

Scio Residents Vary Interests

Swallows, Humming Birds Arrive in North Linn 10 Days Later

SCIO—Plowing and seeding is progressing well in the Riverview district, according to Frank Frietag, who was in Scio on business Saturday. In some places, however, soil was getting too dry for best results in the field, as he stated he turned up dry earth from a depth of six inches. This is an unusual condition at this season of the year.

A troublesome boil on Frank Frietag's right foot was given medical attention by a local physician a few days ago. Frietag has been farming near Scio for many years.

Scio Odd Fellows Saturday night entertained Rebekah members and other guests at a 7:30 turkey dinner, followed by a picnic until a late hour.

Mrs. Clara Smith is convalescing at the home of her brother, John Frost, a few miles east of Scio. Her sister, Mrs. Edmiston of Carlton is assisting at the Frost home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hollingsworth visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bracher last week. Hollingsworth formerly was employed as a mechanic in a Lebanon garage and has been welding in the shipyards at Portland for several months.

J. N. "Bud" Bilyeu of the Bilyeu Den community ten miles east of Scio reports renewed activity in logging in that section of the foothills. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been expended in recent years in getting out building material, chiefly in war work, during the last three years. Much of this timber is trucked through Scio to nearby rail shipping points and to the Willamette river for water transportation to northern markets.

G. L. Flanagan, jr., of Scio, employed in Albany for a year, is recovering at Portland and plans to resume work.

Swallows arrived from the winter home in the south on March 12 this year, according to Dr. A. G. Prill, local ornithologist, who has maintained records in bird matters for many years. Humming birds started in from South America five days later, the doctor states; both species were ten days to two weeks behind normal schedule.

Mrs. Kathryn Potts was treated by a local physician a few days ago for three fractured ribs, sustained in a fall at her home west of Scio.

J. T. Kindrick of the Harder berry and nut farm near Scio is recovering from severe burns as result of gasoline ignition in a farm vehicle.

Mrs. Rex Bilyeu and infant daughter, Bonnie Lynne, are home from an Albany hospital, where the daughter was born March 13, 1944. She weighed eight pounds and three ounces at birth. She is the second child and first daughter in the family.

Lester Kulken, US navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Kulken, is home on leave. He has been in the Aleutians for a year.

Alfred Boucher, US navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Boucher of Scio, is spending a week at his home here. He has been at Farragut for basic training, but expects to be transferred soon after his return.

Ed Holland and family of Salem recently visited Scio relatives and friends. Holland plans, as soon as practicable, to resume his work as Scio rural mail carrier, having undergone major surgery at Salem a month ago.

Mrs. M. D. Zander was on jury duty for two cases in circuit court at Albany last week.

M. D. Zander, for several years an employe of a local mill company, and captain of the Scio unit of Oregon state guard since its organization two years ago, plans to file early next week as a candidate for republican nomination for sheriff of Linn county.

He seeks to succeed Herbert Shelton, democrat, who is serving his fourth term in the office. Shelton is from Scio and was elected in 1928.

Mrs. E. Hale and son, Donald, who recently was given a physical discharge from the navy, were in Albany a few days ago on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Galligher and two sons were in Scio recently as guests at the home of Mrs. Galligher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hale.
