From the BLEACHERS

By AL LIGHTNER

Much more than hoop action to be expected when the state tourney comes to pass March 16-17-18—almost as hotly contested will be the annual spring meeting of the Oregon High Schools Activities association in conjunction with the Oregon Coaches association. What with all the wrangling suffered during forging of the football tourney, the buck passing so prevalent in past meetings and the squabbles already brewing over the basketball tourney districting, etc., someone closely connected with the OHSAA office may well be formally decapitated before the two meeting groups adjourn . . Seems there's a certain ace up a certain collective sleeves, said ace to play an important as well as surprising role in the upcoming session . . . If, when it's over there's a gent named Fritz Kramer, the Eugene high ringmaster out on leave of absence, or possibly one named R. L. "Matty" Mathews, the Portland U athletic boss who hasn't too much to do these days, in the OHSAA driver's seat on a full-time basis don't be surprised. The coaches, and this is told to us by one of their most prominent members, are terribly unhappy over the present setup and intend doing something about it next meeting . . . And from the way things have been needlessly mauled about by the OHSAA in the recent past, 'ray fer th' coaches . . . Since the improvised slaughterhouse will be sprinkled with vote-casting school principals, however, the coaches may have to pluck two aces to get their plan across . . . Should be quite a meeting . . . Laff dep't: Press notice—"Due to an attack of the flu which sent Coach Claude Cook to bed, Bend high school's basketball schedule was cancelled this week." Same night and sans bed sat Mr. Cook in "coaches' row" at the Salem-Klamath Falls hoop game . . . Hell or high water, the enemy must be scouted . . .

Official Interpretations

Speaking of the K-Falls - Salem game (the second one), now's a good chance to straighten out the skeptics (of which there seems to be many) who second-guessed two moves made by the officials that night . . . (1)—re the fourth foul called on Salem's Don Burlingham by one official when at the same time the other official was calling for a jump ball between Burlingham and the K-Falls lad he had fouled. Burlingham made a perfect block (with his hands) of the attempted shot by his foe, both then coming to the floor in possession of the ball. One official, watching the "above belt" action, called for a jump ball . . . The other official, watching the "below belt" action, saw Burlingham "check" the shooter with his hip—a foul. As a foul always overrules an infraction if called on or during the same play, the called foul on this one stuck . . . (2)—re the out-of-bounds squabble with one second left to play. Salem man was fouled but elected to take the ball out of bounds at center court, his option. At center court he asked how much time was left and was informed by timekeeper "one second." Having been not behind the door when the thinking space was doled, he exclaimed, "Well, then we'll shoot the foul." . . . Rule book says player has an option on shooting a foul or asking for ball out of bounds but once he accepts ball or declares himself on either he cannot change his mind. By wasting time insisting he would rather shoot the foul than take the ball out of bounds after declaring himself for the latter, the Salem player used up his allotted four seconds to get the ball in play, so it was given to Klamath Falls . . . Not excuses, merely technicalities of the game not understood by most fans, and scorekeepers . . .

OSC Outclassed By Willamette

Christmas oughta come more often not only for the kiddies but for Willamette's Navycat hoopsters as well.

After carolling "Noels," etc., far from such as basketball courts while on holiday leave, the 'Cats, with but two days' practice under their hoop-suits returned to the university floor last night to (1) send the old year out with a ripsnorting rush, (2) at last find their long-lost shooting eyes, (3) send their eight-game losing streak along with the gent with the sickle, (4) present Assistant Coach Bob McGuire, pinch-hitting for absent Headman Duke Trotter, a belated Christmas present and (5) surprise everyone in the hoop hall—all by outmaneuvering, outplaying, outrunning, outshooting and outclassing Oregon State's Beavers 35 to 27. And the Navycats definitely were that much better than the Staters last night, if not more so.

Whether it was the rest they had or the New Year's eve spirit they were in—whatever, it was, the 'Cats combined their terrific speed and doubly-close checking with McGuire's "double-decker" substituting, then threw in their first "hot" night in the pitching department this season to spank Slats Gill's puzzled green peas decisively.

