Snell Urges Link to Join Alaska Road

Support for a proposal that a highway be built to connect the Pacific coast with the Alaska military highway was asked of Oregon's congressional delegation Friday by Gov. Earl Snell.

A 500-mile highway from Prince George, BC, to Lower Post, YT, was suggested by Gov. Snell. Construction costs would be shared by the United States, Canada and British Columbia.

The proposed route follows the original route suggested for the Alaska highway. The route was changed to its present location, which is several hundred miles east of the original route.

"The construction of this link would expedite the movement of war materials, equipment and troops to Alaska from supply bases in the Pacific coast states of Oregon, Washington and California," the governor wrote.

"Furthermore, the post-war value of this highway to the Pacific coast is of considerable importance, not only because of the trade relations with Alaska and other states along the route, but it would be the means of stimulating the tourist trade which indeed is an important peacetime industry in Oregon."

Traffic Signs New—An extra warning to motorists approaching schools is to be painted on the surface of the road near each rural Marion county schoolhouse which is on a paved road, County Engineer N. C. Hubbs said Friday. The road maintenance crew started the job Friday morning. "School" signs painted on the highway will be in addition to the signs on posts.

You will always find a better car and make a better deal at Loder Bros., 445 Center St. "Our 15th year in Salem, Oregon." "Home of Good Used Cars." "Oldsmobile Sales and Service."

Want Washing Machine—Members of the fighter squadron at the Salem airbase would like to feel independent in days to come when they may be unable to secure laundry service, a representative said Friday, so they are seeking a washing machine. Information concerning the whereabouts and the availability of such a rare piece of equipment should be turned in to Lt. Fred F. Hageman at the field.

Requests Granted Early—Before he had ever asked for repairs to a bridge and gravel on a road near his ranch in the Silver Falls area, the maintenance jobs had been ordered, Bill Smith discovered when he appeared before Marion county court with his requests Friday.

Color-styled rooms are easy to achieve with the help available at Eifstrom's wallpaper and paint departments.

Collision Reported—Automobiles driven by Walter I. Wely, route three, Salem, and Lawrence J. Martin, route two, Silverton, collided at the intersection of Capitol street and Fairgrounds road early Thursday night when Martin turned left into a service station as Wely approached on Capitol from the north.

Girl Missing—Seventeen-year-old Rhoda Esther Babcock, route one, Dallas, was reported as missing Friday.

Crop Harvest Platoon Work Ends Saturday

All the crop harvest platoons of children will have finished their season's work by Saturday. Work began for some of them the day after school was out. They have harvested many tons of food, and now they are ready to go back to school.

As a result of a survey made Tuesday and Wednesday, it was found that some are investing all their summer's wages in bonds. Others are buying clothes and bonds. These youngsters have been seen this week carefully selecting school clothes with money earned in the fields.

The variety of crops harvested is wide. One group has picked strawberries, sweet cherries, pie cherries, blackcaps, beans, prunes, peaches, and has weeded corn, pulled parsnips, cut onion seed, gathered corn, tied and shocked flax, and a few of the larger boys shocked hay and shook prunes.

Etta White's group is just finishing prunes in Polk county. Mrs. Germain and her crowd have worked in the Liberty district, and through just in time for school. The platoon of Mrs. Florence Kron finished a few days ago. Mrs. T. C. Roake has now completed her assignment in the Polk county hills. Lois Reed has checked out in the Gervais area.

According to the Emergency Farm Labor Service, some of the children who deserve special mention as having worked faithfully and efficiently over the long season are Nelda Carter, Bruce Baggett, Dwane Rawlins, Hugh Beltinger, John Westphal, Marion Bauer, Patsy Lou Hammock, Glenn Kleen, Tom Johnson, Bob Erickson, Barbara Hendrickson, Charlotte Williams, Joyce Evenson, Dick Stewart, Loren Spence, Dale Herr, Jean Hoffman, Verlaime Walker, Charlotte Lowery, Marianne Bonesteel, Pat Ullman, Niles Donnell, Fern Johnson, and Donna Johnson.

State Industrial Payroll Jumps

The state industrial accident commission reported Friday that the state's industrial payroll in August was $53,198,882, a gain of $4,000,000 over July and $20,000,000 over August 1942.

Marion county's industrial payroll was $2,695,415 in August. Multnomah's was $37,328,847, accounting for virtually all of the statewide gain over July and about 85 per cent of the gain since August a year ago.

Children Hurt By Buzz Saws

Buzz saws took their toll in minor casualties in the Salem area Friday, with two juvenile recipients of first aid as their victims.

Darling Elsie Wendland, 7, resident of route five, fell on a stationary buzz saw cutting the back of her left knee and the calf of her leg. City first-aid men cleaned the wounds and dressed them temporarily and sent her to a physician for suture.

Peter Jones, 10, of 1375 Third street, West Salem, lost the tip of the third finger on his right hand in a buzz saw.

Nels Heibert, 1070 Erixon street, cutting grass with a sickle, took off the end of the forefinger of his left hand. First-aid men cleaned and dressed the wound.

Veta Fergard, 580 North 14th street, received minor injuries when the top of a car trunk dropped on her head and nose.

State Employees Buy War Bonds

War bond purchases by state employees through state sales agencies have amounted to $10,262 since the opening of the third war loan campaign, Secretary of State Robert S. Farrell, jr., said Friday. He added that state employees had purchased many bonds in addition through banks, and all this in addition to the payroll savings investments of most employees.

Through war bond counters within the offices, employees of the public utilities department have invested $3056 and state department employees $3037.

Free Courses Offered Here If in Demand

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Sept. 24—Special expense-free engineering war training courses will be available to men and women in the Salem area for those wishing to prepare themselves for work in war industries if there is enough demand to warrant a class, Glenn W. Holcomb, professor of engineering here and state coordinator for the engineering, science and management war training program in Oregon, has announced.

A new bulletin listing 47 different classes in eight different fields which will be offered this fall and winter has just been issued by the school of engineering, which supervises the ESMWT program in Oregon. The US office of education sponsors this nationwide training program and pays all costs of instruction and incidental fees.

While most of the courses will be given in Portland, they will be organized in other communities of the state if desired, Holcomb said, on the same basis as some of those given this past year in Salem.

Approximately 3600 men and women have completed various of these engineering war training courses since they were first offered in the spring of 1941, Holcomb reports. Most of these men and women are now in war industries.

The new bulletin lists eight different courses each in general engineering and drawing, industrial administration and industrial engineering; 11 in electrical engineering; four each in civil engineering and mathematics; and two each in high school mathematics and physics teaching and industrial safety engineering.

Women especially are urged by those in charge to investigate these training programs since the demand is heavy for women to fill vacancies left by men in these jobs who have joined the armed forces.

Complete information may be obtained from the dean of engineering at Oregon State college.
