Cities will be asked to meet with the local planning commission.
