Hofer Services Will Be Today

Widow of Newspaper Founder Was First Home Ec Columnist

Mrs. Anna Ballou Hofer, former resident of Salem and widow of Andreas Franz Hofer, died at her home in Pasadena, Calif., last Sunday. Services for her will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the W. T. Rigdon chapel and interment will be at the City View cemetery.

Mrs. Hofer was born in Iowa and lived there until after her marriage to the late Mr. Hofer who came to Salem in 1890 and became one of the founders of the Capital Journal with his brother, Col. E. Hofer. .

After 18 years in the newspaper field Hofer became the first full-time secretary of the Salem chamber of commerce.

Mrs. Hofer remained in Salem until the death of her husband in 1913 at which time she left to make her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Ballou,

Christians Base Sunday Theme On Memorial

The spirit and challenge of Memorial Sunday will characterize both sermons and choral selections at the First Christian church. "The Blessing of Insecuri-Nation." A mixed quartet, composed of Gertrude Cherrington, Edith Serrell, Leslie Carson and Dr. Fox to Explain Erne Bjork will sing "God of How to Pray" Our Fathers" by Warren.

Inasmuch as May 30 is also rural life Sunday, the night mes-sage will point to the relationship which should exist between city and rural churches. In a recent survey among the churches of the Disciples of Christ, a large percentage of the leadership of urban congregations had been supplied by rural churches, figures revealed. The message, "A Lesson from the Soil," will emphasize the Christian virtues which one learns from living close to the
