Convicts' Induction Possible

Several inmates of the state penitentiary may be inducted into military service, it was indicated Monday following action of army officials in creating a special prison draft panel composed of Ray Stumbo of the Salem district selective service board, R. S. Keene of the state parole board and George Alexander, prison warden.

This panel, under the army set-up, is authorized to obtain draft records of all penitentiary inmates from local draft boards and recommend their induction on the basis of information submitted by the state parole board. Records show that the parole board already has recommended induction of 10 penitentiary prisoners.

The convicts would be inducted through Salem draft board instead of being returned to their places of residence for induction. Army physicians would conduct the physical examinations at the penitentiary.

George W. Durham, last to be recaptured of three convicts who escaped from a flax field near the state penitentiary May 28, was in solitary confinement at the prison Monday night.

Two other convicts, Doyle Clark McCann and Gene Kensler were captured near Mill City on the morning following the break.

Durham was armed when captured. He denied having any part in attacking the gun guard supervising the crew in which he was employed.

Direct Air Service Set For Salem

Salem will have direct air-mail, passenger and express service to Washington, DC, for the first time as one result of the civil aeronautics board's order approving United Air Lines' application to extend its coast-to-coast route from Toledo, Ohio, to the national capital, Manager W. T. McIntyre of the air line's Salem station said Monday. Previously air travelers, mail and express bound from Salem to Washington, DC, have transferred to another air line at Chicago or Cleveland. United's application for the new non-stop service has been pending for two years, and had the active support of civic and industrial organizations of this and other cities served by the company, he said. The service authorized by the newly-granted certificate is to be inaugurated at such time as the civil aeronautics board finds it consistent with the nation's war program. Mr. McIntyre said the effect for Salem will be that of expediting the record volume of war-time

Berries launch the canning season

The moment berries start coming into market, it's the signal for canning to get under way. It's good nutrition, too, for by canning berries, you're tucking away vitamins and minerals for future health.

CANNING BERRIES—The hot pack method—Wash berries and remove stems or hulls. For each quart of berries, add 1/2 to 1 cup of sugar; boil 3 to 4 minutes, stirring gently. Pour while still scalding hot into hot, sterilized quart jars to 1/2 inch from top. Seal and process in "Boiling Water Bath" for 5 minutes.

CANNING BERRIES—Cold Pack Method—Pack washed, hulled, uncooked berries into hot, sterilized jars, cover with boiling, light to medium syrup (1/2 to 1 cup sugar heated to boiling with 2 cups water) to within 1/2 inch of top of jar, adjust jar lids and process in "Boiling Water Bath" for 20 minutes.

To Process in Boiling Water Bath—Use a deep container with tight-fitting cover and a rack or false bottom of wire or wooden slats to keep jars off the bottom of the container. Fill with water deep enough to cover jars by 1 to 2 inches. Heat water to almost boiling, then lower hot, filled jars into hot water, placing so they do not touch each other. Cover container, heat to boiling, and keep boiling vigorously for the entire processing time. Count processing time from the moment the water begins to boil. If water evaporates, add more boiling water to keep jars covered at all times.

CANNING JUICE FOR FUTURE JELLIES Wash, hull and crush berries and heat without water 5 to 10 minutes. Extract juices from pulp by straining and pressing through double thickness of wet cheesecloth. Pour into hot, sterilized jars to 1/2 inch from top. Process (see above) for 20 minutes.

FOR JELLY MAKING—By canning the juice in this manner, it is a simple thing to make jellies whenever there's enough sugar saved up. You'll find many other uses for this fruit juice too, if you've been foresighted and canned enough. It is delightful to add to punch or fruit drinks. Just add sugar to taste and add water if it is to go a long way.

HOW MUCH? It takes about 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 pounds of berries to give 1 quart of canned berries, and a little more for a quart of fruit juice.