The game itself was a corker from start to finish, Oregon State having the height (with the exception of 5-foot-5 Fred "Happy" Lee) but Willamette having the drive and snappy passing to go along with its speed.

The 'Cats found the Beaver shift-zone defense a tough one through most of the first half, but threw a tight one at OSC themselves. When the 'Cats did get through they missed badly but managed to lead four times to OSC's three while seeing the tilt knotted three times before the rest stop. The Beavers left the floor in front only 15-14.

McGuire started another "deck" the second half, and when George Lund canned a long one-hander at the outset to push the V-12'ers ahead away went the 'Cats never to be headed again.

Lund hit seconds later again, and then Maxwell and Frank helped out to send WU ahead 23-18 with 10 minutes gone.

The 'Cats were repeatedly stealing the ball away from the wobbly-passing Beavers now, so Lund, Maxwell and Warner dumped in more to make it 27-19 with seven minutes to go. Oregon State, apparently finding the long rest it had taken for the holidays just the opposite in results as the one taken by the 'Cats, was hitting on only about half a cylinder during this spasm.

More hits by Maxwell and Lund practically iced the tilt for Willamette, but just before it ended Allen Anderson and little Lee managed to team for a mild Stater surge to cut the gap considerably.

McGuire used 14 men altogether and all 14 were in the groove it seemed. Ron Runyan, a sharp pain in the Stater side the first half took care of most of the 'Cat scoring then and wound up tied at 8 with Lund for high honors. Maxwell was close behind with seven. Lee's six paced the Beaver attack, which throughout the contest seemed to be far off the beam.

The Beavers now swing into Northern division action against Idaho and Washington State. Next home game for Willamette comes January 14, against Albina's Hellcats.

In last night's prelim the WU Frosh set an example for the bigger brothers with a 33-13 win over Mt. Angel Preps.

Pasadena Foes 'Ready;' UW Seeks 1st Win

Washington Rated 2½ to 1 Favorite

By FRANK FRAWLEY

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 31—(AP) Washington and Southern California were physically fit tonight and ready for their New Year's Rose Bowl battle that is to settle the Pacific coast conference football championship.

Still 2½-to-1 favorites, the heavy Huskies nevertheless will be clawing for their first victory in Pasadena. Two Rose Bowl defeats and a tie comprise the Washington record since it made its debut here in 1924. The Trojans, conversely, have won six times in as many appearances since 1923.

The two schools last met in 1942 in Seattle and fought to a scoreless tie. The Trojans, despite the loss of four stars to the armed forces, are a better club than the 1942 edition. Washington was improved, too, and it has lost three men to the service, two of them standouts — Pete Susick at full and Jay Stoves at half.

Washington was the general choice for tomorrow for two very good reasons: It beat March Field, 27 to 7, and March Field gave Southern California its worst whipping in history, 35 to 0; Southern California although unbeaten in college competition, is an erratic fumbler, and won some of its games in spite of loose ball handling.

The Trojans are a fair to good passing team, whereas Washington relies on the driving power of Sam Robinson and the speed of Al Akins. The Huskies have a 12-pounds-to-the-man weight bulge but Coach Jeff Cravath's Trojans probably are faster.

Ralph "Pest" Welch, Washington coach, says he thinks the game will be close, with perhaps one touchdown deciding it. Cravath says Washington deserves to be the favorite.

Weather Clear— Track Bit Slow

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 31—(AP)—The weather bureau announced tonight that fair skies would greet the Washington and Southern California football squads tomorrow when they do battle in the Rose Bowl. The turf will be a trifle slow because of frequent rains this week.

300,000 Fans Expected for Seven Games

Finales Expected to Be Aerial Classics

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—(AP)—Mr. Football, a capable hand with a tasty dish, puts what is left of his 1943 gridiron stew into seven bowls tomorrow and serves it up hot to some 300,000 customers.

