

Tri-Y Girls Attend Session

A group of Tri-Y members and leaders just returned from Easbeck, Washington where they attended a three day annual conference of officers of Tri-Y. Delegates came from Washington and Oregon, the number totaling 84 girls and leaders.

From Salem went Geraldine Nelson, Tri Y president, Addy Lane, vice president, June Young, program chairman, Pat Brown, service chairman, Betty Zo Allen, camp and conference chairman, and Trude Meier, social chairman. Mrs. Elaine Fisher was adviser to the group.

The conference was taken up with morning discussions of leadership technique and was conducted by Girl Reserve leaders. During the assemblies, Dr. Dwight Smith of the United churches of Olympia, and Dr. Lawrence Bee of the psychology department of the University of Oregon, led in discussions, the latter dealing with the psychological problems of the present day.

Afternoons were taken up with swimming and boating and other recreation.

Conference on Health Held

Marion county health is increasingly dependent upon the volunteer worker, it was pointed out at the conference held in the chamber of commerce on Wednesday under the sponsorship of the public health association. The volunteer workers were organized at the conference, and will soon be equipped to take up added duties as assistants to the public health nurses in the various communities throughout the county.

Sixty women and one man present represented Benton and Polk counties as well as Marion county.

Mrs. Saidie Orr Dunbar, executive secretary of the State Tuberculosis association pointed out the necessity for cooperation of all civic women's clubs in this work, assuring the listeners that individual clubs will have to give up any idea of glory to individual groups and work as a whole toward the one end—that of carrying out the public health program.

Miss Ethel Mealey, consultant on health education from the state department of health, was the afternoon speaker and led the discussion on work which can be done by the volunteer workers. She listed and discussed such possible work as assisting at health clinics—receiving patients, transporting them to and from the clinics, greeting mothers and keeping data. She listed stenographic and clerical work, distribution of pamphlets, establishment of loan closets and work on surveys, which will relieve the public health nurse and which can be done by community workers.

Dr. Willard J. Stone, health officer for Marion county, gave a brief talk, pointing out the necessity for volunteer workers to assist the present staff of nurses, which is cut over 50 percent in the local office. Mrs. Ruby Bergsvik, executive secretary of the Marion county health association was in charge of the meeting and introduced the speakers.

Mrs. C. W. Stacey, county chairman of volunteer workers, instructed the club representatives to return to their own communities, to appoint health chairmen, who in turn will report back to her and the Marion county association for assignment to work when needed.

The Woman's Relief Corps will meet at the YWCA at 2 o'clock on Friday.
