Naval Officer Weds in Maine

DAYTON—The historic twin-spired chapel on the Bowdoin college campus was the scene of the wedding Saturday afternoon of Miss Nancy Randolph Wall of Los Angeles, daughter of Charles Wall of Los Angeles, and Commander John Clement Alderman of Portland and Dayton, now at the naval air station at Brunswick, Maine, son of Lewis Raymond Alderman.

The ceremony took place at 4 o'clock. Dr. Chauncy W. Goodrich officiated.

Music on the chapel organ was furnished by Prof. Frederic Tiltonson, head of the department of music at Bowdoin college.

The bride wore a tailored white crepe dress with white hat and veil and her corsage was white. Her matron of honor was Mrs. Rodney E. Ross of Bath, Maine. The bride was given in marriage by the Honorable Rupert H. Baxter of Bath, whose daughter, Mrs. Claude S. Gillette of Bremerton, Washington, is an intimate friend of Mrs. Alderman.

The groom's best man was Lieutenant-Commander Francois C. B. Jordan, of Brooklyn, NY. The ushers were Lieutenant-Commander Alexander C. Husband, Lieutenant Harry G. Polard, Lieutenant Benjamin W. Childs, and Lieutenant Clarence C. McDavitt, all of the naval air station at Brunswick.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the bride and groom departed from the chapel under crossed swords held by the ushers.

When Johnny Comes Marching

—Home May Be by Way of Reno

By F. A. LITTLEJOHN AP Feature

DURHAM, NC—Listen, Dan Cupid, you have been working the marriage bureau overtime during these war-glamorized days, but did you ever stop to think that:

From one-fourth to one-third of these wartime marriages probably will end in the divorce courts, and—

In the peak year of demobilization the rate may run as high as from one-third to one-half!

The prediction doesn't come from some reformer, basing his gloomy warnings upon sentimental grounds; rather, it comes from Dr. Hornell N. Hart, sociologist at Duke university, who brings statistics, charts and graphs to support it.

Dr. Hart explains his method of looking into the marital future thus:

In 1888 there were seven divorces for every 100 marriages. The rate has increased faster and faster until in 1940 there were 21.

Dr. Hart and his statistical assistant, Miss Henrietta Bowne, fitted a mathematical curve to this increase. That curve indicates that in 1945 there will be 23 divorces for every 100 marriages. But it makes no allowance for war-time divorces.

To take account of the probable increase due to war marriages, Dr. Hart and Miss Bowne

WAC Writes Songs to While Away Hours on Trip Across

By RUTH COWAN EIGHTH US AIR FORCE ORIENTATION CENTER, July 20 (P)—Pretty Private Marion King of West Hartford, Conn., former secretary to an insurance executive, now en route to Britain with the WAC expeditionary force, has parodied several popular songs.

And here's the first verse of what WACs are singing to the tune of "When You Were a Tug-Boat":

"When we were civilians our nails were vermillion, "Our thoughts were on proms and beaux."

"With long flowing tresses and bright colored dresses,

"How we loved our nylon hose. "And now we're in khaki but when we come back,

"We will powder our shiny nose—

"Let's get on now to Dover and help get this over and come back to feminine clothes."

"I found out that the best way to handle a situation in the army is to write a song about it," said Marion.

WACs coming over had a tough situation to handle, too. The ship's captain and troop commander were dubious about WACs aboard and had the women quartered on one deck with the men soldiers on the deck above and deck below them. But never were they destined to meet.

To the tune of "Bell Bottom Trousers," Marion told the story. One verse said:

"But love will find an answer to every hindrance,

"And obstacles will only add flavor to romance,

"Soon boys were fishing; they took the sport en masse—

"And what boys were catching was neither trout nor bass."

The song told that men on the upper deck were dropping notes by fishing lines to girls on the lower deck and they in turn to men on the deck below them was sung by WACs at ship entertainments.

"The captain sent for me and asked for a copy of the song," said Marion. "He also asked for a performance by the WAC trio. Shortly afterward the men and girls were permitted to meet in the lounge where they could play cards and get soft drinks for a few hours in the evenings."

Your eyes are here! Through them you are able to watch the war around the world and around the clock. In a single day you follow it from Britain to the Mediterranean, or look in on the fighting from the Aleutians to Africa. Through these eyes, you see this war as it really is—from the skies, the bridge of lurching warships and the inside of foxholes. Never has it been possible before to follow a war so closely. You see all this because YOUR eyes are the trained eyes of Associated Press correspondents on every front. They report this war as speedily and as accurately as is humanly possible. Your eyes are the most dependable on earth!
