Not a 20 per Cent Tax

The headlines' necessary brevity and even some incomplete statements in the text of news matter have misled some fraction of the public as to the effect of the new tax bill which belatedly seems near to enactment. The phrase "20 per cent withholding tax" has left its impression; a substantial percentage of the public has assumed that it means 20 per cent will be whacked off total weekly wages or salaries. It does not.

Even a more careful reading of most news dispatches will disclose that the 20 per cent deduction is to be made "after specified exemptions reflecting family status." These exemptions are $24 a year for a single person, $1248 for married couples, plus $312 for each dependent.

Determining those exemptions will be the task of the already over-burdened paymaster or payroll clerk but the employee impatient to know what he will have left may figure it out for himself. The single person may subtract $12, the married person $24 plus $6 for each dependent from his weekly wage; the remainder is the taxable income and the worker will know that 20 per cent of that, he will not find in the pay envelope.

Thus if five employes of different status have each a $40 a week income, the single person after July 1 will find $5.80 deducted, the married person without children $3.20, the married person with one child $2, the one with two children 40 cents, the one with three children nothing for income tax. But at this point it becomes a bit more complicated. The worker who owes no income tax may still owe a victory tax, of 3 per cent rather than the present 5 per cent. This particular $40-a-week employe with a wife and three children will find 84 cents deducted for victory tax.

Now for the bad news. The deduction of income tax from regular pay does not complete the transaction. Next March 15, or on the 15th of the third month following the close of the taxable year, the usual income tax return will have to be filed, the taxpayer taking credit for amounts deducted and settling with Uncle Sam for the difference.

All this applies to wage or salary earners except members of the armed forces, ministers of the gospel, farm workers, domestic servants, casual workers and a few others in unusual categories. As for persons whose incomes are from sources other than wages or salaries or whose salaries run above the withholding level, they—with the exception of farmers—will estimate their incomes and pay quarterly for the current year. Farmers will file estimates by December 15 and pay the full estimated tax at that time. But all these persons will file final returns at the usual time after the end of the taxable year, and settle up. If their estimates were 20 per cent too low—33 1/2 per cent in the case of a farmer—they will owe 6 per cent interest on the difference.

All persons who paid one-quarter of the tax on their 1942 incomes by March 15, are required to pay the second quarter by June 15; in the final settling-up process these payments will be credited on their 1943 taxes. Persons whose total tax for 1942 exceeded $50 will still owe 25 per cent of the tax on their 1942 or 1943 incomes, whichever is smaller, to be paid in two installments March 15, 1944 and March 15, 1945.

The foregoing explanation is perhaps too complicated and yet some details have been omitted. Two points should be understood: (1) The 20 per cent withholding tax on 1942 incomes of equal amount, upon which the taxpayer has been paying this year. The whole purpose is to make taxpaying "current." (2) Nevertheless, the settling-up time on 1943 incomes is, as in the past, the 15th day of the third month after the taxable year ends.

Tribute to AP

The Statesman is one of the oldest members of the Associated Press, having been a member of the old Pacific Associated Press, one of the predecessors of the present AP. So naturally we are interested in the pending case in which the government is attacking the Associated Press as a monopoly in news-gathering and distribution, and hence a violator of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Whether it is a law-violator or not is a question now demanding the attention of high-powered lawyers and a panel of judges, and nothing a member paper can say or do will have much consequence. But it is significant that the government indictment and briefs are most eloquent and convincing testimony of the position the Associated Press occupies and the work it performs. Let us quote from the motion made by attorneys of the department of justice:

"It further stands admitted on the pleadings that the Associated Press ranks first among the three named news agencies in public reputation and esteem; that the character of the organization as a membership corporation is an invaluable guarantee that the news which it furnishes will be presented without any political or sectional bias, and that it has the advantage of the good will resulting from the fact that in the mind of the general public the name 'Associated Press' has long been regarded as synonymous with the highest standards of accurate, non-partisan and comprehensive news reporting."

With the government itself making such an endorsement of the Associated Press little remains to be said in its defense. The AP has been in existence, with even more rigid limitations on admissions to membership, for virtually the entire life of the Sherman act. It operates as a cooperative, one of the first and most successful cooperatives ever established in this country. And to it in very large measure is due credit for the superior news service the newspapers of America are able to render. The public has been in the long run the great beneficiary of the AP. It is unique in legal history that an institution which by its methods of operation and its management has made itself outstanding should now be labeled a culprit at law. Its success is cited as proof of its guilt!

