

Bricker Flays Domestic Plan

Says New Deal Is Leading America Toward Socialism

NEW YORK, Dec. 13—(AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, an unannounced candidate for the republican nomination for president, said last week in an attack on new deal domestic policies that they were leading the United States to national socialism.

He told the Pennsylvania society in a prepared address "It is high time that we awaken to the fact that the war is being used as an excuse to further many dangerous pre-war policies."

"Unless these policies are reversed by the American people," he declared, "they will unmistakably lead this nation to national socialism."

Bricker contended that the new deal, "step by step and with relentless determination," sought to abrogate unto itself all power.

He said the number of federal employes in civil positions had increased five-fold since 1933.

Bricker asserted that, aside from persons in military service, there were 572,000 federal employes in June, 1933, and approximately 3,500,000 now.

"In Ohio alone," he continued, "we have today 100,000 federal civilian employes as against 22,000 state employes."

Declaring the new deal had at times "been arrogant and brazen" and often "cunning and subtle," Bricker added:

"All of this has resulted in a loss of confidence by the people in the executive branch of the government which has so long dominated them. And now with many in authority talking about rationing far beyond the war, about permanent controls and restrictions, there is a growing loss of confidence in the ability of this leadership to solve the problems of reconstruction and bring about the full return of American liberty."

Concerning foreign policy, Bricker said "An international organization must be founded on continuous close - working collaboration" but that neither this nor any nation should be placed "in an international strait-jacket."
