Old Gun Returned — Deputy Sheriff Denver Young Saturday returned to its owner an old gun which was dug up near Mt. Angel by a highway crew. Domagan Wiggins, Salem gun expert, pronounced the gun to be a pioneer model of the 1850's, and stated that it was the first of the type that new sights had been added to the gun some 30 years ago. The weapon was buried in a vertical position. Young, while returning the gun, also was informed of the uncovering of an ancient watch of Waltham make by Elmer Hockenroote, Woodburn farmer, when plowing was being done. The watch was estimated to have been in the ground 100 years. Deputy Young reported it was in comparatively good condition.

Drive to Enlist WAVES Opens; Stores Assist

The WAVE recruiting campaign, in which Salem merchants are cooperating, was opened Saturday with loud speakers calling attention to the booth in which Joan Obidine, specialist recruiter third class was taking WAVE enlistments.

Specialist Obidine will be at a booth in Miller's on Monday, beginning at 10 o'clock, and will discuss the WAVES with young women or their mothers. Many eligible women contacted her on Saturday, asking questions about jobs available in the WAVES, chances for advancement in the service, uniforms furnished and pay for the various ratings. Mrs. Obidine stressed the importance of after-the-war opportunities to service women, she said.

Specialist Obidine will have booklets and other material about the WAVES on hand to distribute to prospective enlistees, and will be glad to discuss any questions. Some competition is being worked up among the cooperating merchants, for the honor of having the most WAVES recruited on their day. Saturday, the opening day, the WAVE booth was set up in the Stevens and Son jewelry store, and much attention was attracted to it by music played through a loud speaker on the street. Tuesday, the booth will be set up at the Smart Shop, Wednesday at Penney's, Thursday at Arbutuck-King, Friday at Sears Roebuck, Saturday at the Metropolitan and Monday, March 27 at Johnson's.

United States Senator Guy Cordon, who returned to Oregon Friday from Washington, DC, spent an hour in Salem Saturday conferring with Governor Earl Snell and other state officials.

Cordon addressed a group of lumbermen at a dinner at Eugene Friday night and stopped off here on his way to Portland where he is associated with Frank Sever in a law partnership. Cordon said his visit to Salem was purely social and that he did not discuss politics with Governor Snell. Whether Cordon will be a candidate for the republican nomination for senator at the primary election will not be determined definitely until next week, he said. He expects to spend 10 days in Oregon before returning to the national capital.

The new senator is now serving under appointment with his term expiring following the November election.

Will Observe Founding of Santiam Academy

LEBANON — Two services of special significance will be held in the Methodist church Sunday. The morning services at which Rev. Bruce Baxter, bishop of this diocese, will be the speaker, will commemorate the founding in this town of one of the first educational institutions west of the mountains. Santiam academy.

Opened in 1852 by the Methodist conference, the academy was for many years an important cultural center for the state until the development of public colleges and secondary schools lessened the need for such an endowed institution. Then the building and ten acre campus were given to the town for a 99 year lease for use as a public school. Many former students are expected to attend this service.

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, memorial services for Lt. Truman Forbis who lost his life while flying in combat over Italy February 5 will be held in the Methodist church of which he was a member. Bishop Baxter, Rev. J. Edgar Purdy and Preston Doughton of Salem will assist Rev. Ralph Kleen, pastor of this church. Mr. Doughton, now of Salem, was principal of the Lebanon high school when Lt. Forbis was a student here.

No WU Delegates to Attend Spokane Meet

Because of travel restrictions and war-time conditions, the Willamette university branch of the International Relations club probably will send no representatives to the Northwest conference at Spokane next Friday and Saturday, according to Dean Daniel H. Schulze of the university here.

Among the conference speakers will be Dr. Frank Munk, of the University of California, formerly of Czechoslovakia and well known in coast educational circles for his book, "The Legacy of Nazism"; and Miss Amy H. Jones of the Carnegie Endowment for Peace, under whose sponsorship the meetings are held.

Labish Center Pupils Win Game

LABISH CENTER — The Labish Center school won a ball game with North Howell Friday afternoon, 12 to 30.

School was dismissed Wednesday because of the funeral of A. F. Rominger.

