

Mott Reveals US Academies To Need Men

Congressman James W. Mott, republican, of Oregon, announced today that the first congressional district of Oregon will have two vacancies in 1944 at the US naval academy, Annapolis, Md., and probably one vacancy at the US military academy, West Point, N.Y.

To determine the eligible candidates residing in the first Oregon district, Congressman Mott has requested the civil service commission to hold a preliminary qualifying examination on Saturday, August 21, 1943.

Candidates for admission to the naval academy must not be less than 17 years of age nor more than 21 years of age on April 1, 1943. Candidates for the military academy are eligible for admission from the day they are 17 until the day they become 22 years of age, on which latter day they are not eligible. Candidates for both academies must never have been married.

In order to make the required arrangements, it is necessary that applicants notify the congressman not later than July 15, 1943, of their desire to participate in the examination. The congress on this date will be in recess and letters of application should be addressed to Congressman James W. Mott, Salem, Ore.

Adair Holds First Canine Courtmartial

CAMP ADAIR, Ore., June 30, 1943—The first dog's military court martial in the history of this Post was held yesterday.

Blazer, the now famous and much publicized pedigree collie who voluntarily returned to camp after going AWOL last week, was sentenced to restrictions of the Post until arrangements can be made to take him to the basic center ground, with the hope that further instructions will make a good soldier out of him again.

There was order in the court when the chained Blazer was led from his "cell" at the K-9 detachment by Sgt. Nicholas Paulucci, head dog trainer, to the trial under the flickering shade of the green apple trees nearby. The judge of the summary, Lt. William H. Gill, presided. The judge was visibly moved as Blazer, paws on the table, looked appealingly into his eyes when they faced each other that memorable afternoon. There were no signs of emotion, though, on the thoroughbred's face as cameras clicked and the sentence was intoned.

Observant military standers-by, however, noted the stricken dog bury his face in his trainer's trouser leg just before he was led back to his cell and all was over.

Soldiers Get Citizen Test

One soldier listed himself as a stateless citizen of the world, an ex-German who made his way to America through Rotterdam.

Muddy Landing in Far Aleutian Amchitka

Is that your boy? An American pilot brings his huge Consolidated Catalina down on a soggy field on Arctic Amchitka, fog-enshrouded islet of the Aleutians, one of several stepping stones to Tokyo. These long-range craft raise merry heck with Jap shipping in the northern seas. The Japs don't like these Catalinas, whose oversize doesn't prevent them from low altitude inboard bombing. The pilots of these far-rangers have to be exceptional, which was what made us think it might be your boy in that cockpit.—HIN photo.

Public Asked To Curtail Phone Calls

"Telephone demands for additional service, both exchange and long distance, continue at new high levels," N. R. Powley, president of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, declared in a statement, accompanying dividend checks mailed Wednesday to common shareholders, and just received by R. N. Nixon, telephone company manager here.

"Government regulations now in effect further restrict the amount of new material that may be used for the installation of telephones, provision being made, as formerly, for putting first the installation of telephones required for war and essential civilian purposes," Mr. Powley added.

"The increase in long distance traffic continues to be extremely heavy, especially on the longer hauls to and from war activity centers. We have, therefore, recently intensified our advertising program urging that the public refrain, so far as possible, from making long distance calls to and from war activity centers."

Local Building Permits Log Record Month

A last-day spurt brought June building permits issued in Salem to a peak for the fiscal year which closed Wednesday.

When a $3000 permit was issued to Salem Iron Works for repairs at the concern's Frost street foundry, those for the month leapt to a grand total of $19,118. Snell Raps Wood Ration

The new federal wood fuel rationing program is unnecessary and untimely as far as Oregon is concerned, Gov. Earl Snell declared Wednesday.

"I regret that the program was adopted," Snell said. "Only a few days ago Lynn Cronemiller, state solid fuels coordinator and deputy state forester, reported that enough wood fuels will be available in Oregon."

Under the federal program wood dealers will give priorities to consumers in the most need.