From the Orange Bowl at Miami to the Rose Bowl out in Pasadena—with dips into the New Orleans Sugar Bowl, the Dallas Cotton Bowl, the Houston Oil Bowl, the El Paso Sun Bowl and the East-West war at San Francisco—the pileup-pass-and-punt parade puts on its last fling before wrapping up all the little pigskins until next fall. And from all reports, it's going to be quite a show.

Most of it figures to be an aerial circus from the word go. For instance, the Sugar Bowl, which may head the attendance list with 73,000—the Rose Bowl turnout is expected to fall 'way off from its "high"—shapes up as a pitchers' battle between two of the year's better collegiate elbowers, Tulsa's Clyde LeForce and Georgia Tech's Eddie Prokop.

At Miami, where Texas A & M tangles with Louisiana State, Aggie Coach Homer Norton already is promising to "give 'em Texas," which can only mean a ride through the air with the greatest of ease. Glenn Dobbs, who piled up a fancy "earned run average" at Tulsa until this year, will be "flipping" for Randolph Field against Texas in the Cotton Bowl. And both the Oil Bowl, featuring Arkansas A & M and Southwestern Louisiana, and the Sun Bowl, bringing together Southwestern Texas and New Mexico, figure to be up in a balloon and bouncing along.

Transportation difficulties and several days of rain probably will keep the Rose Bowl attendance well down from its record 93,000, and the best estimates are that only some 65,000 will show up to see it.

At New Orleans, Tulsa makes a return trip to the Sugar Bowl, but the folks in New Orleans on't think much more of the Golden Hurricane's chances this time than a year ago, when Tennessee came through on top. This time, Georgia Tech is a 5 to 8 favorite to turn the trick, despite the Hurricane's unbeaten record.

Two of the day's tussles are return matches. For the expected 28,000 watching the Orange Bowl brawl, the Texas Aggies face an LSU team over which they already hold a 28-13 decision this season, but the Aggies' edge narrowed when their key back, Marion Flannagan, came down with a twisted knee and was declared out. Earlier this year, Arkansas A & M and Southwestern Louisiana went all out to a 20-20 deadlock, and naturally are a toss-up for this second-time around. Southwestern comes into Houston with an unbeaten record for the year.

The "experts" are all tangled up, too, in the Cotton Bowl, which is looking for a crowd of 35,000. Randolph Field, featuring "magician" Glenn Dodds, has last only one game this year and is a threat as long as Dobbs keeps pulling the rabbits out of his hat. But Texas, also beaten but once, stands out as one of Dana Bible's best outfits, and Dana X. is a whole lot better than a green hand at the game.

Woodburn Joe Favored

Kahut-Bennett Scrap Tonight

PORTLAND, Dec. 31—(AP)—Joe Kahut, Woodburn farmer, and Dallas Bennett, Wallowa logger, were pronounced in top shape today for their 15-round headliner tomorrow night.

Kahut's 175-pound state light-heavyweight title will be at stake. Promoter Joe Waterman has promised the winner a shot at Watson Jones, Los Angeles, coast light-heavy champ, on Feb. 4.

Portland ring experts installed the 20-year-old Kahut a 7-5 favorite today over the former state 175-pound title holder. In 20 professional fights, he has won 17 and been held to three draws.

Woodburn Sets Polio Benefit

WOODBURN — Coach Jiggs Burnett announced yesterday the basketball game between his Woodburn Bulldogs and Chemawa here January 11 would be played for the benefit of Marion county sports infantile paralysis fund. Admission to the game will be charged everyone but the visiting team.

Meanwhile Burnett has been hepping his hoopers strenuously in an effort to whip them into shape for their Duration league opener against Canby here, January 7. The following night Woodburn goes to Oregon City to try and wipe out an earlier 36-30 win by the Pioneers.

At present Burnett's starting lineup consists of Vic Miller and Charley Sauvain, forwards, Walt Baglien, center, and Earl Mattison and Bruce Nelson, guards. Don Marshall and Max Omans have been pressing the quint for opening berths.

