

Vikings Open Heavy Hoop Campaign This Week

The 1943-44 edition of Salem high's basketball, with part of a week of practice behind them and another part of one facing them this week, swing into action Friday night, December 3, at Portland. The Viks will engage either Lincoln or Grant high that night in their opener which sends them off on one of the heaviest and most attractive schedules ever rigged up for a Villa hoop squad.

Double home-and-home series have been arranged with State Champion Klamath Falls, arch-rival Astoria and Medford's annually-powerful quint, as well as the annual home-and-home scuffles with the No-Name league teams — Milwaukie, Oregon City, Albany, Corvallis and Eugene.

Director of Athletics Gurnee Fleisher is attempting to schedule other games with Portland prep schools as well as with perennially powerful outfits like The Dalles and Tillamook. He hopes to have the team "soft touch" slate completed this week.

Salem's home opener comes the Friday night of December 10 with McMinnville's Grizzlies. Meanwhile Coach Frank Brown has been sorting through his large turnout attempting to find the one essential which makes his system tick—speed. But unless the athletes who will join the hoop squad from the football team tomorrow possess the necessary fleet-footedness, Brown sees nothing exceptional for the SHS hoop-suiters this winter.

Brown reported after the third day of Viking practice he wasn't at all pleased with material. "They're certainly not fast and are pitifully lacking in fundamentals they should have learned in the seventh and eighth grades," he said.

'Do-Die' Pass Bursts Irish Grid Bubble

freshman last year, and Dewey Proctor of Furman, drilled through the vaunted Irish forwards for 284 yards by rushing, the best showing any of Notre Dame's nine previous opponents. Sitko gained 114 yards on 17 trips while Proctor punched 155 on the same number of carries.

Creighton Miller, the Irish's leading ball carrier, was stopped like a derailed express, picking up a mere 63 yards in 27 attempts for his poorest record of the year. Johnny Lujack, although hitting on seven of his 16 passes, was able to add only 64 aerial yards.

Notre Dame, however, ended its campaign with an average rushing gain of 313.9 yards per game to beat a national record which had stood since the University of Colorado posted an average of 310 behind the running of Whizzer White in 1937. The total offensive average passing and running for Notre Dame amounted to 418.1 yards, only 12 short of matching Georgia's modern record of last year.

Notre Dame scored the first time it got the ball in the opening quarter today on a 67 yard parade featuring Lujack's 17-yard pass to Miller. Lujack topped the thrust on a quarterback sneak from the one foot line and sub Fred Early, whose placekicks gave the Irish a 14-13 decision over the Iowa Seahawks a week ago, faithfully booted the point.

The sailors scored in the first five minutes of the third quarter when Sitko scooted 23 yards behind Joe Schwarting's bull-dozing blocking to ram into the corner of the end zone and cap a 71-yard drive. Steve Juzwik, another former Notre Dame player, failed to convert when Captain Pat Filley partially blocked the kick, leaving the Irish with a 7-6 advantage.

With but four minutes remaining in the quarter, the Sailors again counted in three plays which covered 75 yards. Proctor winged 24 yards, Sitko added four more, then Proctor broke through the Irish secondary and swerved 51 yards to a touchdown. Juzwik again failed to add the extra point and the Sailors led 12-7, becoming the first team to hold Notre Dame scoreless in the third quarter this season.

Notre Dame's long march in the fleeting time of the final quarter to go ahead 14-12 and then Lach's dream pass to send the Sailors into their 19-14 victory margin spelled the windup.

Great Lakes-Irish Steal Grid Spotlight From Army-Navy Mix

By ORLO ROBERTSON
NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(AP)—Notre Dame lost its first game of the season today after winning nine straight, but in defeat grabbed the spotlight of what was scheduled to be an army-navy show on the final big day of the 1943 football season.

The navy and army played their part at West Point, putting on a great defensive battle before the Middles won 13-0 for their fifth straight triumph over the Cadets. The Irish, however, headed for their first unbeaten season since 1930, bowed to the sailors from Great Lakes, 19-14, with the winning touchdown coming in the final minute of play.

heretofore rocky army line, and late in the same period, after Hamberg had run back a punt from his own 49 to army's 44, the march again was on.

This time it was the robust Hume, clawing and bullying and crushing his way through the wavering Cadet ranks. As the fourth period opened he surged through for 15 yards to the army 25. Jim Pettit gave him a lift with a 10-yard gallop, then Hume resumed his solitary offensive until he reached the one. From there, on fourth down, Pettit high-dived into the end zone. Feno's place kick was blocked, but even the Cadets couldn't enthuse much over that.

City Hoopers Meet Monday

Three soldier teams, two from the air base and one from the fairgrounds, a Willamette freshman five, and a team composed of faculty members from Salem high school probably will be entered in the wheel, along with any others desiring to do so.

Anyone wishing to sponsor a quintet, and who is not able to attend tomorrow's meeting, should contact Chet Goodman at the "Y" as soon as possible.
