

Girl Reserves' Corner

The first club to complete organization for the year is the Girl Reserve club at the state school for the deaf, with 22 members under the advisement of Miss Ethel Pierson, sewing teacher at the school. The following officers have been elected: Jean Pettit, president; Irmay Burns, vice-president; Doris Grover, secretary; Georgia Ward, treasurer. The girls have been divided into the following committees: program, publicity, social, music, camp and service. The service committee will have charge of a program at Friday morning's chapel in observance of War Chest week in Salem. The girls have voted to each make and wear white dresses and Girl Reserve ties for uniforms. Sixty-seven girls from Parrish joined in the rally for Girl Reserves at the YWCA Wednesday after school. After playing games and singing songs in the recreation room, the girls divided into grade groups interested girls signed the roll. The interclub council representatives reported on membership standards. The ties worn with a white blouse and a dark skirt will comprise the uniform for the junior and senior high school clubs. Meeting nights for the Parrish clubs at the YWCA after school are: ninth grade Mondays, eighth grade Wednesdays, and seventh grade Fridays. Special guests at the Parrish rally were junior high girls from the School for the Blind, which has too few girls of that age for a club. These girls will be invited to join the clubs from other schools. These guests at Wednesday's rally were: Patsy Hall, Florence Rushing, Betty Lou Lefton, Laura Ringage and Iva Mae Speed. The interclub council of Girl Reserves held its first meeting last week to set up membership standards for the clubs. The council is composed of representatives of all active clubs and once a month meets to discuss problems and policies concerning Girl Reserves work. Those present at the first meeting were Tri-Y, Addy Lane, and Helen Faulson; Parrish ninth, Virginia Huston; Parrish eighth, Jacky Johnson and Vivian Barham; Leslie ninth, Donna Chastain and Amelia Hinz. Leslie girls interested in joining Girl Reserves met at the YWCA Thursday for a rally. Three clubs laid plans for their next meeting and those meeting nights as Tuesday for eighth graders, Thursday for ninth graders and Friday for seventh graders. All clubs will hold their meetings in the Girl Reserve club room at Leslie school. The ninth grade club elected Joyce Smith as vice-president, Jane Nichols, treasurer; Louella Campbell, song-leader; Carolyn Gilmer, yell leader. The inter-state council representatives gave reports on membership standards. Tri-Y and the Hi-Y clubs are sponsoring the War Chest drive in Salem high school. Plans for the drive were made by a committee composed of Hi-Y president and Geraldine Nelson, Tri-Y president and Pat Brown Tri-Y service chairman. The main event on the Girl Reserve calendar for this week is the Tri-Y shindig, October 22, at the high school gymnasium, for all girls in high school and is one of the highlights of the girls' social season in the school. Salem Navy Mother club members will be in charge of the city's celebration of Navy day, October 27, which will take place at the Chemeketa street USO at 8 o'clock. Iri McSherry, county chairman has appointed the group to make arrangements. Mrs. George Hug is chairman of the committee and will be assisted by Mrs. Norman Fress and Mrs. L. R. White. On Tuesday at 2 o'clock over KOAC, Dr. U. G. Dubach, head of the political science department of Oregon State college will lecture in the AAUW series on "Whose World?" Dr. Dubach will discuss the Latin American political situation.

AAUW First Fall Meeting Draws Many

Oregon's parole system was described by Mrs. Joseph Silver, Oregon senior parole officer, before a good attendance of members and guests of the Salem branch of the American Association of University Women at the first of their general meetings Saturday afternoon in the First Methodist church. An informal discussion followed the speaker's remarks, with the entire group participating.

Autumn leaves and flowers were used in the dining room and the Carrier room where the program was held. Ivy and tuberos begonias graced the dessert tables. Miss Carolyn Wilson, president, presided at the business meeting, introducing her various chairmen and other organization officers. Announcements of the meetings of study groups and the plans for participation in war activities, fellowship and student loan were received with interest.

New and prospective members were welcomed by the president, who outlined briefly the national eligibility rules for membership. Mrs. Jay Stockman, membership chairman, invited and university or college woman interested in becoming a member to contact her either personally or by telephone. The November meeting will be a tea honoring new members.

Mrs. Lillian Davis, Miss Ola Clark, Miss Beryl Holt and Miss Anne Boentje were in charge of decorations.

WOODBURN—Margery Evenson, retiring worthy advisor of Evergreen Assembly, No. 12, Order of Rainbow for Girls, acted as installing officer for the induction of the newly elected officers. The installation took place after the regular business meeting, Wednesday, October 13, in the chapter hall at the Masonic temple, with a large number of Masons, Eastern Stars, and friends of the girls in attendance.

