

Grain Futures Sweep Higher

Buying Follows Upward Adjustment Of Corn Ceilings

By WILLIAM LOCHNER
CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (AP)—All grain futures prices were swept sharply higher today by general buying resulting from confusion over the effects of the upward adjustment in corn ceilings and temporary freezing of oats and barley at the highest prices prevailing between November 29 and December 3.

All deliveries of wheat, except September, and of oats pushed into new seasonal high levels, with oats and barley at times showing gains of 4 cents or more a bushel.

Wheat finished the day 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents higher than Saturday's close, December $1.68 3/4, May $1.64 1/2, rye closed 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 cents up, December $1.18 3/4, oats ended the day with gains of 1 1/2 to 3 1/2 cents, December 81 1/2-80 1/2, and barley was up 3 1/2 cents, December $1.21 1/4.

The markets were rather easily influenced by any good buying and selling, which in general came from commission house and professional interests, and were inclined to fluctuate nervously with extreme rapidity.

December oats at one time sold at 82 cents, the ceiling price on No. 2 white oats as determined by directors of the exchange. Directors in a statement explained this ceiling with the fact that the OPA set an 80 1/2 cent a bushel ceiling on No. 3 white, while rules of the exchange permit of a delivery of that grade on future contracts at 1 1/2 cents discount under contract price.

No. 2 white and No. 1 red sold at ceiling in the cash market.

The maximum ceiling price for barley futures under the temporary regulations is $1.28 a bushel.
