

Hesitation May Lose Stamps

By MAXINE BUREN

She who hesitates is liable to lose her very precious ration stamps, because April 30 is coming right along and red stamps A, B, C and D won't do her a bit of good after that. Then there are the blue stamps, D, E and F, which must be used up by April 30, too.

Women are having to entirely revolutionize their mode of household buying. In the first place, we've always been taught to save for a rainy day, and saving stamps we don't happen to need this week, seems to be the reasonable way to save. But better these days, to buy what we will need, and use up the stamps, before the day slips along when our good stamps become void.

Many women will find that the grocer is out of what she needs those last two or three days.

About the red stamps, check on what you'll need this week in the way of meat, and retain that number of red stamps, but spend all the rest of your red coupons on what you may need later. Number E stamps will be good next week, and will remain valid past the April 30 deadline for the A, B, C and D ones. This makes a reserve for emergencies which may arise next week.

Even if you don't have any immediate necessity for meat, fats and cheese, remember that you will need to increase your salad oil in summer, when salads often make the main dish. A pint of oil will set you back 6 points and many a family can use a pint of oil a week. Then remember that you may need extra butter in summer, so buy up an extra amount of vegetable shortening, so you can use your fat stamps later for butter (which you would prefer to buy as needed). Canned fish and meats take red stamps, you'd do well to stock up a bit for summertime dining.

As to canned goods, juices are a good investment for stamps, dried beans and peas will make good casseroles for summer "covered dish" picnics, soups are always good for the emergency cupboard and if you've extra stamps, you might find a can of pineapple (though high in points) handy to give flavor to spring fruit salads.

The sugar coupon number 12 is good until May 31, but there's no harm in getting your supply now, it will keep and will relieve the grocer of a last minute rush when the deadline comes along.

Coffee coupon number 26 expires Monday, watch it.

Today's Menu

Liver will make a loaf to be served at dinner tonight.
Carrot and peanut salad
Liver noodle loaf
Fresh asparagus
Canned berry shortcake
Cookies

LIVER NOODLE LOAF

1/2 pound beef or pork liver
2 tablespoons fat
1 cup cooked noodles
2 tablespoons chopped onions
1/4 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
1/2 cup milk

Brown liver well on both sides in fat heated in frying pan. Cool and put through food chopper. Combine with rest of ingredients and lightly pack into buttered loaf or round pan. Bake 50 minutes in moderate oven.

Whip Avocado Into Dessert

Avocados make very good meal beginners, attractive in both appearance and flavor. Lemon or lime juice adds to the goodness.

WHIPPED AVOCADO

3 small avocados
Juice of two limes or lemon juice
3 tablespoons powdered sugar
Cut the avocados in half and scoop the pulp out carefully leaving the peel unbroken. Mash the pulp, add the lime juice and powdered sugar to taste. Beat until it looks like pale green whipped cream. Pile into shells and serve very cold. May be prepared ahead of time as the lime juice prevents the avocado from darkening. Serves four.

Easter Parade

Wild Eyed Rumors—Just Rumors

By DOROTHY ROE

AP Fashion Editor
No, Mabel, you won't have to wear an old flour sack in the Easter parade.

Despite the wild-eyed rumors that have been making the rounds recently, there is no shortage of spring finery on the home front. You may buy as many Easter bonnets, suits, frocks, gloves, handbags and gawgaws as your budget will allow—but you're going to feel pretty silly if you buy a lot of things you don't need and find them dated this time next year.

The point is, you'll find as wide and varied a selection as ever when you start out with your shopping list in hand. If it's a pure wool suit you're seeking, you'll find it with no difficulty, at every price range and in any weave from tweed to gabardine, or from flannel to serge.

The little suit-dresses of spring are big news of the moment, being shown in handsome new rayon failles, surahs, tussahs and crepes as colorful and rich as any pre-war silks. Most of them have brief weskit-like jackets with zipped-in waistlines and slim trouser-pleat skirts.

Since it's a late Easter, you'll see plenty of prints in the big parade. Navy with white is still a favorite, but the lighter monochrome prints are almost as much in demand. Effective for the new soft suits are necktie prints, in small foulard designs.

Hats this spring are as you like 'em. If you're a tall gal, there are plenty of big, swooping brims to dramatize your beauty. If you're the petite type, you'll go for the miniature homburgs and efforas in bright straws and fabrics, the flowered calots and the flirtatious little Gibson Girl sailors that are all over the place.

You'll find tall crowns and hats with no crowns at all. You'll find hats made of everything from gingham to balibuntl. Just pay your money and take your choice—no ration tickets will be needed.

Limes Make Pie In Spring

There's something about those brightly green little limes that prove that springtime is here, no matter what the temperature outside. Limes make good chiffon pie, or other desserts, but you must include some of the grated rind, for therein lies the intriguing tropical flavor. Here's a recipe that uses gelatine:

LIME CHIFFON PIE
1 tablespoon plain, unflavored gelatine
1/4 cup cold water
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1/2 cup beet sugar
1/2 cup lime juice
1 teaspoon grated lime rind
3 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 baked 8-inch pastry shell

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made especially for women to relieve periodic pain with weak, nervous, blue feelings—due to functional monthly disturbances. Taken regularly — Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such symptoms. Follow label directions. Thousands benefited!

Add gelatine to cold water and let soften for 5 minutes. Add 1/4 cup sugar, lime juice and rind to beaten egg yolks. Stir over hot water until mixture thickens. Cool until the mixture just begins to set—stirring over cracked ice will hasten this, if necessary. Add salt to egg whites and beat until stiff, gradually adding the remaining 1/4 cup sugar. Fold in the thickened gelatine mixture, pour into the baked pie-shell and swirl the top attractively with the back of a spoon.

Palestine Travelogue

Given at Assembly

GRAND ISLAND — Mrs. E. E. Forlund of Portland was a guest speaker at the school assembly held Monday morning when she talked to the school children on her travels in Palestine. She and her family lived there for eight months. She told of the people, their costumes, customs and religious beliefs. She illustrated her talk with objects brought from the Holy Land.

Mrs. Forlund is a sister of the primary teacher, Mrs. James Richardson.

It's an old American custom

THE trouble today is—all "bottlenecks" aren't glass.

Lack of tin, scrap metal, greases and fats are bottlenecks to production. Advertising brings 'em in to slap the Jap.

"Finding a house" may be your bottleneck today. Or buying a new pair of shoes. Or how to fit your family's nutrition needs to the new "point" system of rationing.

Advertising breaks those bottlenecks, too—right in the pages of this paper. Today and every day. Read the ads—like breaking bottlenecks, it's an old American custom—a particularly good one now.
