30 per Cent Valley Bees Die, Black

Smaller lots of bees in The Dalles area experienced about an 80 per cent mortality due to winter kill and starvation, but commercial aplaries where owners fed and checked their bees during the winter and early spring came through in fair to good shape, reports A. Burr Black, apiary supervisor for the state department of agriculture, who was in that territory a few days ago.

Present indications point to a 30 per cent loss of smaller lots in the Willamette valley, due to late swarming last summer and the late spring. Commercial lots in this section, too, are in good shape.

Black says the losses will not affect the honey production picture so much as pollenization of

He reports also that a number of the commercial beekeepers have reduced their holdings from 30 to 50 per cent due to labor shortages.

Interpreting The War News

By GLENN BABB AP War Analyist for The Statesman

We are assured by Prime! Minister Churchill that "we are more than holding our own" these spring days in the noquarter battle of the Atlantic, but this week has brought strong indications that a year ago we definitely were losing to Hitler's Secretary Knox declared last night that over-all allied ship building for 1942 exceeded overall allied losses. He offered this as a correction to the senate's Truman committee report, which asserted that United Nations shipping losses averaged 1,000,000 tons a month through 1942, "somewhat more" than construction. Mr. Knox said this figure was wrong, but did not indicate whether too high or too low.

The net result of this exchange is to leave the American public confused as to exact figures, but the unmistakable implication of the Knox and Truman statements and other information is that during the early months of 1942 the allies were losing ships faster than Engineers Scan port is a document comparable in significance to the report on Enlargements the American navy's losses at Pearl Harbor. For the second time the American people are told, a year after the event, something of the extent of a great, and at the time not fully comprehended, disaster to their resources of seapower.

Mr. Churchill was able to tell commons Feb. 11 that in the The child came back in a hur-ry and grabbed his mother's margin of building over sinkings was 1,250,000 gross tons, and two months later his first lord of the admiralty, A. V. Alexander, amended this to make the eight-month gain "a good deal more than 2,000,000 tons" which might be nearly 3,000,000 of the deadweight tons in which Americans reckon. In other words, during the fall and winter, while the U-boats were handicapped by short days and bad weather, we piled up a small backlog against the crisis of the coming summer.

Meanwhile American shipbuilding is more than doubling its 1942 output, which was 8,-090,000 tons. The goal for 1943 is nearly 19,000,000 tons, which means that unless Admiral Doenitz' wolf packs do better than they did last year, American production alone will add 7,000,-000 tons net to the allied pool, even if we accept the probably excessive 12,000,000 Truman figure for 1942 sinkings. And the British and Canadian output, not disclosed, will be just so much additional velvet.
