The girls decided to district the town and make a canvass for glass coffee jars, which will be packed in cartons and returned to the coffee companies for further use. This reclamation of glass containers for reuse is a phase of wartime conservation endorsed by the companies, who pay the organization collecting them a stated price per jar, quart and half-gallon sizes can be used.

Mrs. Lyman Shorey, a member of the advisory board, told of the need for attractive scrap books to be used in convalescent wards in Red Cross hospitals. They are to be filled with bright and entertaining material, which will cheer and interest service men. Mrs. Shorey brought book material for this work from Salem headquarters. The girls will make them up.

Other projects undertaken by the assembly for the Red Cross are the knitting and piecing of afghans for use in service men's hospitals, and the giving of assistance in checking and packing finished articles to be returned to Salem for distribution. This assistance will be given to Mrs. Shorey Fridays.

The Rainbow girls furnished refreshments for the Masonic lodge, AF&AM, at its last regular meeting. The group preparing supper included Virginia Olson, Jeanne Butterfield, Phyllis Anderson, Edna Hermanson, Dorothy Davis, Hazel Engle, Barbara Simonson and Beverly Hughes.