Charley Keller Now an Ensign

FREDERICK, Md., Dec. 31—(AP) Charley Keller, hard-hitting New York Yankee outfielder, said today he expected to report to the St. Petersburg, Fla., training station on January 20 to assume the duties of an ensign in the US maritime service.

The service announced in Washington that Keller would be a physical fitness officer at the post. He majored in physical education while a student at the University of Maryland.

WALLA WALLA, Dec. 31—(AP)—Whitman crushed a University of Washington rally eight minutes before the game ended to win 43-30 tonight after leading throughout the game which split results of the Huskies' two-night stand here.

Both sides played faster ball than during last night's 43-41 contest, despite the fact tonight ended four games on successive days for the visitors.

The Missionaries jumped into an 11-2 lead after the opening five minutes and stood well ahead, 21-13, at the half.

60,000 to See East-West Go

By RUSS NEWLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31—(AP) Football players of the east and west, ranging from college freshmen to men in the armed forces, will clash here tomorrow in the 19th annual All Star charity game. The western team, manned by older and more experienced players, will line up as the favorite.

Barring unfavorable weather, a capacity crowd of close to 60,000 is expected. Officials of the Shriners organization, which sponsors the contest for its crippled children's hospital, said today nearly all the tickets were sold.

Chicago U Wins One!

CHICAGO, Dec. 31—(AP)—After more than two years and 45 consecutive defeats, the University of Chicago finally won a basketball game tonight.

The Maroons, who began a dreary string of losses after defeating Illinois Tech on December 6, 1941, broke the chain tonight against Chicago Technical college by a 65 to 27 score, in a game hastily scheduled and attended by only a handful of spectators who were charged no admission price.

Swim Exhibish Highlights 'Y' Open House Today

One of the high points in the open house program of the YMCA this afternoon and evening will be the swimming exhibition at 8 p.m.

Through the cooperation of Chief Bob McGuire of the navy V-12 unit stationed at Willamette university, the first Salem demonstration of "Warfare Aquatics" will be held. McGuire is in charge of coaching the navy men in this very important phase of its training, and he has prepared a program designed to show what each man must learn in order to pass the rigid swimming requirements of the service. There will be such things as diurobing and swimming under water in uniform, using parts of the uniform to assist in keeping afloat, etc.

Another feature of the program will be the giving of awards to those who have recently passed swimming tests in the YMCA program of instruction. Recognition cards will be given to a number of boys and girls who have passed the requirements for the Minnow, Fish, Flying Fish, and Shark clubs.

To climax the evening the Y has arranged for an exhibition by two members of the All-American Women's swimming team for 1943, Miss Nancy Merki and Miss Suzanne Zimmerman. These girls are members of the famous Multnomah Athletic club "Cody Kids." Both girls are record-breaking swimmers. They will demonstrate their winning strokes, including the free-style, the breast stroke, and the back stroke. Also they will swim a relay race against four members of the Y. The public is invited to attend the exhibition and also view the other activities which will be going on at the same time in the building.

Today's program of events:

3:30 to 4:45 — Demonstration boys' gym classes. (3:30 — cadets; 3:15 — preps; 4:00 — Junior high.)

5:30 to 6:00—Volleyball match (Noon class vs. Old Timers). 6 to 7—Badminton matches, 7 to 10 — Church league basketball jamboree.

7:00 — Calvary Baptist vs. American Lutheran; 7:30 — Salt Creek Baptist vs. Salvation Army.

8:00—Fire drill by C. A. Page.

8:05—First Methodist vs. First Presbyterian; 8:25 — West Salem Methodist vs. St. Vincent's; 9:00 — First Baptist vs. Jason Lee; 9:20 — First Congregational vs. First Christian.

POOL: 3:15 to 4:00 — Cadets; 4:00 to 4:45 — Preps; 4:45 to 5:30 — Junior High; 5:30 to 6:30 — Warfare aquatics; 6:30 to 9:00 — Exhibition by Misses Nancy Merki and Suzanne Zimmerman.