Miss Evenson was assisted in the ceremony by two former worthy advisors, Margaret Yates, grand drill leader, acting as installing marshal, and Maxine Miller, as chaplain. Two Eastern Stars also served, Mrs. Fred Evenden as recorder, and Mrs. J. Melvin Ringo as pianist.

Mrs. L. W. Evenson, mother of the retiring advisor, and Mrs. Alone Davis, mother of the incoming advisor, were introduced by the marshal and conducted to places of honor in the East, where they were welcomed by the Mother advisor, Mrs. Hazel Hughes.

The newly seated officers are Marjory Davis, worthy advisor; Beverly Hughes, associate advisor; Donna Dean, Charity; Virginia Olson, Hope; Edna Hermonson, Faith; Phyllis Davis, drill leader. The Rainbow color stations are as follows: red, Joan Schuler; orange, Barbara Simonson; yellow, Elsa Alden; green, Joan Sargent; blue, Jean Cornwell; indigo, Juanita Sebern; violet, Ardell Rudl. Ina Leighty was installed as musician. After installation the Mother Advisor and the installing officer escorted Marjory Davis, the new worthy advisor, to the altar, where the crowning ceremonial of Evergreen Assembly No. 12 was given by the members of the advisory board as the rainbow colors were lighted in the candelabrum on the altar, by the associate mother advisor, Mrs. August Moeding. The members standing as guard of honor were J. Melvin Ringo, Mrs. Fred Evenden, Mrs. Oliver S. Olson, worthy matron of Evergreen Chapter No. 41, Order of the Eastern Star. The crown was placed by Mrs. L. S. Mochel.

A feature of the evening was a short program, in which Joan Davis, young sister of the new presiding officer, gave a clever monolog, and Donna Dean played Brahms' Lullaby. After an informal social session, the members and guests were invited to the dining room, where the tables were decorated with bowls of autumn flowers and potted ferns. Mrs. Robert Scott and Mrs. Edna Little served.

Tuberculosis in Marion county received a set-back Thursday when several hundred Camp Fire girls and Blue Birds assembled in the chamber of commerce and put Christmas seals on 15,000 envelopes in which the seals will be mailed later. They worked under the direction of the department of health and leaders were on hand to supervise. The work was completed in an hour by this busy group of girls.

Recreational Leadership
The first section of the training course in recreational leadership being directed by Mrs. Emma Maxwell, local Camp Fire Girl's executive, will be held at the Presbyterian church in the club room at 7:30 p. m. on Wednesday. A series of six open meetings will be held for Camp Fire guardians, Blue Bird leaders and women over 18 interested in group leadership. There will be no fee.

In September, at the beginning of the Camp Fire year, many groups were leaderless and others were awaiting organization. At the present work in all groups is proceeding as rapidly as possible with many more groups meeting each week.

Organization Plans
Organization has been completed at the Englewood school with three Camp Fire groups and four Blue Bird groups now meeting. Mrs. Edna Manning, who led the fifth grade girls last year, is the leader of the sixth grade girls this year, assisted by Mrs. N. A. Fuhr. Two new guardians and an assistant are working with the fifth grade girls, Mrs. C. J. Sellard and Mrs. Leo Humphrey who is assisted by Mrs. Glen Weaver.

Mrs. M. D. Vinyard and Mrs. Everett Booster are leading the fourth grade Blue Birds, each group meeting separately. The third grade also has been organized with two groups led by Mrs. Malcolm McDonald and Mrs. F. E. Clark. Mrs. Ella Elle who led Blue Birds last year in the Englewood school will assist with the third grade girls.

With the resignation of Mrs. Cecelia Severin, Mrs. F. X. Hoereth, assistant last year, became the leader. A pep meeting was held with these girls at Leslie Junior high last Thursday by Mrs. Hoereth and Mrs. Maxwell. All through the Salem district organization is proceeding as fast as adequate leadership is secured and it is hoped that a group of girls can be organized in each grade school room in Salem. Several churches are assisting with the program and are providing leadership. Mothers or friends of girls of Camp Fire or Blue Bird age interested in group leadership should contact Mrs. Maxwell, telephone 5887, or plan to attend the leadership training course starting at the Presbyterian church on Wednesday.

A rummage sale will be held October 22 and 26 when the Camp Fire Girls of Salem raise funds to support their leaders' program of activities. Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds may bring rummage to the regular meetings of Camp Fire groups this week. Others may call a Camp Fire Girl or guardian to have the rummage picked up.