Gen. DeWitt

Secretary Stimson brands as nonsense the statement of Congressman Welch of California that Lieut. Gen. J. L. DeWitt was being relieved of command of the Fourth army, which has charge of defense of the Pacific Coast. Welch claimed he was being relieved because the war department disagreed with his refusal to permit the Japanese to return to the coast. The Welch statement sounded like nonsense when uttered, because the war department would have prevented the issuance of the evacuation order if it had thought it was unnecessary. It could not now bounce Gen. DeWitt on this ground, because it must share the initial responsibility.

General DeWitt has had to carry a heavy responsibility—the defense of the most exposed portion of continental United States. After Pearl Harbor he lacked naval strength for off-shore support. He did not have any adequate military establishment. Great cities and war industries were exposed, close to the sea. There was a considerable Japanese population, many of whom were loyal to Japan.

Gen. DeWitt, starting almost from scratch, had to organize his defense. Evacuating the Japanese was only one phase of his duty. He ordered the coastal demilitarized zone, fixed restrictions on movement of aliens, set up the military protection for the coast as rapidly as possible. That "nothing has happened" is not proof that these measures were unnecessary. In view of the military weakness on this coast right after Pearl Harbor, he would have been notoriously delinquent if he had not taken all reasonable precautions to anticipate attack and be ready to meet it if it came anywhere along the long exposed coastline. It was prudent, remembering Pearl Harbor, to err on the side of caution than on the side of "it won't happen."

As far as the Japs are concerned, they have been evacuated, and should not be returned until the military command is willing. There is plenty of country open to loyal Japs without their coming back while this remains a target area.

News Behind The News

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 27—The new compromise substitute for the Ruml plan was advertised as a tax "abatement" and "forgiveness"—at least to the extent of 75 per cent.

More to the point, it is a tax increase. It will increase the taxes of nearly everyone making over $30 a week by at least 12 1/2 per cent next year, and 12 1/2 per cent more the year following (1944 and 1945).

The government expects to collect $3,000,000,000 more from the taxpayers of the nation up to then, than if this "abatement" and "forgiveness" had not been provided. And the increase may be more than $3,000,000,000 in the end. Figure it out for yourself. A man with an $1800 a year income pays $103.20 (married, no dependents, and not including the victory tax). Under the "abatement," he will pay $116.20 next year and the same the year after, and he will continue to pay this year exactly the same as usual—$103.20 (plus the victory tax).

This increase of $12.90 is compulsory, and is taken in cash, dollars and cents, coin of the realm. The forgiveness part of it is back debt which does not abate actual payments from now until the end of 1945 when the war will be over, we all presume and hope.

At that time, you will be even with the government. Thereafter, you will have to pay only on what you earn as you earn it.

If this is a rich man's bill, every single person earning over $15 a week is to be considered rich, (and every married man earning over $30) because a full back-debt abatement is provided only for those owing the government less than $50 taxes (meaning a single person earning less than $800 a year, or a married person earning less than $1500).

The increase is apt to be even greater for most of us than is above represented, because we are "abated" only on whichever one of the last two years we had the smaller income.

If perchance your income is smaller this year than last—a rare case—you must continue payments the rest of this year on last year's taxes—the higher year.

If your income is larger this year than last, you must revise your current payments upward on September 15, and pay more than you otherwise would for the September 15 and December 15 payments.

This so-called "abatement" plan is supposed to be a compromise substitute for the Ruml plan. Yet it does not meet the problems the Ruml plan was intended to solve.

The Ruml plan was brought forward solely on the theory that taxes already were too high to collect fully, or that the end of the war would find the taxpayer unable to pay the government his back tax bill. It proposed full back-debt abatement without increasing payments.

This plan or any compromise requiring any payment on the back debt in addition to payments on current income, is primarily a tax increase, and if the war ends anytime within the next two and a half years, you will still be owing the government some back taxes.

Naturally this side of the matter has not been stressed much to the taxpayer, who has been presented generally with the good features of the plan—the points that it will help to hold down inflation, that the accompanying 20 per cent withholding tax will soon enable the government to get its war money currently at the source (preventing evasions by workers shifting about) and so on.

There is another good feature which also has not been mentioned much. Passage of the bill is accompanied by a common understanding among congressmen that no attempt will be made to increase income tax rates until the end of 1945. Corporation taxes may be increased, a sales tax levied, etc. in response to Mr. Roosevelt's appeal for $16,000,000,000 more taxes, but income rates will be left as they are, if everyone remembers the unwritten agreement.

Obviously, however, it is far more accurate to call the plan a "pay-as-you-go" scheme which will require increased tax payments for two and a half years more rather than a "forgiveness" or "abatement," which is only its secondary aspect.
