Don't Look Now..

But... even if we did pay 52 cents a pound for turkey this year, a woman I know remembers that she paid 62c during the first World war.

Help! Help!... a classified ad reads "Wanted, woman to cook for boarding house, no experience necessary." Lots of people have been suspecting such things.

A tribute... a close acquaintance among the very young set in speaking of a group in complimentary terms said, "When she says 'How are you,' she waits to see what you answer." It set us to thinking, how we grownups must seem to children, with all our silly questions.

Mrs. Melita O'Hara, who is in Salem from Seattle on official business for Beta Sigma Phi sorority for young business and professional women. She is reorganizing the local chapter.

Among the University of Oregon coeds home for the weekend are Miss Miriam Becke and Miss Pat Maurer, Pi Beta Phi pledges and Miss Marjorie Hill, a Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge.

St. Paul's Episcopal auxiliary and guild will have a tea and bazaar in the rectory on Wednesday from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Stackpoles Feted at Party

Colonel and Mrs. Albert H. Stackpole were honor guests at a farewell party Saturday night at the Marion hotel. Hosts for the affair were officers of the 104th, of which Colonel Stackpole is in command.

Mrs. Stackpole and her children, Molly and Tad, are leaving Monday for Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, to make their home while Colonel Stackpole is on active duty. The Stackpoles have made a number of friends in the capital during their residence here and she has been an active Red Cross worker.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Childs were in Eugene on Thanksgiving to spend the day with their daughter, Miss Betty Childs, a student at the University of Oregon.

Mrs. Albert Lockwood (Jean Boyce) was honored at a surprise bridal shower Friday night when Mrs. Millard Doughton and her daughter, Miss Doris Doughton, entertained at the Guy Boyce home. A bathroom shower feted the bride and after an informal evening refreshments were served by the hostesses. Bouquets of autumn flowers provided the decorative note.

Honoring Mrs. Lockwood were Mrs. Orville Cooley, Mrs. John Owen, Mrs. Donald Judson, Mrs. Earl Cooper, Mrs. Lena Cramer, Mrs. Stuart Casteel, Mrs. Robert Root, Mrs. Guy Boyce, Miss Helen Hatfield, Miss Grace Cramer, Miss Lois Robinson, Miss Velora Williams, Miss Margaret Forsythe, Miss Rosalie Hoover, Miss Janet, Miss Vivian and Miss Bernice Boyce, Sergeant Albert Lockwood, Coralie and Kenneth Doughton, Mrs. Millard Doughton and Miss Doris Doughton.

Annual bazaar of the First Congregational church will be held Wednesday afternoon and evening at the church. The doors will be opened at 2 o'clock and a jitzney supper will be served at 5:30 o'clock. The interested public is invited to attend.
