FAR more valuable than the most costly jewel, the most precious gift you can give this Christmas is a War Bond: assurance of peace and security, not only to the one who receives the bond, but to America—to the world. This present is yours to give those you love most. The War Bond you give today is an expression of faith in democracy, a pledge that you have at heart the interests of peace and the foresight to provide for the future. The War Bond you give this Christmas will help bring peace nearer. Look for a moment into the future. That War Bond will have seen the end of the war and the return of our heroes. It will have smoothed away some of the sadness and uncertainties of life. The War Bond of today will bring tomorrow's Victory!
