Wheat, Rye Drop Following House Veto on Subsidies

By WILLIAM FERRIS CHICAGO, Nov. 24-(AP)-Grains suffered their sharpest setback in several weeks today, wheat and rye dropping as much as 2 cents on profit taking, set off by house passage of anti-subsidy legislation and fears there might be important international news developments over the Thanksgiving holiday.

The market was in a vulnerable position for a reaction, traders said, in view of the recent advance which had carried wheat to new highs for as long ago as the past 18 years. When the opening showed no demand had been created by the house anti-subsidy action late yesterday, traders decided the legislative move had been discounted and, consequently, they elected to get out of the market.

Final prices were about the lows for the day. Wheat finished 7/8 to 2 cents lower, December $1.61%-1.62.

Traders expressed interest in a war production board announcement partly lifting the ban on use of corn and grain sorghum in producing ethyl alcohol. The ban was established in August, with wheat substituting for corn. Only a small amount of the selling in wheat, however, was attributed to this news.
