Traiblazer Magazine Out

CAMP ADAIR, Oregon, March 2, 1944—The 70th division today presented the first issue of the new Traiblazer magazine which is now a strictly GI affair.

Men of the division took the pictures, wrote captions and copy, drew cartoons, laid out the pages, supervised the printing and distributed the finished product to the companies where sales were reported as excellent.

The current magazine is 32 pages, styled on the format of the nation's leading picture magazine. While its content is primarily pictorial, there is enough written material so that the story is completely told. It has been designed not only for immediate interest but to contain those things which will make it enjoyable to the folks back home now and to the GI in later years.

One of the most popular features is a photographic essay on a typical army day which takes the soldier from the moment he wakes in the morning, through the busy training schedule of the day, until far into the evening.

Sgt. George Baker of Yank magazine, one of the most famous soldier-cartoonists of the country, has contributed an original drawing of his well-known "Sad Sack."

The Traiblazer is the work of the public relations office of the 70th division G-2 section. Captain George H. Godfrey, 70th public relations officer was in charge.

Health Office Tests Children

Dr. W. J. Stone, assisted by Mrs. M. Wikoff of the Marion county health department, gave examinations to four pre-school and 44 school children at Washington school on Wednesday. Volunteer assistants were Mrs. Bessie Edwards, Mrs. Fred Gahlsdorff and Mrs. Irene TeSelle. Immunizations, vaccinations and Schick tests were given to 46.

At St. Vincent school on Thursday, Dr. C. C. Higgins gave dental examinations to first, second and third graders. Mrs. Wikoff of the department of health assisted, as did volunteers, J. A. Hayes, nurse's aide, Mrs. J. L. Mahula and Mrs. J. A. Barry. Of the 62 examined, including three pre-school children, 16 months were found in good condition and 14 in urgent need of care.

Judge Hears Property Suit

Case of W. A. Matting and Kathryn H. Mosely vs. Marie Hortense Lederer, Grant Lederer and Charles A. Matting was heard by Judge George R. Duncan Thursday. The plaintiffs seek to set aside a deed to real property on grounds, as the complaint alleges, that provisions of a certain contract entered into between the defendant, Marie Hortense Lederer and Angelique La Pratt Matting, original holder of the deed, at the time the latter transferred the deed to the defendant, have not been lived up to.

The contract provided that the defendant in question should furnish board and medical attention to the other, an aged woman, for the balance of her life. The defense has denied the allegations. Feature of the proceedings was appearance of Judge E. M. Page on the stand to present testimony.

Work Limit Urged For School Children

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—School boys and girls between 16 and 18 who also work in industry should be restricted to a combined school-work schedule of not more than eight hours a day and 48 hours a week, 14 state labor commissioners agreed at a conference today.

The commissioners met with federal officials to review wartime relaxations of state labor laws and to seek a common approach for post-war return to peacetime labor standards.

Albina Wins 4th E Pennant

PORTLAND, Ore., Mar. 2—Albina Engine & Machine works was granted the fourth renewal of its army-navy E pennant today—the fifth navy award to be made the Portland shipyard.

President George Rodgers, who made the announcement at the launching of the yard's 52nd craft, said the plant was believed to be the first Pacific coast shipyard to receive five navy awards.

Mrs. Palmer Hoyt, wife of the publisher of the Oregonian, christened the vessel, an infantry landing craft.

Is Your Vision Worth A Million Dollars?

Most folks value theirs at more than that. If you had a million dollars invested in some machine you'd have it checked regularly to make sure everything was always O.K. But too many folks take their million-dollar vision for granted, failing to have it checked for changes which are sure to occur, and putting off care until trouble, frequently very serious trouble, has taken place. No one can prevent their eyes from changing, but everyone can, with proper care, prevent these changes from causing inconvenience and discomfort, as well as danger.

Lumber Pay Boost to Get New Hearing

PORTLAND, Ore., March 2—(AP) Pay increases for 60,000 workers in 600 northwest fir and pine operations will be reconsidered on March 22 by the west coast lumber commission which yesterday denied union demands for general wage boosts.

The war labor board agency announced late today the date for the new hearing "to consider questions raised concerning the sufficiency" of last-minute certifications by the war production board and the war manpower commission which left the way open for higher wages.

The WP Band WMC certifications, allowing the commission to go beyond the "little steel" formula and grant incentive pay to boost production and manpower, were presented too late to be given consideration in yesterday's long awaited industry-wide decisions, WCLC said.

The decisions, greeted angrily by both CIO and AFL unions, left the common labor scale in the Oregon-Washington fir belt at 90 cents an hour and in the pine region of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and northern California at 80-87 1/2 cents.

The AFL Lumber & Sawmill Workers had asked $1.05 in both fir and pine and the CIO International Woodworkers requested $1.02 1/2 in both.

Kenneth Davis, executive secretary of the AFL union's northwest council, said at Tacoma: "I doubt if our union will take any responsibility for any reduction in production caused by the commission's decision." He said the decision would be considered by the council at this month's meeting.

Worth Lowery, IWA president, called an emergency meeting of eight coast district council leaders for here Sunday to consider action.

The total number of pieces repaired—shoes, clothing, textiles, canvas and webbing—was 6,180,109, an average of 515,009 units a month. Almost half the aggregate—3,066,627 units—consisted of clothing and textiles. Shoes repaired totaled 1,807,138 pairs.

The $5,440,044.12 is the estimated amount of savings above and beyond costs of operations of the plants. The compilation covers only five divisions of the army service forces' vast conservation program and does not include savings effected by salvage sales or through the other activities of the quartermaster, ordnance, signal and engineer divisions, all army service forces units.

In its intensive campaign to conserve all materials, the ninth service command increased its quartermaster repair shops from 36 to 56 during the past year.

Repair of shoes and clothing, as well as other such economies, are governed by stringent regulations which outline the type of materials to be reclaimed and the methods of inspection and reclamation. In line with army regulations, repaired and renovated clothing is returned to the original wearer only and when beyond repair are completely renovated and rebuilt at war department factories.

US Plans Airports On or Near Postoffices
WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—Plans to put airports on the roofs or land adjacent to all new post-office buildings in cities of over 25,000 population were disclosed to congress today by the public building administration.

PBA Commissioner W. E. Reynolds told the house public buildings committee such airports in centers of population, with rooftops fashioned somewhat after the flattops of aircraft carriers, would facilitate the movement of airmail and encourage greater use of air transportation.

Wheat Crowding Vital War Crops

CORVALLIS, Mar. 2—(AP)—Expanded wheat acreage is encroaching on vital war crops in this state, the Oregon State college extension service declared today.

An OSC crop report warned that large wheat plantings, far greater than the 3 per cent increase called for by national food estimates, would not leave sufficient land to produce other farm goals. Particularly endangered are the 7 per cent increase in hay and the 95 per cent increase in common and Willamette vetch, the report said.

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo.—(AP) Things are so dull in Pemiscot county, observes Sheriff W. A. Thomas, it's news. His jail was empty for six days this month—first time in 17 years.