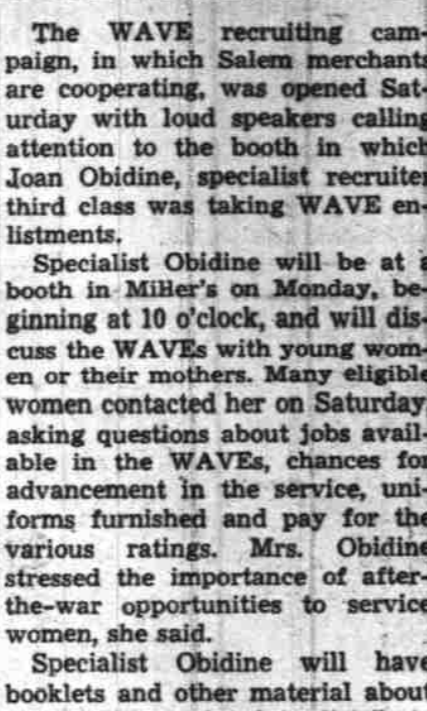

Irene Harris and Loma Hammons returned to school after several days' illness.

The pupils in the third, fifth and seventh grade have finished their county achievement tests.

George Kurth returned home this week after being in the Silverton hospital for more than a week.

Mrs. W. F. Klampe has been ill and confined to her home several days.

Calpak's Salem Plant Wins 'A' for Achievement

The green and white flag that now flies beneath the stars and stripes at California Packing corporation's plant 126, at 12th and Mill streets, was presented ceremoniously to the plant management and employees Tuesday night. Capt. M. L. Ring, US navy supply corps, left, here hands the banner to R. G. Luck, northwest division manager for Calpak, center, and Percy Blundell, Salem superintendent. The "A" stands for achievement. It is a new award from the war food administration and is said to compare with the army-navy "E."

Cordon Meets With Snell

United States Senator Guy Cordon, who returned to Oregon Friday from Washington, DC, spent an hour in Salem Saturday conferring with Governor Earl Snell and other state officials.

Armory Dance To End Drive

A big dance, March 31 in the armory, will bring the Red Cross 1944 war fund to a conclusion. The American Legion will turn the armory over to the Red Cross that night and the Federated Patriotic societies will sponsor the dance.

Mrs. Verne Ostrander, president of the Salem Council of Women's organizations, will head the ticket sale committee. Her assistants will be representatives from the Auxiliaries of the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, Eagles, Veterans of Foreign Wars, DAR, Daughters of Union Veterans, Sons of Union Veterans and the Lions club. Cooperation of other organizations is sought. Everything for the dance will be furnished, including the music and the hall. It will be the grand finale for the war fund drive since it ends then, March 31.

Mt. Angel Coed On UO Honor Roll

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, March 18 — (Special) — Honor roll for winter term was announced late this week. Among the 107 university students who met the requirement of a grade point average of 3.50 or better was Ruth Van Buskirk, Mt. Angel, junior in English, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Van Buskirk.

The registrar's office announced that winter term enrollment reached a total of 1738 students.

Lumber Code Hearings Set

Following a two-day hearing in Portland on Tuesday and Wednesday, the accident prevention division of the state industrial accident commission will conduct hearings on the revised safety logging and sawmilling and woodworking codes at Salem on Thursday and Friday, March 23 and 24.

The local hearings will be held at the Capitol and will convene at 9:30 each morning. The first day will be given over to a discussion of the logging code and Friday will be devoted to the sawmilling and woodworking code.

Copies of the revised codes have been in the hands of operators, loggers, organizations and others for study purposes for some time. Objections to revisions in the codes or suggested additions may be presented at the hearings.

Hearings have been held at Eugene, Prineville, Klamath Falls. In addition to Portland and Salem, hearings are scheduled at Baker on March 29 and 30 and at Marshfield, April 5 and 6.

Navy Recruiter Makes Regular Trips

MONMOUTH — Each Thursday afternoon on regular schedule, A. C. Friesen, recruiting specialist from the Salem navy recruiting station, will be here to answer questions concerning enlistment in the US navy. He will have headquarters at Morlan's store, and will also answer inquiries about the WAVE program, or any other branches of the navy.
